Incendiaries Burn Two Residences and Several Frame Buildings.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ARGENTA (Ark.) Oct. 7.—As a sequel to the killing of John Lindsay, and the wounding of his son, Milton Lindsay, here, last night, presumbably by Garrett Colum and Charles Colum, negroes, H. Blackburn, a negro, 37 years of age, was lynched tonight, at 10 o'clock, at the corner of Sixth and Main streets.

MAY BE WRONG MAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Oct. 7.—A special to the Journal from Little Rock says:

"Blackburn, the negro taken from the jail by a mob at Argenta, tonight, and lynched, is not believed to have been the man wanted.

"The free bridge between this city and Argenta was covered with negroes tonight. Fully eight hundred deserted their homes in that city and came to Little Rock to spend the night.

"The leaders stated that they were afraid to remain in Argenta after dark, for fear of another outbreak by the whites.

PULPITS SEIZE LYNCHING TOPIC.

THE PASTORS OF NEW ORLEANS GRAPPLE WITH CRIME.

Dr. Beverly Warner, for One, Urges Action to Save the City from Present Shame and Possible Future Disgrace—Colored Preachers Pray in New York for Cordiality.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "An organization of citizens should be perfected in New Orleans at once, with nothing secret about its movements, having a twofold object; first, to destroy by legal methods the low dives and drinking places, where negro crimes are hatched and nourished, and where the beast in man is made to live; second, to so mold public opinion that the shame that fell upon Atlanta could not happen in New Orleans."

This was one of the pointed conclusions of Dr. Beverly Warner, rector of Trinity Church, in discussing the recent atrocious crimes committed by negroes upon white women, and the terrible revenge meted out by the citizens of Atlanta and Mobile, which he denounced as a shame to civilization.

The Atlanta and Mobile lynchings were the themes in many pulpits today.

PRAYED FOR CORDIALITY.

COLORED PASTORS' PROBLEM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—Pursuant to an appeal issued recently by Bishop Alexander Walton of the African Zion Methodist Episcopal Church, prayers were said for more cordial relations between the white people and the negroes of the Southern States. In some instances the racial problem formed the theme of the pastors' sermons. In his appeal to negro preachers to make a special prayer in all the churches in the country today, Bishop Walton declared that recent race riots in the South have given evidence that the whites were attempting to degrade and destroy ten million American citizens.

FOREIGN CONTROL INTACT.

Sir Robert Hart Anticipates no Interference With Chinese Customs' Arrangement.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 7.—Sir Robert Hart, director-general of the Chinese imperial customs, has issued a circular to the foreign colony here saying that he has received assurances that his status with regard to Chinese customs will not be changed and that he is satisfied there will be no undue interference with foreign control of the customs.

According to a letter received at London from Sir Edward W. Grey, the British Secretary for Foreign Affairs, to the China association, the government has deemed it advisable to accept China's verbal assurances in the matter of the retention of Sir Robert Hart as director of customs and has placed these assurances on record. The Chinese association and some London newspapers contend that this constitutes a deliberate rebuff and that Great Britain has insisted upon written assurances.

IGNORE "MURPHY ORDERS."

Gotham Gamblers Continue in Full Blast Despite Authoritative Orders.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] From a source that once might have been considered authoritative, went orders on Saturday to the gamblers and poolroom men of the city to close down. As a result, the gambling houses were in full operation on Saturday night.

The gamblers spoke today of the orders as "Murphy orders." They said that by closing down the town now, it can be shown that the Mayor is taking extraordinary steps to revenge himself upon some one. The move will fail.

One Signed Bad Paper With Fictitious Names and the Other Got the Money from a Bank—Woman Is Apprehended in the Act—Husband Taken Later.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Oct. 7.—Two persons, claiming to be David M. Baer and wife, are in the City Jail, charged with forgery. The man confesses to having signed a fictitious name to four $15 checks on a Phoenix bank, and the woman confesses to having passed them. The woman was apprehended in the act, and the man was arrested later. The checks and money were recovered.

It is claimed the first offense was prompted by extreme need, but papers in their pockets lead to the suspicion that the two are professionals and have worked Salt Lake, Denver and on down the Santa Fé line to El Paso, Tucson and Phoenix.

The assumed name on the checks is Charles W. Walker, indorsed to the wife. The name signed is S. J Keister.

INFANTRY IN CUBA.

Four Battalions Arrive, First to Land Under Present Occupation.

Spanish Organ Declares Rule "Bureaucratic"—Deplores Our Attitude.

Protests Against America's "Absorbent, Unpolitic Conduct."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HAVANA, Oct. 7.—The first landing of American soldiers in the present occupation of Cuba was accomplished today with marvelous promptness, and tonight five hundred men of the Fifth United States Infantry and 350 men from the second battalion of engineers arrived here this afternoon with 400 men on board. They will be sent out to the camp early tomorrow.

Today Gen. Frederick Funston established headquarters at Marianao, convenient to his command. L. W. Waller, commanding the marines, has been ordered to report to Gen. Funston, and the entire force of regulars and marines will be under Gen. Funston's command until the arrival here next Tuesday of Gen. Franklin Bell, who will direct the distribution of the forces throughout the island.

DISEMBARK QUICKLY.

Within an hour from the time that the Sumner came alongside the railroad wharf the disembarking had been completed, and the 850 men composing the Second and Third battalions of the Fifth had been transported on street cars direct to the camp. Their equipage and supplies were taken on freight cars by another route.

The movement was so skillfully handled that the men prepared their midday meal from their own rations. The men are in good condition and are pleased with their camp and its pleasant surroundings.

DISARMING PROGRESSES.

The disarming of the former insurgents went on much better today. Reports from members of the Disarmament Commission, in various provinces, indicate that the trouble which was threatened yesterday may be avoided, although ex-rebels and volunteers in a few towns in Santa Clara province are still disinclined to be the first to disarm, and it is feared that American soldiers will have to be sent to back up the demands of the Disarmament Commission. Havana, Santiago, Pinar del Rio, Matanzas and Puerto Principe provinces are practically clear of rebels and show no signs of trouble.

Gov. Taft, Assistant Secretary of State Bacon, and Gen. Funston are gratified at the situation and believe the difficulties in Santa Clara province will be overcome in a few days. So confident are they, that Gov. Taft and Secretary Bacon say they will be able to start for home next Saturday.

Gov. Taft will spend the time after Tuesday in familiarizing his successor, Charles E. Magoon, with the situation. Mr. Magoon is expected here on that day.

TO SETTLE MAYORSHIP.

Gen. Nunez and American Consul-General Steinhart were sent by Gov. Taft to Havana province today to settle a difficulty arising from two or more claiming the post of Mayor of that town.

Señor Moineda, a Liberal, was elected to the office, but took to the woods at the beginning of the revolution and Gov. Nunez appointed a man named Bazan to be Military Mayor.

Moineda returned today and claimed the office. Gov. Taft and Gov. Nunez held a conference and decided to recognize Moineda's claim.

The battleships Indiana and Kentucky will leave tomorrow for New England.

PROTEST OF PRESS.

OPINION OF "DOWNFALL."

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HAVANA, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Editorial utterances of the local press are significant of the popular opinion on the downfall of the republic, and the American provisional government.

The Spanish organ, La Union Espanola, says pointedly:

"We are Spaniards, and aside from being noble, frank and sincere, we feel the necessity of uttering our protest once more against the American nation for the absorbent, unpolitic and anti-humane conduct which it is observing toward the people of Spanish origin in the New World, and especially toward the island of Cuba, the annexation of which within a long or short time it has decreed.

"The republic of Cuba was not a republic of producers, but one of bureaucrats. Had there been places for some hundreds more the Constitution might have remained intact. The Governor-General's investigations will soon convince him that the true revolution against Spain resulted from excessive taxation and bad administration.

"The merchants and manufacturers now pay heavier tribute than ever—heavier, too, than in any other country in the world—and in this country, which Marti dreamed was to be a republic, a larger bureaucratic body is maintained than in any other country with four times the number of inhabitants and these receive higher salaries than are paid in the most flourishing nations of the earth.

"Let the new Governor-General take note of all this; let him promptly lay an energetic hand upon the offices of Havana's city government, Treasury Department, the Internal Revenue Department, the Customhouse and the Department of Public Works and Sanitation, and he will see quickly this same pen which so severely censured the Washington administration will applaud the government of intervention."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEWPORT NEWS (Va.) Oct. 7.—With two squadrons of headquarters troops and bands of the Fifteenth Regiment aboard, the United States transport Panama sailed this morning for Havana.

REBELS ATTACK POLICE.

TROUBLES IN GUINES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HAVANA, Oct. 7.—A delegation from the town of Guines came into Havana tonight and reported to Gen. Funston that a party of Asbert's disbanded rebels had entered Guines and attacked some policemen who have been suspended without pay since the arrival there of American marines. Several policemen were badly cut with machettes and the rebels threatened to kill the entire force. The people of Guines are in a state of considerable alarm. Gen. Funston ordered Capt. Phelan of the marines to cooperate with Capt. Figuerra of the Rural Guards, and to exercise a special vigilance tonight in view of a negro ball which is being held in Guines.

FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT.

CUBAN LEAGUE IS FORMED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HAVANA, Oct. 7.—The preliminaries of an organization to be called the Good Government League of Cuba were begun this afternoon at a meeting of Americans, Cubans and others, at which resolutions were passed to the effect that the purpose of the association should be "the promoting by all legitimate means and the maintenance of a permanent, stable and lawful government, competent to administer justice, insure domestic tranquility, promote the general welfare and insure the blessings of liberty to all the inhabitants of the islands."

It was declared that the league intended to adopt whatever means were deemed wisest by the membership, which is intended to be representative of all classes and sections and not to be committed to any line of action until it is decided what is most conducive to the objects named. While there was no expression to that effect the movement generally is regarded as pointing eventually toward some more definite degree of American control or oversight in Cuban affairs which is vouchsafed by the Platt amendment.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BOSTON, October 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Wholesale importations of pretty young women from Europe by Mormon agents through Boston to become wives of the Mormon faithful continue, and no way is apparent to prevent it. None of the young women are over 25, and the ages range nearer 20. All deny any intention of entering polygamous relations.

The elders, when questioned, admit their belief in polygamy, but declare it is not now practiced, and their converts are made to understand so. Few married people are being brought over.

SENATOR PLATT'S WIFE SAYS DEEDS ARE "DISTORTED."

Whatever Differences There May Be Between Her Husband and Herself Affect Themselves Alone, Says She—Does Not Admit Doings That Interest Public Curiosity.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "I have been misrepresented," said Mrs. T. C. Platt. "Everything I have done, everything done by those surrounding me has been distorted and placed in an unreal light. I have been made to appear a virago, a woman seeking to force her company upon her unwilling husband.

"Whatever differences there may be between the Senator and myself, and I do not admit that there are any, affect us alone, and it is not a matter for public curiosity. If the Senator chooses to remain in New York and I here I do not see that the public need worry."

"But it is said, Mrs. Platt, that the Senator objected to your close association with certain persons, including Hedges, your coachman, and that you retaliated by bringing a suit for divorce, naming four co-respondents. Is this true?"

"I decline to answer."

COUNT IS EXPOSED.

Bogus-Titled German in Trouble.

Wife in Poverty, He Plans a Second Marriage, but Is Discovered.

Auto Mishap Punctures Patent to Nobility, and He Is Badly Entangled.

Sues for Damages, and Is Sued, but Yellow "Diamond" Worries Him.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] All is over between "Count" Charles Mlarry De Lukacsevics, late of Hungary, and his former fiancée, Miss Geraldine M. Rendall of this city, as the result of the publication of an account of an auto accident in which both were severely injured.

This mishap punctured his patent of nobility, ignited the resentment of his wife, who is living in poverty, and sent him skidding into the courts. This woman, who bears his name, is suing him for a divorce, and Miss Rendall's parents demand damages on account of the personal injuries which their daughter sustained by being thrown from the auto.

WANTS THAT DIAMOND.

Incidentally the "Count" is talking mostly of replevining a yellow "diamond" which the American girl now possesses, and is wondering if she will sue him for the fractious auto which he fears she will claim.

All these things which conspired to bring his wooing to so abrupt a close, caused the "Count" to write in red fluid drawn from veins in which only blue was supposed to flow, that he was a broken-hearted man.

One evening the "Count" called—it was on June 30—and obtained permission to take Miss Rendall for a short ride. He was driving, when the auto crashed into a trolley car at Tremont and Crotona avenues.

Miss Rendall was thrown into the street and severely injured, receiving a scalp wound and numerous contusions. Her escort was pinned under the auto from whence he was removed by the bystanders.

SUES THE COMPANY.

On account of the accident he is suing the Union Railway Company for $5000 for hurts received. He had described himself to the reporters as "a Hungarian Count," and as a former officer in the Austrian army.

His interesting and readable account of himself and the accident and duty was printed in the newspapers of June 29, where it attracted the attention of the Hungarian colony.

Many of his fellow-countrymen were surprised to learn that he was a Count, and others, who knew his wife, expressed their astonishment that he was about to marry again.

FINDS HIS WIFE.

Mrs. Rendall, Geraldine' mother, received information on the day after the accident that "Count's" wife was living in the Hungarian quarter.

"I went to see her at once," said Mrs. Rendall today, "and I found her at No. 36 St. Mark's Place. She is a worthy woman living in comparative poverty and supporting herself by dressmaking. I subsequently caused an investigation to be made in Hungary, where I ascertained that the Count had married her in January, 1900, and that there had never been any divorce."

FOUND DEAD IN BRUSH.

FORT WORTH (Tex.) Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The body of an unknown man was found in a clump of underbrush south of the city limits this afternoon. It is believed the man was demented, and that he wandered into the woods, where finally he died of starvation. He was a German, about 50 years of age. He is thought to have been a sailor, as he had a number of tattoos on both arms.

The child was thrown several feet, and was badly hurt.

WASHINGTON.

FIXES CONTROL OF DENATURED.

Authority Takes Up Congress' Law on Alcohol.

Will Engage to Oversee the Great Competition.

Heat, Light and Power Are Materially Involved.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—Mr. Yerkes, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, today issued the departmental regulations controlling the making of denatured alcohol, the handling of the same and its uses.

These regulations follow and render effective a law enacted by Congress at its last session, which provides for the withdrawal from bond, tax free, of domestic alcohol, when the same is rendered unfit for beverage or liquid medicinal uses by the admixture of suitable denaturing materials, and the denatured article in the arts and industries and for fuel, light and power.

The law becomes effective January 1, 1907.

This legislation is in harmony with similar enactments adopted by nearly all foreign countries.

Mr. Yerkes said:

"The prime object to be attained by this type of legislation is to furnish, for purely domestic uses, and also for what might be called industrial domestic purposes, heat, light and power, cheap alcohol, with the hope thereby that there will be a reduction of expenses in the departments.

WILL BE COMPETITOR.

"This denatured alcohol will be a competitor with illuminating oil, gasoline and coal. It will also furnish manufacturers who use alcohol in the products of their factories alcohol free of internal revenue tax now levied on the same. This tax amounts to about $2 per wine gallon on alcohol at 180 deg. proof.

"It is believed great benefits will be derived by the people by this legislation, and this certainty was the desire of Congress.

"Under the regulations now issued, alcohol of 180 deg. proof is freed from the tax of $1.96 per wine gallon, after being denatured by the use of either some general denaturing material, or some specific magerial adapted especially to the uses of certain manufacturing interests. There will, therefore, be two classes of denatured alcohol: first, that styled 'completely denatured,' which will pass into general use for general consumption, can be purchased at stores without limiting regulations as against the private consumer, and, second, 'specially denatured' in which the material demanded by the needs of manufacturing interests will be regarded, and with limitations as to the use of this class, confining it to the special manufacturing industry for which it is prepared.

STRICT SURVEILLANCE.

"This specially denatured alcohol will be kept under strict surveillance and governmental supervision.

"For the completely denatured article, ten parts of wood or ethyl alcohol and one-half part of benzine will be added to 100 parts of ethyl alcohol; in other words, in every 100 gallons of ethyl alcohol will be added ten gallons of wood alcohol and one-half gallon of benzine.

"Denatured alcohol will supplant very largely the consumption of wood alcohol for both domestic and manufacturing purposes, as it will be cheaper.

"While the price of the completely-denatured product cannot now be definitely stated, it is believed it will not be more than 35 cents a gallon.

"The manufacturers will be required to furnish the desired formula, together with a sample of the denaturing agent produced, according to the formula and a sample of the pure alcohol, denatured with this special agent. These will all be thoroughly examined in the departmental laboratories, and if it is decided that the requirements of the law are met, then their use will be permitted."

POLITICAL.

HEARST WAVERS IN HIS MIND.

WOULD REPUDIATE MURPHY, BUT NOT NOMINATION.

For a Time Yesterday, Says a New York Source, the Prospects Were for a Statement Reading the Boss Out of the "Democratic Party." Cardinal Gibbons Finds Timber.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] W. R. Hearst wavered all day, today, between a strong desire to repudiate his deal with Charles F. Murphy and a fear of the consequences if he should try to break his alliance with the Tammany chieftain who nominated him in Buffalo.

There were times when bulletins of Hearst's mental condition seemed to indicate that a statement reading Murphy out of the "Democratic party" would certainly be forthcoming before the evening was over.

These alarming reports were succeeded by bulletins that a fresh vacillation had changed the situation, and that Murphy would escape the fate that has befallen Senator McCarren in Brooklyn.

The night passed without the expected renewal of the threats to send Murphy to Sing Sing, of which Hearst was so prolific last year.

CARDINAL FOUND CANDIDATES.

SIX WOULD BE PRESIDENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Cardinal Gibbons today delivered his first sermon since his summer vacation. There was a large congregation in the cathedral, and special music was rendered. He said, in part:

"Although two years will elapse before the next election, there are already several prospective candidates in the field. One evening, a few months ago, in Washington, I had the honor of conversing separately with six distinguished statesmen, all of whom are available candidates for the Presidency.

"I found them all in a receptive mood, and any one of them, in my judgment, would fill the office with credit to himself and with honor to his country."

WINNING LABOR VOTES.

HUGHES TAKES FROM HEARST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There were many indications today that Charles E. Hughes would split the labor vote, which has been conceded to W. R. Hearst by politicians of all parties. It is said that the indorsement of Hearst by the Independent Labor party by no means insures him the following he had when he ran for Mayor.

Signs were not wanting at yesterday's meeting of the Central Federated Union, that the Hearst movement which created such fervor among the laboring men last year, was now far less popular. Three different attempts were made today to arouse sentiment for Hearst, but each met with a prompt rebuff.

The Prohibitionists and the Hearst Independence League by Moran's nomination have gained the necessary 3 per cent. for participation in the election.

POLITICS WARMING.

CAMPAIGN MORE LIVELY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON (D. C.) Oct. 7.—Nominations having been made by the party conventions in various States the political campaign is expected to develop greater activity and become more interesting this week.

In addition to the Congressional contests, governors are to be elected in several States, among them California, New York and Massachusetts.

In New York and Massachusetts the Democrats have nominated candidates who were opposed by certain conservative leaders in the party, creating sensations in the States not unlike that in national politics, when Bryan was nominated for the Presidency. For in each of those States the canvass undoubtedly will be extremely active and will be followed with intense interest from now until election.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ITHACA (N. Y.) Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "You are to refuse to vote for the man who has not lived up to the highest standards of righteousness, universal peace, and the 'square deal,' who has set class against class, no matter what platform he stands on, or what promises he has made," declared Dr. Lyman Abbott to the Cornell students, in a sermon in Sage Chapel this morning.

The obvious reference to the candidacy of William R. Hearst for Governor made a profound impression. Dr. Abbott was preaching on "The Kingdom of God on Earth."

MACON (Ga.) Oct. 7.—Quiet reigns in this city, tonight, and no further trouble is expected. The negro, Fewes, who shot Adams and Solomon, was sent to Atlanta, this afternoon, for safe-keeping. Adams and Solomon are in the hospital.

The militia is held in readiness, for fear of an emergency.

The mob succeeded in breaking into the jail at a late hour, last night, but the negro had been placed in the barracks under heavy military guard.

Fewes was wounded, but will recover. Another negro was shot through the leg last night, while the attack was being made on the prison.

BLOOMINGTON (Ind.) Oct. 7.—The negro, Edward Jones, who last night shot and killed Alfred Stevens, a lunch wagon man, was safely taken to the Jeffersonville Penitentiary early today.

Last night's mob was again in evidence early this morning, and it was only by the determined efforts of the Sheriff and his deputies that the men were kept from battering down the jail doors.

DOWIE'S LATEST VISION.

John Alexander Dowie has called off his Mexican colonization project as a result of a vision which he claims to have had, and in which he says he conversed with the Deity for three hours. He says he was awakened from a deep sleep by a blinding white light, which then resolved itself into the vision. As a result Dowie's fight for the control of Zion will be confined to Chicago.

SACRAMENTO MAN SHOOTS A DRUNK MAN FOR FOOTPAD.

Says He Drew Gun Believing Hold-up Imminent—Victim Falls Forward, With Bullet Hole in Brain. Slayer Gives Up to Authorities, and Tells Reasons for Fatal Blunder.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 7.—Early this morning, while Oscar Herold was going home from a whist party, he saw a man standing by or against a tree, near the corner of Tenth and G streets.

He says he stopped and asked the man what he was doing there. Getting no answer, Herold drew a revolver and fired at the man, who did not move. Directly he fired again, and the man pitched forward on his face with a bullet in his forehead. He died two hours later in the Receiving Hospital.

The dead man is Charles W. Theiss, who was head clerk in the Postal Telegraph Company's office in this city. Theiss had attended a political meeting at Oak Park, where it is said, he drank too much. He came back to Sacramento, stopped in a saloon until 2 o'clock, and then started home. It is said he wandered out of his way a couple of blocks, and finally leaned up against a tree, where he evidently fell asleep.

Herold, who is a brother of Architect Rudolph Herold of this city, says he was held up once near Tenth and G streets, and robbed, and that when he saw Theiss leaning against the tree he thought he was a robber, and shot him.

Herold gave himself up to the police, and at noon today was released on bail in the sum of $10,000.

Theiss lived here with his mother. He was well thought of and was quiet and inoffensive. He had worked for the telegraph company ever since a lad, and had worked up to a position of trust.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 7.—Korekyo Tammahasi, special financial agent of the Japanese government, vice-president of the Bank of Japan and president of the Yokohama Specie Bank, has arrived here. In an interview he said he would remain in London until the 6-per-cent. Japanese external loans were converted.

The present moment seemed unfavorable for this operation. Therefore, it was impossible to say when the intended issue of a loan of $125,000,000 for this purpose would be made.

CHINESE DID NOT APPLY.

Southern Manchuria Railroad Bonds Oversubscribed Despite Her Lack of Funds.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Oct. 8.—Dispatches from Tokio declare that the bonds of the Southern Manchuria Railroad have been oversubscribed many times, but that there was no Chinese application.

Explaining this fact, the Peking correspondent of the Times says that although China was invited to participate, she did not do so because there were no funds available for the investment, and none could be had without recourse to a foreign loan, which policy and the fear of foreign complications both forebade.

The railroad, therefore, the correspondent says, although nominally Chino-Japanese would be exclusively Japanese, and give Japan effective control of Southern Manchuria.

The car is the same as that in which A. E. Rowley of Berkeley was killed, some time ago. The car was rented to Condon, who is a retired capitalist and who formerly lived in Tonopah, by Dr. Rowley of Berkeley.

Disappeared from Home Twenty Years Ago.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] George W. Gillett, banker, who disappeared from Palma, Mich., twenty years ago, died last week in the Kent county poorhouse, a broken-hearted and penniless man.

In a neighboring city were relatives eager to find him, and in Palma, an aged sister had kept up constant search for him, but none of his relatives knew Gillett's whereabouts until he died. He gave his sister's address only with his last breath. His original disappearance was due to his mind giving away through grief over his wife's death.

PORTLAND (Or.) Oct. 7.—A special to the Oregonian from Hillsboro states that Mrs. Carrie M. Snyder arrived there today and positively identified a skeleton found on October 1, a few miles from here, as that of her husband, the son of the Kansas City banker who was here for almost a year. Description of dental work done on the husband's teeth corresponds to minutest detail with that found in the grave. Mrs. Snyder refuses to discuss her husband's death, or to assist the authorities in any way in ferreting out the mystery.

FIRE DESTROYS RAILROAD SHOPS.

ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS' WORTH OF LOSS AT GLOBE, ARIZ.

Experienced Man Left to Fill a Defective Tank With Oil, Holds Light Too Close and Causes an Explosion—Is Blown Off and the Burning Fluid Flies Out.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GLOBE (Ariz.) Oct. 7.—Fire, resulting from the combustion of oil gas in the tank of a locomotive this morning destroyed the Gila Valley, Globe & Northern Railroad's roundhouse with four engines and an oil tank, the machine shops and a car containing A car of merchandise was also burned.

It is said of the engine that was to have left outgoing passenger train was being filled with oil, and an inexperienced man, who had been left to do the work, took his lantern close to the manhole on top of the tank, to see how much oil was in it. Instantly there was an explosion, which blew the man off the tank and scattered burning oil in all directions.

The roundhouse was ablaze in a few minutes, and the fire quickly communicated to the machine shops. Owing to the intense heat and the closeness of the oil tank to the burning shop, it was impossible to get the fire apparatus into play.

It is estimated that the loss to the railroad will be $100,000.

The company has five engines still in the roundhouse. The most serious loss to the railroad company is the machine shop. The local fire company did good work in confining the flames spreading from the residence property.

LARGEST FIRES YET RAGING.

HUNDREDS OF MEN FIGHT THE FLAMES NEAR SALINAS.

Suspended in United Effort to Check Conflagration—Blaze Is Said to Have Swept Twenty-Five Miles Down Coast to Lime Kilns—Will Be Heavy.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALINAS, Oct. 7.—Forest fires started in Wild Cañon, fourteen miles south of Monterey City eight days ago and that have been raging through the Palo Colorado, Garrapalos, Pfeiffer and Coney Creeks, are still unchecked.

Hundreds of men are fighting the flames, aside from saving ranch houses, but are making no headway.

Ed. Bateman, whose ranch is on Palo Colorado Creek, and who has been fighting out, said this morning that the fire has passed Notlesjes ranch twenty-four miles down the coast, and the lime kilns and was moving toward Sargent's ranch on the coast.

Many men have been suspended in the effort to keep them from being out trying to save sheep and cattle. Last night an effort was made to stop the fire by burning a space thirty feet wide at Bateman's, but the flames leaped the gap.

The fire reached the Santa Lucia forest reservation known as the Big Sur, and is sweeping toward Tassajara, eastward, and the Arroyo Seco southward.

Over a strip of land twenty-four miles long, and covering nearly a mile wide, has been burned over. The loss will be very heavy.

FIREMEN DID NOT STRIKE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 7.—The threatened strike of the bakers of Paris, because of the enforcement of the Sunday regulation, did not occur. The day passed without incident, the presence of the police and troops throughout the day of 4000 special police and 800 of the Republican Guards patrolling before the bakeries, as well as detachments of armed infantry posted at the various police stations, the city had more or less the appearance of being under military law.

Points of Law.

SOME RECENT DECISIONS OF THE COURTS.

[SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

Although no action will lie against an individual for alienating from a woman the affections of her husband, it is held, in Randall vs. Longstorf (Wis.) 3 L.R.A. (N. S.) 470, that she may maintain an action against several for conspiracy to do so and to prevent her from securing a divorce for his desertion, where the object is breach of his marriage contract, which, under the statutes, is criminal, and where the statute makes combination to prevent another from doing any lawful act a criminal offense.

A pedestrian seeking to cross a highway is held, in Hennessey vs. Taylor (Mass.) 3 L.R.A. (N. S.) 345, not to be bound to be constantly on the lookout to ascertain if auto cars are approaching, under the penalty that, upon failing to do so, his negligence, if injured, must be conclusively presumed.

A broker who has fully performed his undertaking to find a purchaser for property is held, in Yoder vs. Randol (Okla.) 3 L.R.A. (N. S.) 576, not to be prevented from recovering his commission by the fact that the purchaser refuses to consummate the transaction because of a defect in the land owner's title to the property, where knowledge of such defect was not communicated by the employer to the broker at the time of entering into the contract of employment with him.

That a vendor is mistaken in the identity of land which he places in the hands of a broker for sale, so that he cannot make title to it, is held, in Arnold vs. National Bank (Wis.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 580, not to deprive the broker of his right to commissions if he finds a purchaser ready and willing to take the property offered.

Reasonable care under the circumstances, and not great care, is held, in Raymond vs. Portland R. Co. (Me.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 94, to be the measure of the duty of a street-car company to ascertain a passenger's desire to alight from a car where it stops preparatory to crossing a railroad track.

The liability of a railroad company as common carrier for baggage coming into its station is held, in Chesapeake and O. R. Co. vs. Beasley (Va.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 183, not to be terminated where it retains the baggage to weigh it, and within an hour thereafter locks it in the station for the night, the passageway in the meantime being so blocked by freight cars that it would be practically impossible to remove it, and it is destroyed by fire during the night.

The right of a man to recover damages for mental suffering because of a carrier's delay in delivering the baggage of his intended wife, which causes postponement of the wedding, is denied in Eller vs. Carolina and W. R. Co. (N. C.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 225.

The wrongful act of a stranger causing injury to a passenger on a street car is held, in Bevard vs. Lincoln Traction Co. (Neb.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 318, not to be sufficient to make the carrier liable, unless it might reasonably have been foreseen and guarded against by it.

Where it was the custom of a railway company, at a given station, to allow persons to get into its cars for the purpose of assisting passengers boarding the same, and to give signals before starting the train in order that they might safely alight, the company was held, in Hill vs. Louisville and N. R. Co. (Ga.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 432, not to be liable for the death of one who boarded its train for such purpose, and who, in attempting voluntarily to alight after the train had started without the usual signals, was, by a sudden jerk of the train, thrown under it and killed, when none of the employés of the company had notice of the purpose of the deceased in boarding the train, or of his intention to alight therefrom.

One who attempts to leave a car upon learning that it is not the one which he intends to take is held, in Robertson vs. Boston and N. Street R. Co. (Mass.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 555, not to possess the right of a passenger, and the carrier is held to be bound to exercise toward him ordinary care only.

The liability of a carrier for injury to a passenger by the breaking of a window pane by a missile thrown in sport by the conductor of another car at the motorman in charge of the one upon which the passenger is riding is sustained in Hayne vs. Union Street R. C. (Mass.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 605.

IN THE SMOKING COMPARTMENT

When the limited left Philadelphia the financial magnate was enthroned in the best chair in the smoking compartment. He was a second-rate magnate, or he would have been riding in a special car, but, as greatness is always relative, to the callow youth whose privilege it was to sit at his feet—literally, as well as figuratively, for the magnate had his pedals on the cushion by the youngster's side—he was the brightest shining light in the financial firmament.

"You have gone on and on," said the youth, with adoration in his eyes and in his voice; "you have gone on and on, Mr. Stoneman, achieving one triumph after another, crushing your rivals and your enemies, organizing and consolidating until it would seem that you have no more worlds to conquer. Tell me, Mr. Stoneman," he asked with eager interest, "tell me, have you not still some strong, consuming ambition, some great victory yet to be won?"

The financial magnate smiled benignly on the youth, and then carefully lighted the Havana filler he had been hoarding.

"Yes, my boy, I have," he replied, after the pause which he considered necessary to give weight to his words. "Now that we are here alone, I will admit to you, confidentially, you understand, that, with years and achievement, has come to me one overmastering desire, one that haunts me sleeping and waking, and yet, my boy," he continued, with a note of unutterable sadness in his voice; "and yet, with all my wealth and all my power, I greatly fear this one remaining ambition of my life can never be realized."

"What can it be, sir?" cried the youth. "What is there on earth impossible of attainment by you?"

"My boy," replied the financier, and his words were tremulous with passion, "you would hardly believe it, but this great desire which still consumes me, is not to merge all the railroads of the country into one gigantic combination; it is not to engineer a corner of all the world's wheat; it is to be able to eat a plate of pancakes and maple syrup without suffering the tortures of the damned afterward."

"Right you are, old man," butted in an irreverent traveling man, who had entered just in time to hear the closing words of the magnate's confession. "As Solomon might have said, 'What profiteth a man if he gain the whole world and loses his digestion?' I know. I've been through the mill. Why, I've seen the time, sir, when I was afraid to eat boiled rice. I used to dodge when I saw a delicate, harmless little chicken sandwich, and, as for such things as roast beef and lamb chops, I'd no more touch 'em than I would pickled clams. I took a barrel of digestive tablets, took 'em before meals an' after meals an' between meals. They never did me no good, yet I was afraid to miss 'em, thinkin' it might be worse without 'em, if that was possible. I tried all the dietic fads on the list, from raw food to no breakfast, and every continental one of 'em left me back of where I started. But I beat the game all right, all right. I settled up with little Mary for keeps, and now, sir, I can eat ten-penny nails or even railroad doughnuts without a reproach from below."

"Would you mind telling me how you did it?" asked the magnate humbly.

"Not in the least," replied the traveling man cheerfully, "not in the least, but it's a heroic remedy. You see, I made up my mind that I wasn't goin' to be a slave to my stomach any longer, so I formulated a declaration of independence, and I says to it: 'Now, sir, I'm tired of bein' bossed around by you like I was a baby, and it's goin' to stop right here. After this, you've got to take what I give you, an' you've got to dispose of it. I'm goin' to give you just what I want to give you, an' if you don't like it, you can kick all you dern please.' That's the way I talked to it, and it wasn't a bluff, either. I had got to the point where I didn't give two winks whether I woke up the next mornin' or not; in fact, I'd a little rather not, an' I'd concluded that I might as well have a little fun out of the finish.

"You know, of course, that the stomach is a muscle, an', like all other muscles, it gets weak if it ain't used and gets strong if it is. It has to have exercise. Fill it up with clam juice an' rice puddin' an' snow flakes an' prunes, an' such slop as that, an' it gets lazier and lazier, until, after awhile, it knocks off work altogether an' sets aroun' with its feet on the table, figertatively speakin', an' bosses the man that thinks he owns it. That's the way I was, an' I'll bet dollars to doughnuts that's the way you are now."

"You're right," said the magnate, with a sigh. "I can't take your bet, but I'd like to have some doughnuts."

"Well, have 'em, then," said the traveling man. "Go into the dinin' car and order a dozen if they've got 'em. It won't kill you, an' it'll give your stomach somethin' solid to rassle with, somethin' that'll make it take off its coat an' roll up its sleeves, figeratively speakin', an' get a move on itself. That's what it needs, sir—exercise. It don't do any good, at least not much good, to take off your shirt an' wave your hands aroun', or hop on one foot, or turn pinwheels or any such tommyrot as that. Any kind of exercise is all right. Just depends on what's the matter with you what kind of exercise you want to take. You wouldn't stand on your head for weak ankles, would you, an' you wouldn't try to cure the colic by runnin' a foot race, either. If there's anything wrong with your lungs you want to exercise 'em and if your stomach is out o' whack, that's the place to put in your gymnasium dxin's.

"And, my dear sir, you can say what you please about all the different kinds of exercising fads—an' there's nine hundred an' ninety-nine thousand of 'em, all more or less good an' all more or less bad—you can say what you please about these fads, but there's no exercise half as effective as good, honest work, an' that's just as true of your inside as your outside. That's the theory I worked on, an' I commenced by givin' my stomach somethin' to do that would keep it busy for awhile. I started with pickles."

"Oh, Lord!" gasped the magnate.

"Yes, sir, pickles. Just a good, big chunk o' dill pickles once a day. I was desperate, but I wasn't crazy, an' I wasn't goin' to overdo the thing. It made a terrible kick as it was, but I didn't give in. No, sir-ee, but I piled on more, gradually, you understand, makin' the work a little harder—a hunk o' cheese, a piece o' pie, a doughnut or two, an' gradually worked up to broiled lobster with ice cream."

"Sufferin' snakes!" exclaimed the plutocrat.

"That's right," the traveler went on, "an' you may believe me or not, but it's a fact just the same, that the more work I gave it to do the less it grumbled about it. That is, you understand, after it got to know that I meant business. It wasn't no parlor match, you understand. It was a regular rough-and-tumble, catch-as-catch-can, knock-down-and-drag-out fight for a few weeks, an' there was times, I can tell you, when I didn't know which was comin' out on top, me or it."

"I'm very much interested in sporting events," chipped in the red-headed man, who had found his accustomed place in the corner during the conversation, "and if you don't mind, I'd like to hear a report of one of your bouts by rounds."

"Didn't keep any account of rounds an' didn't have any referee," replied the traveling man, "but I'll give you one little example that was a mighty lucky one for me. I was tied up to a man in Chicago I was tryin' to sell a big bill o' goods to. It was a very important deal an' there were other fellows after it. I couldn't afford to let my man get away from me, an' I had to keep him entertained until the deal was closed. I took him to the theater, and after the show led him over to the swellest restaurant in Chicago. He was one of these rugged countrymen who can eat carpet tacks and be happy over it, and he went down the bill of fare and into my pocket, clean to the bottom. The things that man eat was awful, and as he was one of the kind that have no sympathy for a weak stomach, I had to keep him company from soup to demi tasse. I didn't have my interior arrangement entirely under subjection then, and before we lit our cigars I began to feel signs of comin' trouble. But I shut my teeth hard, said some cuss words to myself and started out with my man to take in the town. We got into a cab, but before we could get anywhere at all I was clean knocked out. I said I couldn't give you any count of rounds, but I can in this case, for there was only one. My customer was a good fellow. He hustled me to a hospital, stayed with me like a brick till the doctors brought me around, and before I was able to get out of bed I closed the deal with him. He told me then that he had about decided to trade with the other fellow until I turned up my toes.

"That was a close call, but I didn't quit the fight. I hung on like death to a sick kitten, an' I beat. Now, sir, I can eat anything that looks good to me in any sort of a combination, and little Mary never dares to whimper. You can do the same thing if you got nerve enough to stick it out."

"By Jericho," said the magnate, "I'll do it. I'm going into the dining car right now and eat pancakes and maple syrup if it kills me."

CAPT HATFIELD FATALLY SHOT.

NOTED OUTLAW A VICTIM OF HIS BROTHER'S HATRED.

Brothers Had Not Been on Good Terms for Some Time, and Began to Shoot at Each Other on Sight, One Using a Pistol, the Other a Rifle.

Cap Hatfield, the most noted outlaw of West Virginia, who for years has spread terror among natives along the West Virginia-Kentucky border, and especially to the McCoy family, is dying at Wharncliff, Mingo county, the result of two bullet wounds, inflicted by Dr. Elias R. Hatfield, his youngest brother, says a dispatch to the Baltimore American. The wounded man and the young doctor had not been on the most friendly terms for a few weeks, but why no one may never know. They met this morning on the railroad track, just below Wharncliff.

Cap, as usual, carried a Winchester rifle, while the younger Hatfield had a pistol. The men began shooting when within forty yards of each other. The young doctor proved the better marksman, and put two bullets directly through the chest of his outlaw brother. Cap is dying.

It is said that in his lifetime he killed eighteen men. For two years he had been running a "blind tiger," near Wharncliff, and was unmolested by revenue men, as all knew that to attempt to capture him meant possibly sure death.

Dr. Hatfield has surrendered to the Mingo authorities. He is 36, and a graduate of the Louisville, Ky., Medical College.

Capt. Hatfield has been the recognized head of the Hatfield family since the retirement of his brother, "Devil Anse" (Anderson.) The Hatfield family gained notoriety in its frequent and fatal encounters with the McCoy family in the mountains which lie between West Virginia and Kentucky. The number of Capt. Hatfield's victims is placed at eighteen. He has been convicted once only, and then merely of involuntary manslaughter, which brought him a year of imprisonment. From the peculiar methods of warfare in which the murders were done it appeared impossible to convict him of murder in the first degree. It did not seem just, in the opinion of the mountaineer jurymen, to hang a man where there was as much right on his side as on that of his victim.

The feud between the Hatfields and the McCoys, the latter family living over the border in Kentucky, had its initiative in a trivial matter, just as nearly all the Tennesee and Kentucky factional wars were conceived. In the remoteness of the mountains there never have been the influences that uplift—schools, churches and the iron hand of the law, often and surely displayed to the ends of justice.

Men lived by might, and to know those who fought, like any of the Hatfields or the McCoys, was to recognize the fact that in any well-governed community these warring spirits would have been model citizens. But as it was, tradition ruled that men should strike for their rights and their honor, and strike quick, and in this each generation has followed closely in the footsteps of its predecessor.

ALL ON ACCOUNT OF A HOG.

Long years ago one of Staytons, whose family is a branch of the Hatfields, quarreled with a McCoy about the ownership of two hogs, and, strangely enough, they went to the courts with their case. The matter was never legally adjudicated, for before it came to the trial the Stayton-Hatfield faction and the McCoys were at each other with knives and guns, and the long war was on. Men on either side were ambushed and killed or they met like duellists in the open and bit the dust. The bitterness was increased when one of the women of the McCoy tribe forsook her people, and went with one of the Hatfields, who already had a wife.

In 1882 there was a truce patched up that lasted many years. Love was the messenger of peace, the love of a McCoy for a Hatfield, and a most honorable attachment. Anson Hatfield, son of "Devil Anse" Hatfield and brother of "Cap" Hatfield, fell in love with Mary McCoy. The lovers were fine young mountaineers, and their attachment conquered the hatred between the two families. There was a marriage, at which every member on each side attended, and where hands were clasped, and it was agreed to let the past bury the past.

TRUCE AND THEN WAR.

This truce lasted until 1891, when the war broke out afresh and several murders resulted. The feeling was not so bitter for a time as before, and there was no extraordinary casualty until the latter part of 1895, when "Cap" Hatfield shot and killed John Rutherford and Henderson Chambers (McCoys) in the streets of Matewan, as the result of an election row. Hatfield and his twelve-year-old stepson, Joseph Glenn, were pursued into the mountains by Elliott Rutherford, brother of John, who finally wounded Hatfield. The latter then stopped, took careful aim and shot his pursuer through the heart.

Hatfield was protected by his father, "Devil Anse," in the Hatfields' fort, deep in the recesses of the mountains, and was not dislodged from his stronghold until a sheriff and his posse blew the place up with dynamite. All hands escaped, and it was not until many months later that Hatfield was caught. His son was standing guard over their little camp when Sheriff Keadle and fifty armed men surprised them. Hatfield was asleep, and when awakened the officers of the law were upon him. He surrendered and was placed in jail at Logan.

After a visit from his wife one day he cut his way out of jail with a hatchet and escaped. He was eventually recaptured, was tried and sentenced to a year in jail. There were a dozen murders in the feud during the time of his escape and trial, and after he had served his term and was out he shot and killed David Kenny. For this he was arrested and once more he escaped.

Then he went his way to do more deeds of violence and became a fugitive from justice.

KILLINGS BY WHOLESALE.

In the meantime the other members of the Hatfield gang had died peacefully, had been killed or were in prison, and the McCoys, who had suffered heavily at the hands of their hereditary enemies, had concluded to stay within their own State.

In 1887, Jefferson McCoy, a cousin of the murdered man, was waylaid and shot by Capt. Hatfield and Sim Wallace.

At an election in August, 1887, Louis Varney was beaten almost to death by Capt. Hatfield. The Hatfields took possession of and broke up the election.

The crowning tragedy was reserved for the night of January 1, 1888, when thirteen of the Hatfields surrounded the McCoy homestead and burned the house and contents, killing the sons and daughter. While the house was burning the father fired several shots with telling effect; three newmade graves were to be found in the Hatfield settlement, and a number were known to be wounded. After burying his dead, McCoy removed the surviving members of the family to Pikeville.

Early in 1897 most of the Hatfields having served their terms, came home, and "Devil Anse" reappeared at their head, in defiance of three true bills for murder in the first degree that had been found against him by the Pike county grand jury. "Devil Anse" was finally taken, after killing one man and wounding another, and lodged in jail to await trial. Some one smuggled a hatchet to him, and with this he chopped his way through a stockade eighteen inches thick. The escape was made between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning, and was not discovered until several hours later.

Recently the feud had been comparatively quiescent. Several times during its progress troops were ordered out by the Governors of Kentucky and West Virginia.

Maj.-Gen. Leonard Wood, U.S.A., commanding the Philippine division, is the subject of a complimentary article in El Mercantil, a Spanish newspaper published in Manila, from which we quote the following: "Gen. Wood, in the short time assuming command, has won the sympathies, not only of the officers and men serving under him, but also of the merchants and the taxpayers of the archipelago, by his energetic and constant activity in the defense and protection of the material interests of the country, a defense and protection which, by a strange caprice of fate, is in notorious contrast to the obstacles and impediments of every description placed in the road of the development of the wealth of the country by the civil government, as though this was its only mission on earth."

Police Judge Samuels of Oakland says that education and good advantages are no excuse for leniency towards a law breaker, but instead they make their possessor more culpable than would otherwise be the case.

"The Times" Party in Japan.

SENSATION CAUSED BY THE APPEARANCE OF SO MANY FOREIGNERS IN THE STREETS OF TOKYO.

[SPECIAL TO THE TIMES.]

TOKYO (Japan) Sept. 17, 1906.—The capital city of Japan has two millions of inhabitants, and two million five hundred thousand jinrikishas, or, at least, it appears so to the tenderfoot who makes his first appearance in the great city's congested streets. Think of the traffic of a mighty metropolis—the foremost city in the Empire of Japan—being carried on so largely without the use of horses, mules or other draft animals, save the wiry Japs themselves. The actual number of jinrikishas in use here is said to be the enormous number of 45,000. There is a tram system (electric,) to be sure, but the 'rikisha flourishes all the same, and keeps right on "doing business at the old stand." Heavy freight is carried by light vehicles and lighter cargadores, and the streets present a scene of curious activity and ceaseless jostle and bustle from morning to night. Occasionally small, wiry draft horses of the native breed are seen pulling enormously heavy loads, but the great volume of the traffic is by jinrikisha or kindred man-drawn vehicles of the most primitive type.

The appearance of The Times party in the Japanese capital was somewhat in the nature of a surprise and a sensation. An intelligent guide and interpreter told me that they had seen no party of foreign visitors so large "since the treaty was signed."

The excursionists traversed some of the principal streets in the forenoon, always by 'rikisha, visited a few of the multitude of shops to barter and buy, and assembled at the Imperial Hotel at 1:30 p.m. for tiffin, which was enjoyed by all.

Then the entire party, over 100 strong, took the same chronic vehicles for a long, circuitous and wonderfully picturesque ride in the direction of the Imperial Palace grounds, which lie in the environs of the city. The riders and the swarthy propellers of their frail carriages presented a picture curious to Americans, unique and striking. We all rode tandem, or appeared to, but the 'rikishas and their occupants got bunched up occasionally. The line, as it made a turn in the route here and there, presented a view that would have made a photographer, without his instrument, green with envy; but the day was dark and the sky leaden, so that no good pictures could be taken.

In the course of our unique journey we covered many miles, passing over a route which took us first to Hibiya Park, thence to the front of the Imperial Palace, thence on past the buildings of the finance department, past the entrance to the House of Parliament, the barracks of the Imperial Guard (cavalry,) the Government Normal School, the infantry barracks, the British Embassy, army hospital, German Legation, War Department, Foreign Office, Court of Justice, Naval Department, Parliament buildings, on to Shiba Park, and thence to the Shimabashi railway station.

On the plain fronting the Imperial Palace, which is located on a high eminence, artificially constructed, is the spot which was the scene of the assassination of the famous Prince Ilkamonkami, the old Daimyo, who concluded the treaty of peace on the part of Japan with Commodore Perry, acting on behalf of the United States. The Prince was then Prime Minister of Japan, and was assassinated by a member of the anti-foreign Samurai, because of opposition to the opening of the ports of the country to the entrance of foreigners. It was a famous incident, as history records, and was one of the very first battles for the "open door."

A statue erected to the memory of Commodore Perry stands near Yokohama, on the shore of what is known as "Mississippi Bay."

Fronting the Imperial Palace on the plain below, are to be seen many captured Russian siege guns, and up to a few weeks ago there was at the same point a great array of captured field pieces. The entire collection of captured ordnance was paraded upon the occasion of the triumphant review which took place on June 29 last. The lot embraced great siege guns from the walls of Port Arthur and scores of field guns captured from the Russians in the bloody battles fought in Manchuria, especially the heavy engagements of Pauting and Shaka. This display of captured artillery, together with the passing in review of over 80,000 Japanese soldiers of all arms—infantry, cavalry, artillery, pontoneres, sappers and miners, telegraph corps men, Red Cross Hospital men, Signal Corps men, etc.—presented an inspiring spectacle, enrapturing to the patriotic Japanese heart, and causing his little brown bosom to swell with pride. The spectators numbered more than 150,000 people of all classes and ages and of both sexes. It was Japan's great day, and Tokyo made the most of it. To avoid the crush all the streets in the vicinity of the parade ground were closed at 4 o'clock in the morning, though the grand review did not begin until 9 a.m. and closed at 1:30 p.m. in a blaze of glory, brilliant enough to put the "Rising Sun" out of business.

The Japanese want all foreigners to believe that they are not a warlike people, and that peace is their strong suit; yet her statesmen believe in the wise doctrine, "In time of peace prepare for war." Long before the outbreak of the war with Russia, the most ample preparations for that tremendous conflict were made by the Japanese government, and she went to the field "thrice doubly armed," saying nothing about the mooted point as to whether her cause was just.

At Tokyo troops of the regular establishment to the number of 30,000 are stationed, even in this time of peace. Of these, 6000 men compose the Imperial Guard (infantry,) and 2400 men the Imperial Cavalry. The horses used by the Imperial Cavalry are mainly of the native stock, a hardy little animal, but somewhat preposterous looking when measured by the imaginary standard of what the average civilian considers a sure-enough "war charger." They are an improvement over the Filipino ponies, however, upon which some our big American soldiers were mounted in the exigencies of the Tagalo insurrection. But the process of improving the Japanese cavalry mounts has been begun. This consists of crosses between American, Australian or English stallions and the hardly Japanese mares, and the product is said to make a very much better cavalry horse.

The artillery stationed in Tokyo embraces five regular regiments of 800 men each, or 4000 in all, with the requisite number of field guns. There are also numerous heavy siege guns emplaced at various points around the city.

The rifles in general use by the Japanese army are of home manufacture (of course,) and are known as the Murata type, having been invented by Col. Murata, since promoted to be lieutenant-general. The powder in use is the invention of Prof. Shimose. It is a powerful explosive, differing essentially from the powders used in the United States and Europe, and is claimed by the Japanese to be more effective.

The uniforms worn by the soldiers of all arms are made of khaki, with different trimmings to indicate the three principal arms of the service. The men of the Imperial Cavalry wear red caps with red chevrons on the sleeves; other cavalry wear yellow trimmings.

Tokyo requires and supports a metropolitan police force, with stations in ten different districts, and a chief headquarters located at Kojimachi, a central point. The force embraces about 4500 men altogether, which numbers the old gates which were constructed in the walls of the outer moat are being gradually removed. We passed through one of these quaint, solid old puntas on our big jinrikisha journey, which concluded the day, and then we returned to the railway station to Yokohama and the ship.

The trip was made over roads that would be a delight to a California automobilist, and the envy of the Los Angeles Driving Club. Though the terrain is broken and uneven, the grades are perfect, and the degree of cleanliness maintained is something the like of which I have rarely seen in any other land. The road is skirted in most of its course by beautiful forests of pine, cedar and other trees, some of which I did not recognize. The glacis of the moat and the slopes everywhere are covered with a luxuriant growth of grass, of which it might be truly said.

"How lush and lusty the grass looks—
How green!"

Yet there is no irrigation, I am told. The customary rainfall supplies all required moisture.

Passing by rail from Yokohama to Tokyo, I was struck by the evidence of intensive cultivation everywhere to be seen in the agricultural districts. There are no fences, but, instead, are to be found diminutive though imaginary dividing lines separating the different "ranchitos" from each other. These consist of paths some fifteen inches wide marking the property lines, and just wide enough for a single farmer to "ride the lines" on foot. The custom is very curious, yet it is said to be altogether effective here, and saves the enormous cost of fencing, which made such a drain upon the pioneer farmers in the Central and Western States of the Union. The system of land titles is claimed to be perfect, and conflicts between adjoining land owners or tenants are rare. There are no disputes, no feuds, no "land wars," and none of those serious and sometimes fatal conflicts which have too often marred the history of settling up the country in our own Far West. The lands are generally held by large land owners and let in small tracts to tenants, at a rate of hire which would paralyze an agricultural tenant in California. There is a government tax to pay besides. There is no evidence that the tenant gets rich with any degree of suddenness or certainty, but it is possible that the landlord rakes in the Golden Fleece—

From the lulled dragon and the Colchian shore.

The world need not be surprised if Japan, with her dense population, which increases like rabbit breeding, and her comparatively limited territory, may yet be caught casting covetous glances upon the wide and fertile domain of the Philippines.

IMPROMPTU SCENE.

Yiddish Actress Demands "Salary" on the Stage During Performance and Trouble Follows.

A stage drama was replaced last night by a play in real life, when Miss Fannie Lubashefsky refused to leave the stage in Mammoth Hall at No. 519 South Broadway until L. Sakin paid her $5 for three nights' work. Following the settlement of the bill, after the arrival of a half dozen police, a row was narrowly averted.

"Nut undill yo make payings of my weekly salary, vill the stage I leave," cried Miss Lubashefsky.

"Och Gott, make by the stage clear, un do not de play delay," retorted Sakin.

What was said afterwards could not be understood by the Yiddish interpreter, Miss Lubashefsky walked away from the footlights as soon as the officers appeared.

After declaring that he as the owner, and star of the "Wondering Soul," had entered into a contract with Miss Lubashefsky to play a certain number of nights and that the woman had broken her contract, he called the actress to the footlights and paid her.

Amid the hisses and cries of approval, marking the different factions in the audience, Sakin continued his part. No riot could stop him and when the police at last cleared the hall of disturbers, everything again became quiet.

COUGH ALARM FOR BURGLARS.

Inspector McDonaugh Routs a Robber by Coughing Real Loud.

If you hear a burglar attempting to enter your home and want to frighten him away, just cough; that would be the advice of H. H. McDonaugh, United States Custom Inspector, living at No. 1315 Calumet street.

Shortly after 11 o'clock last night Mr. McDonaugh heard a thief trying to get in the house by picking the lock of the front door. For a moment he was undecided what to do and then "the cough scare" flashed over his mind.

Every time the burglar worked his key Mr. McDonaugh coughed. At last he gave vent to a real loud cough—there was a scampering of feet and when the police arrived no thief was to be found.

FIRE FIGHTERS WIN VICTORY.

Beat Back the Flames Which Threaten Towns.

Eight Square Miles Burned Over Near Fernando.

Male Population Turns Out to Save Homes.

Victory came yesterday to the brave fire fighters who have waged a four-day battle for their lives and property in the San Fernando mountains. The great ring-worm of flame that has been eating its way along the ridges and down the luxuriant cañons of the watershed has been broken.

Blackened ruin drapes the proud peaks in mourning, but the towns of Fernando, Newhall and Chatsworth have been saved and it is believed that the scattered nests of fire that still lurk in several cañons will die out.

It will not be long until the blessed rain will come to wash away the stain and nurse forth a cloak of verdure. Years, however, will be necessary to replace the heavy undergrowth and restore the water supply of this important conservator.

Three large corporations have suffered, many ranchers are homeless, cattle and game have been burned to death and the fire will go down in history as a black annal in the records of this county.

Eight square miles were burned over yesterday northeast and northwest of Fernando and for several hours that town and Chatsworth were seriously endangered. Far up in the head of Wilson Cañon the intensity of the conflagration sweeping down from the ridge terrorized the inhabitants of Fernando. Men attired in their Sunday best did not even wait to put on old clothes, but grabbed bundles of dampened sacks, strapped them behind saddles and raced on horseback to the foothills and into the mountain fastness. Fifty or more followed on foot and in a short time Fernando was depopulated of its male residents.

PRAYERS FOR SAFETY.

Women and children watched by the hour with anxious eyes the advance of the leaping flames. At the churches ministers offered prayers for the safety of the men who were fighting the fire and for their success.

F. A. Powell and George Waite led the squad and the work through the long day proved effective. Wilson's Cañon was made short work of with its heavy growth of dry brush and the leaders soon realized that to stamp out the impetuous demon there, would be futile and attention was turned to Pacoima Cañon lying to the right. Fire breaks were slashed into the hillside and by the time the flames reached the side of the cañon the men were in a position to check it.

It was an exhausting, stubborn fight and for a long time it seemed that their efforts would prove futile. Yard by yard they were driven back. Their sacks had long since become dry and with every stamp into the flame would catch fire. A number of the men were forced to retreat or fall with suffocation.

Up at the head of the cañon—a point difficult to reach—the fire gained headway and jumped across the cañon and advanced down the east side of the cañon to hem the fighters in. Half the force rushed across and drove the line of flame back. It finally burned into a V and at the point of this the victory was won.

BEAT THE FLAMES.

Northwest of Fernando the fire crawled about in the foothills, but as it reached the edge of the flat land of the valley it could be quite easily stamped out. A burst of flame higher up on the mountain side proved more serious and raced off towards Chatsworth. H. Hubber and F. M. Wright, owners of a 4000-acre ranch in this vicinity led a party of fifty men who won there the second victory of the day.

While it is believed that the fire is now under control it cannot be said that the district is beyond all danger. As long as a curl of smoke mounts skyward from a cañon there is danger that a whole range may be swept with flame before night. Forest rangers and residents of the valley will have to keep close watch and labor hard in day and night shifts until no tongue of flame is left to threaten them.

An official of the Standard Oil Company stated last night that $40,000 is the minimum estimate on the amount of damage that has been done to company property, and added that it might amount to $50,000.

Division Superintendent Kellerman of the Pacific Light and Power Company, who directed the work of the squad of twenty men who went to the fire on a special train, Friday night, was called off duty Saturday by officials of the company. Kellerman fought the flames and directed restringing of wires all Friday night and most of Saturday morning. He wanted to stay on the ground until all danger was past, but the officials would not let him. They almost dragged him away, and he was married Saturday night.

"Nobody wants to get married worse than I do," he said, "but this is my duty."

Superintendent Edward A. Beck patted him on the back and brought him to Los Angeles, and he is now getting a much-needed rest on a happy honeymoon down where cool ocean breezes blow.

VENTURA NEWS LETTER.

VENTURA, Oct. 7.—Compilation of the registration of the county has been completed. There is shown a slight gain of votes over the election of two years ago, when there were 3915 names registered. This year the registration is 3971, a gain of 56 votes. Some of the precincts show remarkable increases, while there are losses in others. Of the 24 precincts in the county nine show gains, as follows: Oxnard, 101; Simi, 55; Briggs, 29; Sespe, 29; Piru, 20; Mound, 18; Canyada, 10, and Conejo and Bardsdale 2 each. Lee Kelley, who was injured while working on a hay press on Saturday last, near Oxnard, died yesterday at the County Hospital. Kelley's spine was injured, producing paralysis. He was a stranger in this county.

Mrs. Ygnacio Sepulveda and daughter, Conchita, of the City of Mexico, Mrs. Yndart of Santa Barbara, Mrs. Clotilda Sepulveda of Los Angeles and Mrs. N. M. Jones of Ventura, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. Camarillo at the Camarillo ranch.

The oil barge Santa Paula, from San Pedro, in tow of a tug, made her fourth trip yesterday to this port in a week. She took on each trip 8000 barrels of crude oil for the southern port.

Frank H. Olmstead, a well-known Los Angeles engineer, is engaged in work in this county for the Ventura County Power Company.

A twenty-one-pound sugar beet was among the productions of the Dixie Thompson ranch this season, where over 500 acres were planted to beets the average weight of which was about two pounds.

RIVERSIDE NEWS IN BRIEF.

RIVERSIDE, Oct. 7.—One of the quietest political campaigns ever known in Riverside county will be stirred into activity by the arrival, October 17, of James N. Gillett, the Republican nominee for Governor. George A. Knight will probably accompany him and be one of the speakers at the evening meeting to be held. The County Central Committee is planning for a rousing reception. Two days later Congressmen Smith and Needham will speak here.

Invitations have been issued for the marriage of Miss Irma Willard, a society girl of Riverside and daughter of Mrs. David Willard, to Hope Condie McCall of Minneapolis. Miss Willard is a favorite niece of Chancellor Day of Cornell University. The wedding will take place at the First Methodist Church, Riverside, October 25.

Another October wedding of especial interest in society circles will be that of Miss Lila Lett, daughter of W. P. Lett, to Harry Gordon Pattee. Mr. Pattee and Mr. Lett, the father of the bride-elect, are associated together in one of the oldest fruit shipping houses in the valley.

The new United Presbyterian Church, built in the shadow of the famous old pepper tree planted by Dr. Groves in the earliest days of Riverside, was dedicated today. The church is in the old English style of architecture and is of quaint and pleasing design.

REDLANDS PEN POINTS.

REDLANDS, Oct. 7.—Redlands postoffice receipts made another record-breaking jump the past month. A net gain of $420.32 for the month or $774.81 for the quarter. The total receipts for the past quarter were $6167.97. For the corresponding period last year the receipts amounted to $5390.97.

Reports from the Brookings mill at Fredalba are that the run of the mill for the season will be 15,000,000 feet of lumber. The mill will run until December. The daily run is now from 50,000 to 60,000 feet a day.

Nature study is to be taken up in a practical way this season in the public schools. One grade which is about to take up the study of the "Village Blacksmith" has paid a visit to a local blacksmith shop and another grade which will soon take up the study of Tennyson's "The Brook," will first visit the Zanja to learn what grows in and about the water

CLAIM ARREST OF BAD GANG.

Four Young Men Locked Up in Police Station.

Held on Suspicion of Being Highwaymen Wanted.

Detectives Say Others Will Be Run Down.

Through the arrest of L. Moore, a lad apparently 17 years old, last night, Detectives Hosick and Zeigler secured information confirming the statements of other parties that Robert McIben, Cable Haisston and Walter Brooks, arrested earlier in the day by Officer Jack Walsh, are connected with several burglaries and hold-ups recently perpetrated in the heart of the Los Angeles business district. The case promises to rival the capture of the famous Smith-Magee-Eppley gang.

Reports have flooded the Central Police Station recently that robberies have occurred in which two young men have figured. Several men badly battered have been taken to the Receiving Hospital claiming to be the victims of the young thugs. Burglaries have taken place in the residence districts of Los Angeles of late that appear to the police to have been committed by youths.

Other arrests are expected to follow today. In fact it is rumored that the police are holding others on suspicion of being implicated in these numerous bold crimes. They are convinced that the work is that of a gang of youthful bandits, whose daring has tended to protect them from detection and capture.

Working on clews obtained by himself, Officer Walsh effected the arrest of McIben, Haisston and Brooks and sent them to the Central Station to be held upon suspicion until other officers could investigate the case more thoroughly. The story was prevalent about the station last night that two daring "tricks had been turned" by young thieves and that the officers were following the trails closely.

The detectives secured information by investigating some of the property of the suspects. They went to a vacant lot on Broadway near Ninth street, where they found young Moore asleep on a mat in a hovel. The boy was taken to the police headquarters where he was closely questioned. He acknowledged that he had a home in Los Angeles but could not get along with his parents.

What information the officers gained from the lad, concerning the three suspects arrested earlier in the day they refused to divulge. One of the officers intimated that the police would clear up the mystery surrounding the case within the next eighteen hours and if any person under arrest was guilty they would know it.

The Los Angeles police force threw out a dragnet Saturday night and yesterday. The city prison doors received [illegible] men in twenty-four hours' time. Of that number forty-nine were Mexicans, and nearly every leather-colored prisoner bore a weapon.

Murder and highway robbery caused the stir. PREPARING OIL FOR FIRE TEST.

NEW SCHEME AT PORT HARFORD SAID TO BE SUCCESS.

Arrangement of Retorts Extracts the Gasoline from the Crude Product to Make It Usable for Fuel on Steamships and Railroads—Los Angeles Man Perfects Plan.

PORT HARFORD, Oct. 6.—The Sunday Times of July 22 had an illustrated article upon the foreign shipment of crude oil from this Coast. The object of this article is to show how the oil is prepared so as to meet the fire-test requirements when used as fuel; as not only this, but most foreign governments, have very rigid restrictions, which generally call for a fire test of 110 deg., and as crude oil, as it comes from the wells, if over 20 gravity, is under 100 fire test and sometimes as low as 70, it becomes necessary to extract the gasoline so as to raise the fire test, and make the oil safe to handle and use for fuel on board steamship and railroads, as well as in large manufacturing plants.

But to extract the gasoline by the old methods, as done in the refineries, that is, by using large stills, would be too slow, as well as too expensive. Realizing this, the Union Oil Company has had under consideration for over a year the subject of how best to prepare their oil in an inexpensive way, at the same time unlimited as to quantity. After consulting various oil chemists and experts, and getting very little practical information, the company concluded to give the matter in charge of E. A. Edwards of Los Angeles, who has had an extensive experience in the manipulations of oil, both here and in the East.

Mr. Edwards went to Port Harford and devised and built the plant which is herewith illustrated. It consists of a series of retorts. At present there are twelve, and they handle 6000 barrels of crude oil in twenty-four hours, raising the fire test from 70 to 120. No fire is used under the retorts, but the heat is obtained from steam, which is kept at the right temperature by passing through superheaters, and after doing its work, is returned to the boilers, and used over again, so that less than 5 per cent. of the original steam is lost.

The system is continuous and can be shut down or started up at any time in a few minutes. The expense of running the plant is very little, as only two men, at a time, are required, and the cost of the works is not one-tenth of what a refinery of the same capacity would cost.

The Port Harford Reduction Works, in course of construction, showing the boilers, superheater, retorts and condenser.

The vapor is condensed in a large cement cistern dug in the hillside, into which salt water from the ocean is pumped. The oil is pumped through a 6-inch line from Orcutt—about thirty miles—into a 50,000-barrel tank above the reduction works, and from there passes through the retorts into other large tanks, and from these, with a fall of 160 feet, through a 10-inch line into the ships at the wharf, loading them at the rate of 5000 barrels an hour.

These ships—described in The Times of July 22—are now taking about 150,000 barrels per month, but by January 1 will require nearly double that amount, and Mr. Edwards is increasing the plant to meet that demand.

This is the first plant of the kind ever built, and Mr. Edwards is justified in feeling a pride in its success.

"RALLY DAY" EXERCISES.

Money Jingles Into Coffers of Magnolia Avenue Christian Church Sunday-school.

Inspection and Rally Day exercises drew a large crowd yesterday morning to the Magnolia Avenue Christian Church Sunday-school. Parents and friends were given an opportunity of seeing the school at work, and the sight was inspiring.

On inspection the school presented a thorough equipment. Leaders with a corps of efficient and willing assistants, music, literature, religious and social intercourse, all formed a part in the whole which worked in perfect harmony. Although a young school, it has taken its place among the most successful of the city, growing rapidly in point of numbers as well as in financial importance, keeping in close touch with all progress along this line, and at the same time developing within itself a spirit of earnest consecration which has resulted in bringing many to a confession of the faith.

Yesterday marked a period of progress in the existence of the school, being observed primarily to rally the forces for a vigorous fall campaign and at the same time to interest those not participating. An evidence of the interest felt was given in the large number present, and the offering amounted to $226.34. At the close of the regular session the school was addressed by F. G. Tyrrell, leader of the Business Men's Bible Class.

for the reception of Miss Alice Roosevelt, and spent the month of January in Russia during the riots there.

Among the earliest articles written from Alaska during the gold excitement were those from the pen of Mr. Haskin, who spent many months in the extreme north.

It was the good fortune of the newspaper writer to witness the series of pageants attendant upon the visit of the Prince of Wales to India. As a guest of the Emperor of Japan Mr. Haskin attended the famous "Cherry Blossom" party which is one of the most important of the social functions of the Mikado's court.

Pope Pius IX received the traveler in private audience at the Vatican, and many favors were granted because of this special privilege. Mr. Haskin has accomplished a gigantic task in having visited almost every country on the globe, and in having compiled articles on the manners and customs of the people of almost every nation.

THRASHED HIM FOR SPANKING.

FIGHT ON BROADWAY OVER AN INFANT'S CORRECTION.

Rice Attacks Biggs on Street to Settle Old Grudge and a Lively Time Follows—Assailant Claims Victim Ran Away With His Wife and Whipped His Boy.

One thrashing for running away with a man's wife.

One of the same for spanking the man's boy.

Edgar A. Biggs, a street car conductor, is somewhat anxious to know if this is the end of the series.

His second thrashing at the hands of Mancel (better known as Jack) B. Rice, took place at the corner of Fifth and Broadway yesterday evening.

Rice claims that Biggs ran away with his wife about three years ago them. He did not console himself with vain tears. Rice gave chase.

He asserts that he followed them all over the country, traveling 13,000 miles in pursuit. Learning that Biggs's father is a preacher in Texas, he turned to that section. He met Biggs face to face on the street in San Antonio one day, the same year of the elopement.

The two men instantly squared off, and Rice gave the despoiler of his home a terrible thrashing, compelling him to give up the children; he did not ask for his wife back.

Rice brought the children back to Los Angeles and secured a divorce from his wife in the Superior Court of this county, the decree being entered in July, 1903.

From the children he learned that they had been cruelly whipped by their stepfather-by-brevet. His anger flared up against Biggs on another count, but it was too far back to San Antonio for him to hunt him up again.

Yesterday as Rice was walking along Broadway, he ran plump into Biggs on the sidewalk. In the most matter-of-fact way, he sailed in and pounded him to a frappe, knocking him down twice, and generally making a mess of him, injuring his own hand in the encounter.

He was careful to specify to the beaten man that this licking was not for stealing the wife, but for spanking the stolen boy.

After the fight last night, Rice said that he would only be too glad to pay a fine of $25 or so to satisfy the law. He did not say whether Biggs has any more lickings coming or not. Rice claims that his former wife is now supporting Biggs by dressmaking.

BETROTHAL DENIED.

Formal Contradiction of Engagement of Grand Duke and Princess Is Issued.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 7.—A formal denial has been issued here of the reported betrothal of Grand Duke Michael, brother of the Emperor of Russia, and Princess Patricia of Connaught, niece of King Edward.

An unwitting error was committed by announcing, through semi-official news agencies, in Europe, what was accepted yesterday as a fact in court and diplomatic circles here. It now appears that the discussion of this alliance, which is bound up with far-reaching political consequences, has not reached the stage of an actual betrothal.

The intimation that such a marriage was contemplated erroneously developed in court circles is a premature announcement of the betrothal as an accomplished fact.

A BILLION OF GOLD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3.—A source of extreme gratification to the managers in the Treasury Department is the record of a gain of approximately $12,000,000 to the good for the first quarter of the present fiscal year.

The only clouds on the horizon at present are the possibilities of unexpectedly heavy drains upon the Treasury cash for the naval and military demonstrations incident to the Cuban affair.

From one cause or another large payments for mail transportation to American railroads and the steamship lines tax the Treasury resources to make up for the postoffice deficiency.

The probability is, however, that the chief expenditure of an unexpected nature which will fall upon the government during the next few months will be on account of the preparations in connection with the Cuban campaign.

The government has found itself in almost the same position with reference to transport facilities as it was at the opening of the Spanish-American War. Practically all the transports then in use have been either put out of commission or sold, and a heavy expenditure would be entailed by the necessity of chartering merchant ships, or putting old transports into commission. Compared with the preparations for the Spanish-American War, however, the item of cost thus far incurred in being ready for an emergency in Cuba is regarded by government officials as a small item.

The government experts who are charged with the duty of keeping an account of revenues and expenditures are able to show by comparative figures of results achieved during the first three months of this fiscal year, compared with last year and the year previous, that at the present ratio of gain, with no great increase in the expenditures, the surplus revenues at the end of the present fiscal year should be nearly $50,000,000. Some account is taken of the increased government expenditures incident to public building construction, but these expenditures will be distributed over so many months that they are not expected to show in heavy drains upon the Treasury cash during any part of the present fiscal year.

The chances are not unfavorable for Uncle Sam's having a billion dollars in gold in his strong box within the next year. It is one of the marvels of government finances that within the last three months the gold in the Federal Treasury has accumulated at the rate of more than $14,000,000 a month. The stock of gold has already reached the enormous sum of $900,000,000.

Ten years ago, when the United States was having difficulty in maintaining a gold reserve of $100,000,000, attention was repeatedly called to the fact that the Russian government had in its strong boxes about $500,000,000 in gold. With the return of prosperity in this country, following 1897, the gold accumulations in the United States Treasury steadily increased, and with the passage of the coinage and banking act of 1900, reaffirming the gold standard policy of this nation and creating a new division of issue and redemption in the Treasury, with a reserve fund of $150,000,000 in gold, as against a former reserve fund of $100,000,000, the gold accumulations in the Treasury have steadily increased, much more than keeping pace with the increased gold supply the world.

The reserve fund remains by law at $150,000,000, while the trust fund accounts, which are made up of gold coin, held against outstanding issues of gold certificates, just as silver dollars are retained against outstanding silver certificates, today contains nearly $300,000,000 more in gold coin than silver coin. Instead of the great bulk of silver dollars continuing to be a public menace, the $500,000,000, approximately, of these dollars are overshadowed by the volume of gold which stands behind outstanding gold certificates, to say nothing of the more than $160,000,000 of gold in the general fund free to meet the ordinary expenditures of the government.

The best illustration of the gold accumulations since the troublesome times of Mr. Cleveland's administration, when bonds were issued to procure gold to replenish the reserve, is shown by the fact that the government holds $150,000,000 in the greenbacks and treasury notes, and more than $160,000,000 out of the total of only $217,000,000 of the available cash balance of the Treasury. Thus the surprising situation is presented by the present condition of the general fund in the Treasury, apart from the deposits of public moneys in the national banks, that $160,000,000 is in gold coin and bullion, only $5,000,000 in silver certificates, about $5,000,000 in United States notes, about $4,000,000 in subsidiary silver coin and less than $400,000 in Standard silver dollars. Not long ago it was found that the standard silver dollars in the Treasury represented by outstanding silver certificates, was reduced to the low figure of only $4000.

Charles F. Doll's furniture store on Washington street, Buffalo, was entirely destroyed by fire last night, causing a loss of $250,000. The building, which was owned by the Olympic Theater Building Company of New York, is a total loss. The Century Telephone Company suffered $150,000 damage.

PURE FOOD COMMISSION.

DEALING WITH A TWO-BILLION-A-YEAR BUSINESS.

Its Rulings Under the New Pure Food Law Will Hit Every Consumer of Foreign Food and the Manufacture of American Products That Bear Foreign Names.

A commission composed of three officials of the national government, now at work at Washington is passing upon the future prosperity of an import trade into the United States that is valued at more than $2,000,000,000 a year. That is a stupendous sum, but it does not approach the far greater and practically incalculable value of production and consumption of domestic articles that may be affected by the action of these three men.

It is the new pure food law and the rules of its administration that these three men are considering. They are to give in New York a series of public hearings, to importers and domestic manufacturers of food products, upon the probable results to industry, commerce and health, of the regulations to administer the new act, which goes into effect next New Year's Day.

Domestic makers of foods and drugs are generally familiar with its provisions, says a dispatch to the Philadelphia Record, but the importers and consumers of foreign food-products are just beginning to awaken to its possible bearing upon their personal comforts and habitual luxuries. Students of our foreign trade statistics are also wondering whether a drastic construction of the act may not lead to reprisals in foreign countries against exports from the United States, and whether the pure food law cannot be made an effective lever in bringing about treaties of reciprocity that may change vastly our foreign market.

There is a very human interest in these hearings—an interest that reaches to the dinner table of almost every citizen of foreign birth, as well as to every consumer of imported food. The vital question that these commissioners are to decide is whether the regulations they prescribe to prevent adulteration or misbranding of domestic food sold in the United States shall apply to the inspection in the countries of its origin, of foreign food intended for importation into the United States.

In other words, must the maker of a Westphalian ham or of some brand of German sausage, or of goose breast, or Bologna sausage, or of French pate de foie gras, or of Italian macaroni or cheese, be subjected to the same examination and approval of his goods, before they are admitted for sale in this country, as the American maker for American consumption must accept?

Levi P. Morton, former Vice-President of the United States, is over 80 years old, but still as active as he was thirty years ago. He gives close attention to his great financial affairs.

Prevent Headache

We want you to know that Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills prevent as well as relieve headache, and that they leave no bad after-effects. We assure you that if taken when you first discover indications of an attack, they will drive it away, and thus not only save you the misery and distress, but the weakening influence of pain upon your system. Used in this way the attacks become less frequent, and eventually entirely disappear. They relieve pain by strengthening the nerves and overcoming the turbulent, excited condition, which is the cause of pain.

"We used Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills in our family for five years, and I would not like to do without them. Before I found this remedy I would have spells of sick headache so severe that I would be prostrated for as many as 48 hours at a time. The Anti-Pain Pills stop the pain in a few minutes. I have a great deal of neuralgia around the heart, and the Pain Pills also relieve that. I now take them when I think I will have an attack, and they stop it right then. I also notice that I do not have these spells nearly so frequently as formerly."

Pen Points

The color line in the South has again become the dead line.

The Democratic emblem in California—it is now seen—was created merely to toll the knell of Bell.

Nothing exasperates a political boss so much as to see the people putting tickets in the field themselves.

It must be considered a bad omen for the California Democracy that the public refuses to become enraged.

The news from Alabama and Georgia may be somewhat too highly "colored," but it is bad enough at its best.

A British Princess is to be married to a Russian Grand Duke. We tender Her Royal Highness our deepest sympathy.

The indications now are that some of the Cuban rebels will not lay down their arms until Gen. Funston shoots them down.

Another proof that the age of miracles is not past lies in the fact that there is a reported scarcity of Democratic orators.

No doubt the mobs that are murdering negroes in the South are reading with horror the dispatches from Russia recounting the murder of Jews.

It seems that there are still a considerable number of unreconstructed rebels in Cuba who would gladly continue the war if the police would let them.

Bryan refuses to take orders from the Democratic committee. It has come to be now that nobody wants to take orders from a Democratic committee.

Perhaps if the fact that very few bartenders drink liquor were better known, it might have its effect on the crowd that lines up on the other side of the bar.

A postmaster in the State of Washington has been found short in his accounts. Doubtless he was one of those mean postmasters who are also short in their answers.

The Texas Senatorial contest has already proved to be a great success, for the reason that Gov. Crane and Joe Bailey are likely to kill each other in a duel most any day.

Anomalous though it may seem, owing to his name, it yet appears to be true that it was Señor O'Farrill who really was the means of putting a stop to the fighting in Cuba.

Socialism would not be satisfied until it attracted the serious attention of the world. Therefore it has itself to blame that it is so quickly fading away under the light of reason.

Considering all the good money it will have cost him to make the campaign, the coming defeat of Hearst in New York may be properly viewed as a financial disaster—for Hearst.

It must sometimes hurt the soul of a good, religious farmer to know that the grain he raises in his fields will later on be used to make whisky and to gamble with in the stock pits.

Just as soon as Tammany served notice on Hearst that he musn't get too gay with the kind of talk he was handing out, Willie immediately changed his tune and promised to be good.

An Omaha woman, on a dare, married a man she did not know. But, for that matter, no woman really becomes acquainted with a man until after she has lived in the same house with him awhile.

Politics seems to have neither the frills nor the thrills that it used to have. People now regard politics as a necessary nuisance, to be disposed of with as little destruction of time as possible.

While we have been unable to give the matter the careful and close attention that it doubtless deserves, still we are willing to venture the opinion that if Senator Platt will pay up, his wife will let up.

While it seems really necessary that honest men should accept public office, we nearly always regret to see them do so, for the reason that they afterward so frequently turn out to be shufflers and liars.

Every once in awhile a walking delegate comes down from San Francisco to upset Los Angeles, with the result that he returns to his northern lair to compare bumps with his brethren who had been here before.

Now that Hearst has taken to raising a campaign fund by grabbing the profits of the newsboys who sell his dirty papers, the suspicion that the gashes in the ancestral money bags are beginning to tell, may be considered verified.

From being the blackest kind of pessimist, Jim Hill has become the wildest optimist. He says he will build in Oregon what will prove to be the biggest city on the Coast. As though Los Angeles were not a hundred years ahead of everything!

THE HIGHWAY NOT THE PLACE FOR RECKLESS RACING.

The latest Vanderbilt cup race for motor-car maniacs should be the last to be held on public highways under such conditions in this country. It cost four human lives to prove that an automobile can be driven along a road faster than an express train over a steel track; a fact that could have been demonstrated just as completely on a protected course and without peril to the lives of any but those driving the machines.

One of the speed maniacs, Elliott Shepard, killed an old friend; ran into him, hurled him into the air and smashed him to pieces. That was Mr. Shepard's second experience as a killer. He ran over and killed a little girl in France, and it took all the pull he could bring to bear to keep him out of prison. He paid a heavy fine, considered the account squared, and went on driving his machine over public roads at a mile a minute until he scored another victim.

Mr. Vanderbilt, who instigated the affair, is deeply distressed that the sport should have been marred by four homicides, but he is "sure they were unavoidable." Of course it was an absolute necessity that the race for Mr. Vanderbilt's cup should be run over public highways. It was all-important to the world to know whether a Frenchman, an Italian or a Yankee could be the most reckless chauffeur, and that could not have been settled on an inclosed race track, where excited persons could have been restrained from getting in the way of the projectiles.

Horsemen are not permitted to conduct their sport on the public roads, although a race horse cannot travel at half the speed of a motor car and is not half as dangerous to the public. A proposition to throw open the highways to horse racing associations and run the Brooklyn handicap on Flatbush avenue would not receive an instant's serious consideration. Yet it would be quite as reasonable as turning twenty-odd miles of road into a motor car race track, and turning loose upon it a lot of dare-devil drivers in machines flying at the rate of 100 miles an hour.

Perhaps the fatal accidents were due to the folly of the victims, who could not be kept away from the road, but in one case at least, the racing machine left the course, tore down a flimsy fence, dashed into a crowd and killed a spectator who could not be accused of contributory negligence. The fact that four persons were killed and several more injured condemns such sport, no matter where blame for the accidents may rest. With a quarter of a million of people lining the course and pressing for a view of the racers, it is impossible to insure the safety of all.

It isn't worth while to kill men, women and children in order to ascertain who is the nerviest speed maniac, hired by motor-car makers to test their machines. There are safer places than public highways for such exhibitions.

REPUBLICAN CAPACITY.

The Springfield Republican (able mugwump organ) seldom loses an opportunity to say something measly and nasty about the Republican party, which it loves with about the same sort of intensity as the devil is said to love holy water. It has gained considerable notoriety, of a certain sort, by its railings against the cherished policies and the leading men of the party of Lincoln, of Grant, of Garfield, of Blaine, of McKinley, of Roosevelt. This well-known but "contrary" public journal has indulged in chronic fault-finding for many years. It has ostentatiously condemned more of the good policies and the good men of the Republican party, and has disingenuously commended more of the bad policies and men, probably, than any other newspaper in the country. So, when it reveals itself in apparently honest praise of Republican policies or men, its action is a nine days' wonder.

Such a wonder has appeared over the horizon. In a recent issue the Springfield mugwumpian organ refers to the nomination of Mr. Hughes by the Republican party for Governor of New York as "a demonstration of the still unfailing genius of the Republican party for successful political warfare," and declares that "the Republican party has still shown an extraordinary capacity to bid for the confidence of the great middle class of the American people, even under adverse circumstances." That is a great deal for this journalistic mugwump to admit. It is its way of expressing hilarious approval of a Republican act. The Springfield Republican never allows its enthusiasms to go to greater extremes than this, no matter what may be the occasion.

The "adverse circumstances" to which reference is made with so much subtlety are evidently the Odell machine, which has at last been turned down, and Senators Platt and Depew, twin relics of a bygone era, who will be turned down "good and plenty" in the not distant future. It must be admitted that these "circumstances" are decidedly adverse, and that they have injured the Republican party very seriously. But the prospects are that the candidacy of Mr. Hughes will go far toward healing these wounds, and that the Republicans of the State will emerge from their trial stronger and better for the chastening they have received.

The Republican party, from its birth "under the oaks" at Jackson, Mich., down to the present day, has almost unvaryingly shown a capacity for curing the ills and remedying the defects within its own organization. This is one of the secrets of its perennial enthusiasms and its continued political successes. Its best party leaders scorn the beaten track, and manage to keep out of the ruts. It is open to conviction on questions of party expediency or the public good. It is imbued with the spirit of beneficent opportunism, and stands ready today to correct its errors of yesterday. It is also ready, at all times, to fight for a great principle or a great conviction. These are reasons, among others, why the Republican party has been able to retain the public confidence, while the Democratic party (which is "all things to all men") has so signally failed to gain the public confidence. "The aspirations of the party," as the St. Paul Pioneer Press well said in a recent editorial, "have been high; and when its leadership has failed to measure up to them, new leaders have been sought. Today's Republicanism is not, as many assert, the fruit of Roosevelt's leadership. Rather Roosevelt is the flower of Republican aspiration. High thinking breeds high acting; hence Republican capacity; hence the party genius for political warfare."

JUST FOR INSTANCE.

The power corporations' anti-Owens River organ vows and protests that it is "sincere," high-minded and public-spirited, and puts up pitiful pleas to be taken seriously in its stupid assaults upon the aqueduct project. For once, and to get the organ into the open, if possible, let one of its propositions be taken seriously.

The organ says: "We are informed that reputable parties will deliver ten thousand inches of water right at our doors at a third of the cost of the Eaton-Mulholland undertaking." [One of the organ's habitual falsehoods and one of its characteristically libelous adjectives is omitted from the quotation to reduce the proposition to a serious basis.]

If there is anything "sincere" in that, let the organ be definite and specific. Who are the reputable parties? Where have they got ten thousand inches of water concealed? What is the source of their supply, and how do they propose to deliver it to the city at a cost of $8,000,000?

Is it possible that the secret of the organ's hostility to the Owens River aqueduct is that it is interested in one of the numerous fake water schemes, with which the Water Board has been pestered by promoters and half-baked engineers for several years? Which particular water-pipe dream is referred to? Has John D. Hooker any stock in the mysterious project?

MR. HUGHES OF NEW YORK.

A few years ago "Mr. Barnes of New York" occupied the center of the American stage. As we read about him we were proud of his achievements and interested in his personality. "Mr. Barnes of New York" did things, fine, manly, American things. The same can be said about "Mr. Hughes of New York." He did things, quite a few fine, manly, American things, while he was conducting the insurance investigation in New York. His personality was interesting then and it is interesting now. It will be a good deal more interesting after sundown on the sixth day of November next. Then it will be "Gov. Hughes of New York."

His unanimous nomination at Saratoga the other day as the candidate of the great Republican party of the Empire State, was a short, swift, sharp rebuke to, or rather, the death blow of the party bossism—self-seeking, personal-profit bossism—which has put New York State in the doubtful column on the Republican national slate in each Congressional and Presidential election campaign for many years past, except in 1904, when Theodore Roosevelt's name at the head of the Republican ticket crushed all opposition, as it will again, only more so, in 1908, if he sees it to be his duty to accept back the voluntary pledge not to run again, at the hands of a grateful and admiring country. Picture to yourself what will be the fate of scheming New York State politicians, if, when "Mr. Hughes of New York" is seated in the gubernatorial chair, they propose to him any shady piece of business. They would "not stand upon the order of their going, but go at once," as do all similar politicians of any State, when they make propositions of that character to "Mr. Roosevelt of Washington and Oyster Bay."

Speaking seriously, though, nothing can be grander, better, finer, for the Republican party, not alone of the Empire State, than the coming election of Charles E. Hughes, to the Governor's chair, at Albany. The court—the American people—have rendered a verdict of guilty against pecuniarily-interested, self-seeking, petty, personal, party-politics, bossism in either, or both, of our two great political parties, national, State, city and country politics should be so conducted and led that the war cry which William Travers Jerome raised so successfully in New York City a year ago, "Where did he get it?" cannot be raised again against any political leader, Republican or Democratic, in any State, city, town, village, hamlet or county in our great country from New York to California, or from Montana to Alabama.

Leaders we must have, but not men who are only leaders for what they make out of it. Political leadership should be sought for, and awarded, as an honor, not as a means of livelihood or graft. President Roosevelt is a political leader whom men of all parties admire, and the larger, far larger, number follow. Why? Because every man of us knows that there is not a petty, personal, grafting hair on the President's head.

William McKinley was a political leader, a trained politician of more than thirty years' standing. All the country admired and loved William McKinley, and unitedly wept around his martyr grave. In politics, large majorities followed his lead. Why? Because they knew, we knew, that William McKinley led his country and his party for his country's and his party's sake, and not for the sake of his own pocket.

The known conduct in professional and private life of Charles E. Hughes of New York entitles him to be classed with William McKinley and Theodore Roosevelt, as a pure-minded, patriotic, unselfish, political leader. By electing him as their Governor, the people of the State of New York will confer honor on themselves and earn the grateful appreciation of every true Republican (and very many Democrats) resident under the flag of the United States.

WHERE IS THE ANTAGONISM?

The so-called reciprocity convention, which met in Chicago a year ago or thereabouts, passed a resolution to the effect that, because the Republican party had not chosen to disturb American business, American labor, and American wages by entering into reciprocal, or reduced tariff, relations with foreign nations, we were, as that convention said, "antagonizing foreign nations on whom we depend as purchasers of our surplus products."

Here are the totals of our trade with our principal customers in the fiscal years ended June 30, 1905—the year of the futile resolution—and June 30, 1906:

	Fiscal year 1905.	Fiscal year 1906.
United Kingdom	$525,000,000	$565,000,000
Germany	194,000,000	234,000,000

Where does the non-reciprocity antagonism, or any antagonism, come in? Note the German increase of $40,000,000, and the Canadian increase of $25,000,000. Moreover, returns of our exports for July, August, and September of this fiscal year, show further increases.

Nor is the provision in the Dingley tariff act for the making of reciprocity treaties mandatory. It is there for use if we see the need for such treaties. The Republican party has not seen any such need. It did not see it then, and it does not see it now with exports increasing. That's all there is to this question.

Capt. Leonard D. Wildman has been ordered to command the Signal Corps School of Instruction at Fort Omaha, Neb., and Capt. Walter L. Clark, Signal Corps, succeeds Capt. Wildman, as chief signal officer at Camp Tacoma. Capt. Wildman had charge of the Norwalk Iron Works and built the dynamo guns for the cruiser Vesuvius, also those for Fort Lay, New York Harbor. It was while doing this that he was brought in contact with the army and navy.

Gen. Frederick Funston is not ambitious of being immortalized by having a San Francisco thoroughfare named after him. Learning that there was a movement afoot to call Devisadero street Funston, the general declared the "project inadvisable on the broad ground that it is not customary to honor living men in this fashion."

CALIFORNIA'S WINE AND LIQUOR MANUFACTORIES.

[WRITTEN FOR THE TIMES BY WALTER J. BALLARD.]

Between the census of 1900 and the census of manufactures, 1905, there were large increases in California's manufacture of distilled liquors, malt liquors and wines, both in the aggregate and separately.

The aggregate comparative figures follow:

	Census of 1905.	Inc. since 1900.
Establishments	336	104
Capital invested	$22,133,849	$9,213,336
Wage-earners, numbers	2,427	921
Yearly wages	$ 1,844,760	$ 863,555
General expenses, yearly	2,778,015	1,341,119
Yearly products	1,164,909	926,529
Yearly product	15,361,387	6,102,787

By percentages these aggregate increases are: Capital, 71.3 per cent.; wage-earners, 62.2 per cent.; yearly wages, 87.9 per cent.; and yearly product, 65.9 per cent.

For distilled liquors the separate figures are:

	Census of 1905.	Inc. over 1900.
Establishments	28	20
Capital	$ 1,027,773	$ 951,173
Wage-earners, number	76	56
Yearly wages	$ 49,508	$ 43,571
And for malt liquors:
Yearly products	$ 1,164,909	$ 926,529
Establishments	27	7
Capital	$10,935,282	$2,741,997
Wage-earners, number	1,305	255
Yearly wages	$ 1,144,645	$ 291,221
Yearly product	$ 7,510,958	$2,425,496
And for wines:
Establishments	273	56
Capital	$10,180,793	$5,521,164
Wage-earners, number	1,144	630
Yearly wages	$ 635,612	$ 490,760
Yearly product	6,688,630	2,750,749

Measured by value of yearly products, malt liquors have the lead. The increase, $2,425,496, represents a gain of 47.7 per cent.

In the manufacture of distilled liquors California has made considerable progress in the five years. Capital invested increased twelve and one-half times; wage-earners, nearly three times; yearly wages seven and one-half times; and the yearly product about four-fold.

It is in the manufacture of wines that California is making her great record. Both in 1900 and 1905 the State ranked first among the wine making States of the Union. Because, says the 1905 census, of the adaptability of its soil and climate the State has met with great success in growing the different varieties of European vines and in duplicating famous European brands of wine. All kinds of brandies and wines are produced in the State, and their quality has won for them a most enviable reputation.

Much of the prosperity of the industry has been due to the extensive and intelligent aid extended the vineyardists by the State, which, by sending experts abroad to study conditions existing there and to secure cuttings and vines, by special legislation, by employing experts to investigate soil, pests, and all other conditions, and by widely circulating the information thus obtained, has exercised a most beneficial supervision.

In the wine industry alone the increases by percentages in the five years were: Establishments, 46 per cent.; capital, 118.5 per cent.; wage-earners, 117.9 per cent.; yearly wages, 191.6 per cent.; and yearly product, 69.9 per cent.

In these three industries, the character of ownership is as follows, by per cent. of the whole:

	Distilled.	Malt.	Wines.
Individual	45.4	49.5	59.7
Partnership	10.7	17.5	12.5
Incorporated company	43.9	33.0	27.8

Those percentages show at a glance the great value to the State of its growing wine industry in creating the greater percentage of individually-owned wine factories, the owners of which, most of them at least, are also owners and cultivators of the vine-growing lands. That means settlement and more permanent increase in the population. For instance, 102 of the 273 wine-making establishments produce less than $5000 worth of wine yearly, and 93 produce $5000, but less than $20,000 yearly. Only 14 produce $100,000 yearly, or more.

Of the total capital, $22,133,849, invested in the wine, malt, and distilled liquor manufacturing of the State, the form of investment is as follows:

Land	$ 1,294,248
Buildings	4,336,522
Machinery and tools	4,368,451
Cash and sundries	11,340,628

More than half the capital is thus readily available.

LOS ANGELES' SHARE.

Establishments, malt and vinous only:

Establishments, malt an vinous only	13
Capital	$2,297,695
Wage-earners	257
Yearly wages	162,943
Yearly product	363,093

THE INNOCENT BYSTANDER.

A Knock-out for Nature.

We were seated in the Pullman, were the actor man and I,
And I asked him if he noticed all the glories of the sky,
For the sun was sinking slowly in the vast eternal deeps,
Tinged with gold and bathed with crimson were the clouds, in outflung heaps.

And he said: "A fairish sunset; but you should have seen the one Dauber pointed for the first act of my play, The Guilty Son.'"

In the morning on the mountains there were views to grip the heart;
Gulches, chasms, peaks and valleys, molded with a mighty art,
And I whispered to the actor, for my soul was full of awe:
"Isn't this the grandest vision that a mortal ever saw?"

"Very pretty," said the actor, "but you should have seen the drop
That we used to stage the rescue in my play, 'The Bauble Shop.'"

Soon a wreath of cloud rolled over from the hidden western slope,
And its misty fingers wandered here and there, and seemed to grope
For a clutch upon the mountains, and the thunder rolled and pealed
And I murmured to the actor: "Here is nature's might revealed."

"Not so bad," he answered kindly. "But to see a storm effect,
You should drop in on the last act of my play, 'The Hidden Sect.'"

Then there came a fearsome crashing, and the cars whirled from the rails,
And on every side about us rose wild shriekings, groans and wails.
For the train had been demolished in a landslide from the crest—
And the actor said, while lying in a heap across my chest:

"Say, old man, this is a daisy—but it doesn't touch the scene
Of the wrecking of the mail train in 'Old Number Seventeen.'"

Then we dug him out and took him to a rude but sheltered spot,
Where we laid him, slowly, gently, on a miner's worn-out cot,
And we knew that he was dying, from his hoarse and choking breath—
And we bowed our heads in silence, 'neath the rustling wings of death.

But he gasped: "I say, old fellow, in my play, 'A Woman's Wile,'
Was a deathbed scene worth seeing—that was when I died in style.'"

A Street Scene.

In the distance we hear the puffing of a train.

The lady four blocks away hears it also. We can see her start with surprise, for she was sure she had plenty of time to catch the train when she left home.

Now, anxiously, she quickens her pace, and at the same time we hear the engine quicken its puff.

The lady steps more rapidly, breaking into the mixture of pacing and trotting that is called "hurrying" by the gentler sex.

The train draws nearer. In fancy we can hear the woman say "Godness," as she clutches at her hat and tries to strike a faster gait.

Little children step out of her way and yell derisively at her, but she does not even notice whose children they are so that she may talk about the sort of raising they are receiving.

She runs. Oh, she runs! When a woman runs— a woman in a tailored gown and a picture hat, with her hands full of bundles she is going to exchange, then is the time that strong men turn their heads and lean against a convenient building to conceal their emotion.

She passes us, scattering, hairpins, tape, side combs, buttons and small change. Her hat is on one ear, her jacket is hitching up between her shoulders and her skirt is twisted half way around her. Then the train heaves on across the street. It is a freight train.

The woman stops suddenly.

And yet the magazines print articles asking gravely, "Is It Wrong for a Woman to Swear?"

CAN RESTORE ORCHARDS.

A California Physician Teaches How to Renew the Youth of Old Orchards.

Dr. A. C. Lewis, a retired California physician, who purchased the old Shattuck place, six miles south of Portland, recently, has demonstrated that old orchards can be restored to usefulness without digging the trees up and burning them, as has been heretofore considered the only remedy. The doctor has cut the old trees back with an unsparing hand, and doped them with lime, sulphur, salt and arsenic in a manner that surprised the coddling moth, woolly aphis, San José scale and other orchard pests which had come to consider themselves masters of the situation. Fruit growers who have seen the transformation wonder at the excellent condition of this year's crop in an orhard that for ten years has been given up to pests and been a breeding place from which the surrounding country was stocked with germs, microbes and animalcules to a frightful degree.

Dr. Lewis has ten acres of trees on which he has just completed a $5000 residence, a sightly eminence among them. Another innovation that proves a success is his pneumatic system of water supply. He has a windmill that pumps air as well as water, and, instead of his tank being set up on a tall tower, it is in the basement, where the water keeps cool during the warm spells of summer. The pneumatic pressure also provides plenty of force to throw water all over the dwelling and outbuildings in case of fire. The water tank is made of steel and holds 500 gallons. The pump gives the tank strength enough to resist the air pressure, and it never shrinks or swells as a result of changes of the weather.—[Portland Oregonian.

Medical Director Robert A. Harmion, who stands No. 2 in the medical corps of the navy, has been placed on the retired list by operation of law on account of age. He is a native of West Virginia and began his career in the navy in March, 1863, receiving the grade of medical director with the rank of captain in October, 1898. In August, 1905, he has served as a member of the naval examining and retiring boards with station in Washington.

It is said of William B. Norman, auctioneer who died a week ago, that he was responsible more than any other man for stripping the Coast of its old furniture. His auction room was a clearinghouse for ancestral mahogany from below Mason and Taylor line and to look about while a sale in progress was to bring to mind the glamor of before-the-war gentility.

MUSIC AND THE STAGE.

"The Jury's Return" will be celebrated at the Burbank Theater three weeks from last night.

You can guess the event, it will be the infancy of matinée idol "Bill" Desmond into his own.

The public couldn't stay away. In fact, he couldn't because Mr. Morosco wouldn't let him, and for the rest, he has been hypnotic ever since the Salt Lake Limited pulled him away on that memorable Sunday evening more than seven months ago.

Commencing Sunday, October 1, 1905, the rate for Sunday "Liners" was raised to 1¼ cents per word for each insertion; minimum charge, 25 cents, as at present. BIG MONEY FOR YOU.
BIG MONEY FOR YOU.
SIMPLY THIS—We have been so fortunate as to secure an option on a 160-acre tract of admirably situated land in the southwest, at $300 per acre cheaper than anything else in the neighborhood. We shall be pleased to entertain amounts of from $5000 and upward in this syndicate which is being organized on a strictly "share and share alike" principle, and we confidently state that we fully expect to double our money within a year or two.
We have recently organized syndicates successfully, involving upward of two millions of dollars, and our well-known careful handling of our clients' interests appeals to all. We recommend none but gilt-edge investments, at the same time our long local experience tells us at once what to go into.
Call upon or telephone to our Mr. Knewing and he will tell you all about it and show you the property. Both phones Exchange 30.

The improvements are too numerous to mention here, but we are prepared to give you full particulars at our office, including booklet and photographs.
is the price of this money maker, including all buildings. 12 acres of fruits and plenty of living water abounds in easy reach; making the price extremely low, as it will and does now pay 20 per cent. on this amount. BUSINESS CHANCES—

"THE BON MARCHE," A NEW DEPARTMENT STORE ENTERPRISE, being organized by Le Sage Bros. Company, is offering a limited allotment of shares to the public, upon a most attractive basis. You are invited to join the company—to become part owner—and to share in the profits.

You have never, until now, been asked to participate in the earnings of the Great Department Stores of Los Angeles—capitalists, as a rule, preferring to retain the entire ownership, and themselves enjoy the dividends.

For full particulars of the plan, call on or write to any one of the following:

NAZARENE WHO GETS DIVORCE.

Louisa Ernest Finds Solace in North Dakota.

Ex-Husband Shows Records, Questions Accuracy.

Reported That Divorcee Will Soon Marry Again.

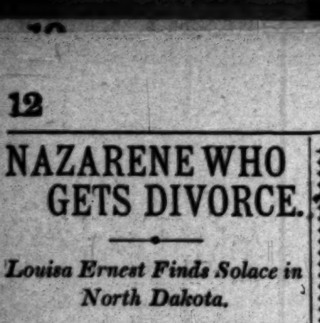
After seven weary years of waiting, Mrs. Louisa L. Ernest of this city, has at last secured a divorce from her husband, J. W. Ernest.

Seven years ago she sued for divorce in the courts of this county on grounds of desertion, and the decree was denied, but she has just returned from Miller, N. D., a legally free woman, a decree having been granted her at that place on September 21.

It is said, on what seems to be good authority, that Mrs. Ernest's desire to be rid of the shackles that bound her, was that she might be free to marry a man named Irish, who lives in East Los Angeles. At any rate, the motive was sufficiently strong to induce her to go to North Dakota and reside there for six months in order to meet the requirements of the laws of that State.

That she was desperately in earnest is further demonstrated by the fact that she waived her interest in the considerable property, possessed in common with her former husband, and accepted his terms of settlement.

This was necessary in order to prevent Ernest contesting the suit and



MRS. LOUISA L. ERNEST,
Who secured divorce in North Dakota.

introducing the evidence taken at the former trial, when the divorce was not only denied, but when she asked for maintenance following the denial, this likewise was refused, Judge Mahone making the following order:

"From the evidence, the court finds that the plaintiff refused to live with the defendant, and that she is not entitled to maintenance."

When Ernest was approached concerning a property settlement of the case in the North Dakota courts, he replied that he would only settle on his own terms; that he had waited seven years, and was ready to wait seven more.

Delay failed to look good to the plaintiff, and she relinquished all claims on Ernest, it is understood, on the payment of $1000.

BEGINNING OF TROUBLE.

The Ernests came to Los Angeles about 1890, and resided at Pico and Hill streets, and Ernest's story is that in 1894 he went East to sell some inventions.

"During my absence," said Mr. Ernest last night, "my wife became an ardent member of the Nazarene sect, much against my wishes, and spent all her time and money in boosting Rev. Phineas Bresee's doctrine of entire sanctification, and at one time she held the offices of deaconess, organist, treasurer, and was a member of the official board. In 1898 she brought suit for divorce, charging me with desertion and failure to support."

Mr. Ernest exhibits the certified records of the court, which refused to give Mrs. Ernest a divorce, showing that he had sent her $3500 in the four years, and that she had collected here more than $1500 from rents and sales. On this evidence, a divorce was refused her.

Two years ago Dr. Paul F. Bresee sued Ernest for a claim of $299 for medical attendance upon his wife, but lost the suit, the court holding that Ernest was not liable. The trial was held August 2, 1904. At the trial of this case Dr. Bresee testified:

SOME TESTIMONY.

"I never saw Mr. Ernest before today; I have known Mrs. Ernest about six years," repeating the latter clause three times on cross-examination.

On September 15, 1906, as shown by the records of the court at Miller, N. D., Dr. Bresee testified as follows:

"I was acquainted with Mrs. Ernest, the plaintiff, in 1894 and have known her ever since. I know, of my own knowledge, that her husband, Mr. Ernest, deserted her in 1894, against her wishes and without her consent."

Ernest exhibits certified copies of the evidence in both cases, and calls attention to the glaring discrepancies.

Rev. Dr. Phineas Bresee also made deposition before the North Dakota court, as follows:

"I have known Mrs. Ernest for more than twelve years. I know, of my own knowledge, that Mr. Ernest deserted her in 1894."

The refusal of the divorce by Judge Mahone in 1898, would seem to be a contradiction of the latter statement.

During all these years Mrs. Ernest has been active in Nazarene affairs, and has been employed at their publishing house in this city part of the time. Those who know her, speak highly of her, and Mr. Ernest says she is more sinned against than sinning.

"These men about her," he said last night, "are far more to blame than she is. I had no intention of deserting her when I went East in 1894, and in the divorce trial in 1898, my attorney introduced 157 exhibits, mostly letters from my wife, written during that period."

In view of the stringent rules adopted by the Nazarene last year, concerning the marriage of divorced persons, it remains to be seen whether Mrs. Ernest will be married as a Nazarene, or whether she will have to place herself outside that fold.

PAY TRIBUTE TO "DE GANG."

Temporary Theaters, Says Manager Fischer, Contribute to Political Bosses.

Theater Manager E. A. Fischer, who has just returned from a business visit to San Francisco, makes revelations of municipal graft in that city which are fairly startling.

Mr. Fischer went up to build a music hall—a structure of temporary nature. As he knows San Francisco thoroughly, with an old resident's insight into business conditions, he believed he saw his opportunity.

"The first thing that I was told," says Fischer, "was that I could not put up a temporary structure of any sort. I took this in good part, but was surprised that very day to see two temporary structures on the same street.

"I immediately made inquiries but my answers from the authorities were vague and unsatisfactory. I learned before I came away, to my own satisfaction, that one-third of the gross receipts of these theaters, or an amount of similar nature, goes weekly into the fund of the political bosses who are throttling San Francisco's best elements."

Mr. Fischer was also told—but is unwilling to make the direct statement—that the principal beneficiary from this theater graft is no less a person than Abe Ruef.

Mr. Fischer will not build a theater of any kind in San Francisco. He says that the Ruef bossism has reached so corrupt a stage that a new business enterprise of large nature is unsafe, and frequently unprofitable, save to those within the ring.

"THE MAKINGS" CAUSE ARRESTS.

TOBACCO DEALERS WILL FACE CHARGES TODAY.

They Are Taken Into Custody Upon the Accusation of Selling Cigarettes and the "Dope" to Make Them With to Minors in Violation of the Law.

Tobacco dealers of this city, in the language of the street, are "dead next" to the fact that a campaign is being waged against the sale of cigarettes, or "the makings," to schoolboys.

Officer E. H. Hilf, working Saturday afternoon under the orders of Capt. Brodhead of the police department, witnessed the refusal of the sale of tobacco to Robert Moffit, a little boy, living at No. 1252 West Third street, at twelve stores on Temple street. It is claimed that all of these stores in question have been in the habit of selling the stuff to schoolboys. Fear of the law is checking the evil, at least.

Officer Hilf went to the Temple-street school and the principal told him that boys attending that school were smoking cigarettes during the noon hour, and on the way home in the evening, and that the pernicious habit was growing at an alarming rate.

Robert Moffit, accompanied Hilf to the store of Martin Schweng, two blocks from the school, and the little fellow had no difficulty in buying a sack of Durham and papers. Schweng was placed under arrest, and will appear in the Police Court this morning. The offender has been in court before, on a charge of selling whisky without a license. He runs a wholesale liquor store, and it is claimed that his sale of tobacco to the minors has the further bad effects of bringing the boys in contact with the influences of liquor. It is even asserted that some of the boys, on begging for a "taste of the stuff," have been given a drink.

Young Moffit then went to No. 153 S. Main street and bought tobacco of A. L. Phelps, a cigar dealer. Phelps also will appear in the Police Court this morning.

A second visit was made to the grocery store at the corner of First and Utah streets, where a mite of a Spanish boy was sold tobacco a few days ago by a woman, who clerks in the store. When Hilf and the boy entered, the proprietor evidently recognized the former as the man who had been in the store when the Spanish boy made the purchase.

Without waiting to hear what Robert Moffit wanted, the proprietor called to the woman, who was leaning over the counter: "Don't you sell that boy tobacco! Run him out of here!" Dark scowls at Hilf showed all too clearly that the shop was on guard.

This campaign is to be continued until every store in the city is "on guard" or ready to observe the law and live up to it.

DENOUNCE "PIE-PARTY."

Socialists Say Public Ownership Party Is a Tail to Hearst's Presidential Ambitions and Out of Place.

The caucus of the Socialist party met last night at Burbank Hall and besides accomplishing its routine work of arranging for the Socialist City Nominating Convention, voiced in no sparing terms its animosity to the Public Ownership League. The latter organization was branded as an enemy of labor and of the Socialist party, and opposed to the best interests of the working classes, while the suit brought by Stanley Wilson, the candidate for Mayor of the Public Ownership party against The Times was referred to by several speakers as a pitiful attempt at campaign advertising.

Many of the Socialist candidates for State and county offices delivered addresses during the course of the evening. The Public Ownership party was denounced in strong terms as the greatest menace to the future of the Socialist party and as a delusion and a snare to the working class, whose interests it pretended to represent.

Frank J. Wheat, nominee of the Socialist party for Lieutenant-Governor, spoke in part as follows:

"Public ownership is not the leading issue that is before the workingman today, and the people who are trying to force it into the political field now are doing so for reasons that are far from having the cause of the labor party at heart. Hearst and his Independence Leagues are using it in the hope of making a popular issue that will land him in the President's chair in 1908. The Democratic party is using it as it used the silver issue in 1900, to get the Populist vote, this time to catch the Socialist vote. If the Socialist party wants to meet the fate of the Populists they have only to bite at the trap.

"The Public Ownership party in this city lies when it says that it represents the same principles as the Socialist party, and the fight must be fought out here and now, and must not be delayed to just before the Presidential election, when some trick may be devised to force the issue."

Three delegates were chosen for each precinct to be placed on the ticket at the Socialist primaries, which will be held on October 23. The Socialist City Nominating Convention will be held at Burbank Hall on October 27 and a full city ticket will be put in the field.

WORST FORM OF TORMENT.

Indigestion Makes Life Miserable. How To Cure It.

There is no need of telling a person with stomach trouble that indigestion makes life miserable. The burning and gnawing feeling in the stomach, the sick and nervous headaches, the sleeplessness, general debility, aching back, specks before the eyes, and the nervousness, irritability and despondency that come from indigestion, make life a torment.

Happily a physician's prescription for stomach trouble called Mi-o-na stomach tablets is now for sale by leading druggists, who recommend it as an absolute and complete cure for indigestion and all stomach ills. Mi-o-na is not a temporary relief or a mere digestive. Take one of the little tablets before meals for a few days and the digestive organs will be so toned and strengthened that you will be able to eat anything intended for food without fear of indigestion and distress.

Mi-o-na is so universally successful in curing all forms of stomach weaknesses that your money will be refunded unless the remedy gives you satisfaction.

Write us today for a sample package of Mi-o-na stomach tablets, which we send you free, together with diet list and symptom blank. A stomach specialist of years' experience will give you free advice as to how to get well. The R. T. Booth Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

When the managers of the Los Angeles Medical Institute made their generous offer of free treatment to all applicants they had but a faint idea of the number of sufferers that would be anxious to take advantage of this offer, indeed so great was the rush of applicants that at times the physician in charge was unable to wait on all in need of his services, and many good people were disappointed and unable to receive the treatment they needed.

In view of this fact, and to thoroughly demonstate to the people of Los Angeles that we can and do cure catarrh and kindred troubles, we will extend our offer for a limited time only and all applicants till further notice will be treated free of charge till cured. LOOLOOS WIN CLOSE GAME.

Beat Henderson Because He Looked at a Girl.

Bernard Kills Run by Fine Throw from Center.

Largest Crowd Since 'Frisco's Quake Sees Contest.

Los Angeles, 2; Portland, 1.

If they don't say it was one of the best ball games the Chutes ever had they ain't capable of doin' nuthin' to nobody except knock, for one would have to go a long journey to get a better game or a more exciting one and after it was all over the fans spent ten minutes watching Pugilist Jack O'Brien going through some of his training exercises. Taking the two shows together, it is doubtful if the ball fans ever had an afternoon more full of things that looked good, and the weather was all that one could ask for.

Henderson, the crack twirler of the league this year, went into hand 'em for the Champs, and outpitched Bergeman, and yet the best he got was the worst of it. Along about the seventh inning, when the score was 1 to 0 in his favor, and he had the Looloos almost safe, he made the fatal mistake of trying to look at a girl in the grand stand and pitch at the same time. While he was thus engaged in the just-like-a-man idea, he passed two fellows to first, soaked another in the arm, and then let two more slap his choicest to the outfield for singles, and before he had decided whether the girl had red hair or whether it was just the sun shining on it, three of the locals had chased themselves over the plate and won the game.

It was a fine game to watch, for one was always wondering whether the next man to bat could make a hit, and what would become of it. Few of them did hurt the ball much, for both Bergeman and Henderson were there with the goods, and if Henderson had not tried to look at that girl, they might have pitched until milking time. There was no choice between them, and you might have looked at one of them all afternoon and thought it was the other one.

Things went along smoothly for four innings without a man on either side reaching third base, but something dropped in the first of the fifth, and this something was Bergeman. The first man up was an easy out, and then Bergy passed the new man Wanner, and sent him to second a minute later on a fearful wild pitch. He went to third when Lister cracked the ball to left field and scored after the catch of Henderson's long fly to left. Then there was a general tightening up until the last half of the seventh, when Henderson saw that girl in the grand stand.

He made Dillon fly out to center, but saw the girl when Carlisle came to bat, and passed him. Toman shot a safe one to right field, sending Carlisle to second, and then the fans broke loose with loud cheers and howls, and these so rattled Henderson that he filled the bases by hitting Buckley on the arm. This set the crowd wild, and in the excitement of a great volley of cheers, and the music of a cornet, Henderson forced Carlisle with the first run by passing Bergeman. This was enough to tear off yards and yards of enthusiasm, and the finish came when Bernard hit a corking single to right field that scored both Toman and Buckley, because Lister caught the thrown in from the field. The next two men were easy outs.

There was no particular batting feature of the game except Bernard's poke that scored the runs, and he furnished the only real fielding feature by a great throw to the plate from center field, on which he made a double play. It was hard for Bergeman to lose with such support, and he certainly had the satisfaction of beating the best pitcher in the league.

McCredie's new second baseman, Johnny Wanner, from the Rock Island club, where we got Carlisle, arrived here Saturday and went into the game yesterday and did good work. He acts like a real ball player and will certainly make good there.

In answer to a number of inquiries it is stated that the Chicago Nationals and the Chicago Americans will begin tomorrow to play their series for the world's championship and the honor will be decided by the best four of seven games. It is understood that the teams will play every day this week except today and if the championship is not decided this week the games will continue next week until one team wins four games.

MAJOR LEAGUE SEASON ENDED.

BOTH CHAMPIONSHIP PENNANTS GO TO CHICAGO.

First Time in History of Baseball That One City Has Won Honors in Two Leagues—Race Was Exciting in American League Until End. Play Off Begins on Tuesday.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS P.M.]

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—The baseball season of both major leagues for 1906 ended today with games at Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati. For the first time since the two big leagues have organized, both championships have come to one city. The Chicago National League team won first honors in that organization easily. Taking the lead early in June and holding it to the end it established a new major league record for the number of games won. Of the 153 games played by the team 116 were victories, the previous best record in this respect having been held by the New York club in the same league.

In the American League the Chicago team upset all calculations by winning the pennant. The contest was not decided until last week, the New York team being within striking distance of the leaders until October 3, when a six-inning defeat at Philadelphia put them out of the running. An equally hard struggle for the second place was not decided until two days later when Chicago defeated Cleveland and took away the Ohio club's last chance to overhaul New York. The fourth and fifth teams, Philadelphia and St. Louis, were within hailing distance throughout the season, Philadelphia, in fact, leading the league on three separate occasions, the last time no later than August 5. Washington and Boston were tail-enders throughout. In the National League, outside of Chicago's work, the chief feature of the season was the hard struggle for the second place between New York and Pittsburgh. This lasted until the first week in September, when the latter team fell back. The other five clubs in the league occupied the same relative positions most of the season, although Brooklyn and Cincinnati finished with but one game between them for fifth and sixth places, respectively. St. Louis was never a contender, and the Boston club's record of 102 defeats was only exceeded by that of the same club in the American League. Tuesday the world's championship series will begin here between the two Chicago clubs.

MAINTENON WINS AGAIN.

Vanderbilt's Great Horse Takes the Last Rich Event of the Year on French Turf.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Oct. 7.—W. K. Vanderbilt's Maintenon won the last great classic race of the season at Longchamps today, the Prix du Conseil Municipal, of $20,000, defeating J. Lieux's Punta Gorda by three-quarters of a length. There were ten starters.

The superb weather attracted an enormous and brilliant gathering of an international character to witness the meeting of the English, American and French champions, Maintenon, Bachelor's Button and Punta Gorda. Maintenon led throughout the race. The English horses did not get a place.

MAINTENON A WONDER.

Vanderbilt's Horse Lost but One Race and This Was Due to Change of Jockeys.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Maintenon is a three-year-old colt by Le Sagittaire, out of Marcia, and cost Mr. Vanderbilt $4620 as a yearling. Up to the time that Mr. Vanderbilt's Prestige went amiss, Maintenon was forced to play second fiddle to his more formidable stable mate.

When Prestige retired with an unbeaten record, Maintenon became Vanderbilt's chief reliance for all the big stakes in France. His only disappointment was his unaccountable defeat in the Grand Prix, won by the Derby winner, Spearmint. In that race, Maintenon was ridden by Percy Woodland, and English steeplechase rider, because the American rider, Ransch, who was the regular stable jockey, was injured a few days before. Both before and after the Grand Prix, Maintenon's form was much better than in that race.

Racing to Resume.

NEW FOOTBALL A SUCCESS.

Yale Proves Changed Game Is a Good One.

Syracuse Made no Showing With Old Style.

Eastern Coaches Say "New" Has Arrived.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Yale rang out the old football and rang in the new yesterday with a peal that reverberated around the college world. It was an act of good faith crowned with victory by a larger margin than is usually accorded the gridiron virtue. The issue throughout the battle with Syracuse was as clean-cut as the most enthusiastic devotee of the new rules could desire. Syracuse, with an eleven of by-gone times and of uncivilized avoirdupois, played all the old football possible and some that was impossible and was therefore penalized under the new rules, while Yale played the new football honestly and thoroughly.

Altogether Saturday was a field day for the new rules. After having survived other tests they came triumphantly through the rain and mud test, which is perhaps the severest of all. They have already caught on with the public and most of the prominent coaches and more formidable eastern teams have given prejudice the go by and risen to the occasion.

On the work of the week Yale is fairly well in the lead, with Cornell and Princeton close up and Harvard and Pennsylvania showing marked improvement. Army and navy are about on a par at this writing, with promise of strong teams at both institutions.

GREAT DAY FOR GERMANS.

FLAG PRESENTATION AT SHOOT OF TURN VEREIN.

Shooting Section Surprised by the Gift of a Beautiful American Flag by the Ladies of the Association. Changeable Winds and Glaring Light Bother Marksmen.

Delightful weather for outdoor Sunday pleasure featured the regular monthly medal shoot of the shooting section of Turn Verein Germania yesterday at Schuetzen Park, but the conditions were bad for good shooting, because the light was bright and glaring and the wind was so changeable that it not only knocked all chances of high scores but blew down the wind flags.

Notwithstanding these handicaps the Turners made good scores, but whatever might have been their disappointment at the butts it was more than compensated for by the social features of the day. These were entirely unexpected to the crowd of 300 Turners and were particularly noticeable for this reason.

In some unaccountable manner the crowd found its way to the pavilion in the afternoon and were surprised to see fourteen little children carrying in a beautiful American flag, there being twelve girls and two boys as banner bearers. On their arrival Mrs. M. J. Meyers made a fine presentation speech, presenting the flag to the Schuetzen Park Association on behalf of the ladies of the association, and it was accepted in a fitting speech by John Hauerwaas.

Another surprise was furnished by Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Jahnke, of the Palace restaurant, who served the members and their friends with a fine luncheon and also brought along the Palace orchestra under the leadership of Prof. Louis Ritzau, who directed in a pleasing manner an appropriate programme of catchy music.

The social features rather dimmed the efforts of the marksmen in a way and all of them were glad of it, yet they were not ashamed of their scores. These were as follows:

H. Pope, 100; Dr. Taber, 198; John Hauerwaas, 197; Joe Inger, 196; Wm. Frick, 188; A. Wagniere, 173; Prachmayer, 167; A. Maas, 166; F. Huebsch; 158; C. Krempel, 156; A. Wescott, 148; Tom Thompson, 138; Henry Pfirrmann, 134; V. H. Tisdale, 125; Max Friese, 122; and Dr. Seeley, 122.

WOMEN'S GOLF PLAY.

Over Sixty Entrants for the National Championship, Which Is to Be on All This Week.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WESTON (Mass.) Oct. 7.—More than three-score of women golfers from all parts of the country will participate tomorrow in the opening, or preliminary, round of the twelfth national championship, and the player who successfully passes through the ordeal, which extends through the week, will receive the championship gold medal and her club will have for the next year the Rochester trophy, now held by the Oakley Country Club of Boston, of which Mrs. Pauline Markley, the present title holder, is a member.

Denver is represented by Mrs. Geo. W. Roope; California sends Mrs. I. V. Whitney of Claremont, while for the first time in the women's tournament, there will be a Canadian player in the person of Miss Phepoe, of Hamilton, Ont.

SEATTLE THIS WEEK.

SIWASHES PLAYING STRONG.

The Seattle Siwashes will arrive today from San Francisco for a six-game series with the Los Angeles team, and from the way they have been playing the past week, it will keep us hustling to beat them. Russ Hall is bound to finish in third place if not in second, and he is sending his men along at a great rate. Los Angeles had a bad slump last week, owing to the condition of our pitchers, but we hope for better luck this week.

NEALON JUMPS PITTSBURGH.

Left Pirate Team Last Evening for San Francisco and Will Not Go Back.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Joe Nealon, the big first baseman of the Pittsburgh baseball team, left the club this evening at Cincinnati as soon as the last man was out in the last scheduled game of the season. He started straight for California, and will have no part in the barnstorming trip which President Dreyfuss had arranged for the team until the expiration of their contracts, October 15.

It is understood that Nealon has had his fill of Pittsburgh, and will not return next year, but will play on the Coast, and go into business with his father at San Francisco. It is said that he is dissatisfied with the treatment he received here.

PRIVATE CIRCUIT FOR RACE.

Vanderbilt Cup Commission Finds Such Action Necessary to Retain Foreign Entrants.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If the next contest for the Vanderbilt Cup is held in the United States, there is a likelihood that it will be run over a private circuit, protected from the trespassing of the multitude by strong fences, policed by picked men, and under the absolute control of the cup commission.

This much appeared today in the talk of members of the present cup commission and others interested in the contest at the Garden City Hotel.

Some such action is absolutely necessary, if they would see foreign countries represented, and foreign drivers in the race. France, Italy and Germany, through the representatives of the owners and drivers of cars concerned, have already served notice that they cannot run the risk of Saturday again.

RANCH NEAR CORONA SOLD.

Thirty-six Thousand Dollars Paid for Alfalfa Farm, Which Will Be Subdivided for Sale.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

CORONA, Oct. 7.—A deal has just been closed in which the H. J. Pulen Realty Company of Los Angeles acquired the 240-acre alfalfa ranch owned by Priestly Hall of Riverside and located in the Auburndale tract, two miles northwest of Corona. The consideration was $36,500.

Three years ago when Mr. Hall bought the tract it was raw land. Since that time 100 acres were put into alfalfa and a 45-horse power gasoline pumping plant installed that furnishes 269 inches of water for irrigating, which is done by the Tailerday or surface system of pipe.

The land is to be subdivided into five and ten-acre ranches and placed on the market for colonization purposes, which will mean much to Corona as the base of supplies.

WILL WORK ODD TIME.

The Corona Copper Company has bought 160 acres of the old tin mine property near here from the San Jacinto Land Company for $4000, and has an option on 2560 acres of adjoining land owned by the same company. In the copper deposits a shaft is to be sunk 100 feet. The contract for this improvement has been let to A. Nordstrom of Corona, work to begin at once. The surface indications are oxide and carbonate of copper, the smallest assay being $19.

The company has much capital. Some of its members are largely interested in copper properties in Mexico. Among these are R. J. Williams of Canaiea, a mining expert, who has been gathering outcroppings and tailings of former workings at the Temescal tin mines.

CORONA BREVITIES.

Dr. John Craig, who owns between 500 and 600 acres at Temescal, where considerable water development is to be started, is now erecting a house for his ranch hands, and will later build a residence for himself.

The City Trustees have passed on its first reading an ordinance prohibiting skating on sidewalks or in public buildings. The board has ordered payment of the city's electric light bill for September, despite the fact that an injunction has been served on City Treasurer Merream injoining him from paying the bill for August on account of Trustee Le Gage being a stockholder and officer in the electric light company. Le Gage now says he is no longer connected with that company.

BURNS WANTS EVEN CHANCES.

Will Not Give O'Brien Long End of Purse.

Agrees Winner Take All in Long Battle.

Harry Baker Reaches Here from the North.

You can say for me that I won't fight Jack O'Brien any way except by Queensberry rules where each man protects himself in the break and I won't stand for giving him the long end of the purse, win, lose or draw. I will fight him, however, winner take all, if the fight is for forty-five rounds.

This is the way Tommy Burns laid down the law for Jack O'Brien last night, just before he went into a local theater and he wasn't going to see the Queen of the Hold-Up Men or any other great fierce drama where six men are foully slain in the first act and the balance of the company spends the remainder of the night in dragging six buckets of blood off the stage.

This is the day that Burns and O'Brien are supposed to sign for their fight here Thanksgiving Day or night for what Burns says is to be a $12,000 purse and Tommy wasn't talking through his summit last night when he discussed the conditions under which he was ready to meet O'Brien. He declares that Jack wants the big end of the purse, win, lose or draw and won't fight anyway unless he can get Burns to agree to a clean break. This he will not stand for, says Tommy and there will be nothing doing with O'Brien insisting on conditions he has no right to demand. If a man cannot protect himself in the clinches he must be more a boxer than a fighter, according to Burns and he says he'll be dinged if he will let O'Brien hand him any clean break packages. Tommy would rather go out to Eagle Rock Valley and raise gophers the balance of his whole life, than take the hot end of any such thing as he declares O'Brien offers him.

As a result of Tommy's ultimatum we'll have to see what we will see today, if the two pugs come together for a conference.

The Baker-Attell fight for October 30 is now an assured fact for Los Angeles, for Harry Baker arrived yesterday from San Francisco and will begin his training in a few days when suitable quarters are selected. He needs no introduction to the fight fans of this city and the sports are looking forward to something good when he meets little Abe. There will be no question about his making the weight of 122 pounds for he fought the greater part of his battles at 115 pounds.

Attell will be out at the ball game tomorrow between Seattle and Los Angeles and will box with Jack O'Brien after the game.

Cooley is drilling hard at Santa Monica and Tremble is as busy as a bumblebee over at Arcadia in preparation for their meeting with Jack O'Brien next week and both realize they now have the chance of their lives to make good, for if either can hold Jack level, the lucky one can get good fights any place.

At the Churches Yesterday.

Our Opportunity.

REV. J. S. THOMSON, pastor of the Independent Church of Christ, yesterday morning preached the first sermon since his return from an extended summer vacation. The theme of the discourse was "The Two Creators." The works of God and man were contrasted, the growth of Los Angeles to a place as chief city on the Pacific Coast, was noted, and the speaker declared this city should become the leader in righteousness, and be the chief factor in the conversion of the Orient. Dr. Thomson said, in part:

"Man is a creator of forms, machines and tools. Great and small ships, railroads and trains, mighty cities, looms and clothes, are man's wonderful achievements. He has transmuted deserts into gardens and farms. In all the departments of trade and art man has made great progress. But, when a tired worker in any line of activity leaves the noise, confusion and froth, of what we call progress, and stands in the presence of God's mighty works out in quiet nature, the sense of man's littleness takes possession of his soul. The grand mountains, the rushing rivers, and the unspoiled naturalness of the country as God made it, reveal the power and majesty of the eternal Creator. The earthquakes and the seaquakes, which are now quite common, ought to teach us reverence for our Maker. God's works are honest and good. The eye is beautiful in man, or beast, or bird. Its construction is a miracle. God made this most wonderful organ. All the scientists in the world could not make an eye. The divine Creator makes the skin a perfect fit for the body in all its attitudes and motions. The microscope reveals great beauty in the smallest insects. God slights nothing in His works.

"The destruction of San Francisco has revealed much dishonesty in the builders. The artist can make the form of a Jove, or of an Apollo, or of a Venus, or of a Laocoon; but it is God alone that can create the life into his forms, which He makes out of the dust. That part of the Pacific Coast, which is now possessed by the United States and Canada, faces the Orient. We might call this Coast the threshold of Asia. Our influences are already felt by the millions of Asiatics. Are our influences upon them as good as they should be? Los Angeles is now the largest city on the Coast. Will this city refuse to be the foremost for clean politics, fair trade, and honest work? No city on this side of the continent has a grander opportunity to be the leader in righteousness and fair play for the conversion of Asia."

Giving and Receiving.

At the First Christian Church yesterday morning Rev. A. C. Smither preached upon "Giving and Receiving," from Jesus' words: "Give and it shall be given unto you." He said, in part:

"The recorded words of Jesus are not numerous, but they are pregnant with life and vitality. His words enunciate great and living truths that are capable of wide reaching application. This text states a truth of common observation. The world is a mirror reflecting the face presented to it. This lesson is taught by the earth itself. The forest awaits the gift of man that it may be converted into cities and itself be the home of civilization. The prairie awaits his conquering genius, that it may blossom at his touch and feed a hungering world. The desert responds to his touch and gives the orange in return for the cactus bush, and the palace instead of the hut. The earth cries out to man, bestow upon us powers—and upon you will be poured the richest of gifts.

"The political world challenges the best powers of our citizenship. For the work of statesmanship the highest order of genius is required. A great service is demanded of the willing and gifted. The state offers great reward to the willing workers. She has places of honor and usefulness for those who are ready to pay the price. High on the scroll of fame has she written the names of the sons of genius who have bestowed upon her their powers.

"The business world utters a voice of invitation to all who would make a contribution to her perplexing problems. Her demands are arduous and taxing. Her tasks are strenuous and complicated. Only the mighty can be masters here. Society says to the social aspirant, 'Give and it shall be given unto you. Bring your beauty, your youth, your money, your possibilities and make an offering upon the altar of the foolish, the frivolous, the pleasurable, and you shall be crowned with the smiles and approval of the machinking, the giddy that flutter around the altar of much of modern society. Give here, and it shall be given unto you, running over, pressed down, good measure.'

"The church says to man on a far higher level, and with a far nobler meaning, 'Give and it shall be given unto you.' Here are fields of service innumerable, here are appeals of every kind for help, for gifts, for devotion. Here are calls for money. Here are open doors for th enoblest intellect, for the finest gifts. Bring ye all the tithes of mind and money into the storehouse of God, and see if I will not open the windows of heaven and pour you out such a blessing that you cannot receive it.

"The greatest investment today before this gold-mad world is that of confidence and trust in God, that of faith in His Son and loyalty to His church. Will you not take stock in this institution that pays daily dividends most generously?"

The Highways and Hedges.

Rev. Robert J. Burdette preached at Temple Baptist Church yesterday morning from the topic, "Home and Hospital." The text was Luke xiv, 23: "Go ye into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled." Rev. Mr. Burdette said, in part:

"The church is false to its own great mission, if it in any wise neglects evangelistic work. But often there is danger lest, in the intense devotion and absorbing zeal of proclaiming the word, men forget an equally important part of the great commission. 'Go ye out into the highways and hedges.' And we gladly and enthusiastically do that. We dot the vacant lots with 'gospel tents.' We deploy skirmishing groups along the sidewalks, we make the city streets musical with the sweetest melody in the world, the invitations of Jesus Christ to the unsinful and the wretched; we do what we ought to do—what we must do—we seek out men who will not come, and we compel them to hear the words of salvation. And then we forget that the command of the Master of the House is to 'compel them to come in.' The invitations are sent out 'that my house may be filled.'

"The spirit of Christ in all evangelistic work is bringing souls into the fellowship and companionship of the people of God. The true shepherd leaves the ninety and nine and goes out into the wilderness, after the lost sheep.

"Our evangelistic tents are field hospitals. The blessings of God the Savior, multiplied a thousand fold, dwell upon them and their noble consecrated workers. God send to them the broken hearts the wounded spirits, the blind the halt, the maimed in life's battle. God give to these consecrated [illegible] entrance to [illegible] deal with all these suffering ones of earth. But they can't stay there. Men can't live in a spiritual hospital. The church is their home. Now, I grant you, that at first, the home may not seem so inviting as the hospital. The hospital is a place where the sufferer is cared for. The command oftenmost repeated is 'Now, keep quiet and go to sleep.' The voice of the church be it never so gentle, sounds rather harsh when it cries, 'Awake, thou sleeper!' The invalid is encouraged to lounge and rest in the hospital. 'Go work in the vineyard' is the voice of duty."

Marriage and Divorce.

Baba Bharati discoursed on the subject of marriage and divorce, last night, in Krishna Temple. The speaker bewailed the fact that many American homes are being made desolate by the divorce evil, and offered a remedy by declaring that marriage must be a holy union of hearts and souls. He said in part:

"Paradoxical as the title of tonight's talk may seem, 'Married Divorce' is a fact in many American homes—how many, you Americans alone can tell. It is one of the worst courses that any people can be stricken with, a curse that is cutting into the vitals of your nation. They are crying out about the evil of divorce laws and about the enormous percentage of divorce cases. But they scarcely think seriously of the cause of the evil they lament. They would have the Legislature pass some stringent law to amend the evil. But when has legislation been able to drive away a domestic disease. For nothing short of a disease it is, this curse of divorce.

"Holy matrimony is getting out of date, and the joining of bodies, or body-loving minds, is taking its place. Hands are being joined now without the hearts in those hands.

"The soul-part of the heart is the real side of the heart. Formerly this real heart, the soul-side of the heart, used to be joined in marriage, so that marriage meant the materialization of merged souls. Hence marriage meant holy union, the union of the God-parts of a man and a woman, and the union lasted—growing warmer and warmer, stronger and deeper—throughout life, even beyond.

"Now, the marriage of bodies, or of body-loving mind-hearts, is resulting in couples' living in married divorce. Soon the attraction or affinity of body or the body-loving mind is over. The minds are divorced, divorced long before the lawyer or the court knows it. The physical heaven has vanished, the mental hell has taken its place. The remedy lies in soul-consciousness, in developing the soul-part of the heart, by the light of which alone the choice of life's life-long partner can be wisely made, so that that soul-lit wisdom will bear the much coveted fruit—connubial bliss."

Frivolous Excuses.

The parable of the "Wedding Feast," and the excuses offered by those who did not wish to attend, formed the theme of a sermon preached yesterday morning by Rev. Frank DeWitt Talmage of the First Presbyterian Church. The text was Luke xiv:18, "And they all with one consent began to make excuse." The speaker said in part:

Let us examine the excuses by which the men of old evaded this feast, and see how closely they resemble the excuses by which men of the present day try to justify themselves in their refusal to sit down at the marriage banquet of the Lamb. First, the capitalist's excuse. Hardly had the ancient banquet table been prepared, when we see a courier's horse dash up to the would-be host's house. The messenger is dressed in the liveried costume of one of the rich men of the East. He dismounts, and knocks at the front door. When the servant opens that door, the messenger hands in a scented missive which reads something like this: "My dear friend: Much to my regret, I find it impossible to be with you tonight. I know you expected me, but I have just closed a big deal. I have become the owner of a large tract of land, and I must go out and see it. I pray thee, have me excused." The good man may have his suspicion, that the capitalist of the East, now that he was a great land owner, felt a little above his old associates, and, therefore, may have thought it was not dignified for him to mingle with ordinary guests at a common banquet, and thus he stayed away. So we find that the hardest men and women to reach, in a gospel sense, are the rich.

"The Hebrews considered marriage one of the most sacred and important events of a human being's life. Every young girl spent her time chiefly in preparing for her nuptial day. She was always spinning linen and making garments for the wedding trousseau. Every young man was taught that his duty to the world and to God was to marry. He did not enter into this marriage relationship in a haphazard way, as do many of the young people of the present time. He did not marry upon a momentary impulse. But the young people were often affianced for years before the wedding day.

"But, my dear friends, can the husband and the wife truly attend to and fulfill their domestic relations, unless they first have been to the marriage banquet of the Lamb No, no. You know that no husband and father is truly a well equipped parent unless he is a Christian man. You know that no wife is truly an independent woman unless she is a Christian woman.

"My brother and sister invited to Jesus Christ, I am not going to force you to any decision. I am going to leave the whole matter with yourself. Instead of asking you to come to the gospel banquet now, I am going to ask you when you will come? Will you come to Christ ten years from today? 'Oh, no,' you answer, 'I would not like to postpone the gospel invitation as long as that, I may never live ten years. Ten years is a very long time.' Then, will you come to the gospel banquet? 'No,' you answer, 'I dare not postpone this gospel invitation for a year, or even for a month I know that the gospel invitation will not press itself upon me in a month with the same power as it is now doing. Each day I postpone this matter, it is harder for me to come.' Then, my brother and sister, will you accept this gospel invitation now?"

Petroleum By-Products.

The secret of most of the by-products of petroleum is guarded jealously and the processes by which many of the mare manufactured are today entirely unknown outside of the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company. Some idea of the extent and character of these by-products, however, can be gained from the fact that the Standard Oil Company manufacturers more than 200 remedies which enter into materia medica alone. Not once in a dozen times does a druggist compound a prescription in which one of the by-products of the Standard Oil Company does not enter. Among the leading by-products are gasoline, naphtha, paraffine, lubricating oils, vaseline products and aniline dyes.

THE KIND OF A MAN A WOMAN LIKES.

[SPECIALLY CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES.]

A lorn-youth writes me a pathetic letter, saying in effect that he is persona non grata with the fair sex, and asking what he must do to make himself popular with women.

This is a hard question to answer. There are many women of many minds, and each has a different mind about man. The style of masculine beauty that appeals to one woman doesn't please another. The charms that set one maiden's pulses a-flutter leave another with a marble heart. The noble and serious qualities that fascinate plain Mary may repulse frivolous Mary, and so it goes, and instead of there being a frantic struggle for one particular man, every man has his innings and every girl has the secret satisfaction of pitying every other girl because she was not lucky enough to catch her particular Jack. The most jealous wife I ever knew was a woman who had married a man so homely and so cranky that no other woman would have had him if he had been gold plated and set with diamonds, yet the poor wife spent her life in the harrowing belief that every female she met, young or old, married or single, was trying to snatch her treasure from her. There is no disputing about tastes, especially women's tastes in men.

But this is generalizing, and my correspondent comes right down to facts and asks: "How can I become a winner with the girls?" Perhaps the secret of popularity with our fellow creatures must always remain the one unfathomable mystery of life. In the old days, before she lost her French accent, Anna Held used to sing a little song in which she accounted for her fascination for the opposite sex by saying: "For I have sooch a way wis me." That, I take it, is about as clear an analysis of the reason we like one person and don't like another as has ever been given.

A man may be able, possibly to tell why he loves a woman, but as far as women are concerned they never have the ghost of an idea why they love a man. He may not be clever, he may be as homely as sin, and as poor as a church mouse, but he "has sooch a way wis him," and they get up and leave their comfortable homes and follow him to the ends of the earth. And, heaven help them, we don't know why they are doing it any more than sheep know why they follow their leader over a wall. It is simply blind instinct.

I imagine, however, that it is precisely these winning ways that my correspondent desires to cultivate and that he wants to know what qualities in a man are most attractive to women. He says the girls do not care for his society. They cast no goo-goo eyes in his direction. His mail is not loaded down with violet-scented missives and when he tries to curry favor with girls the ungrateful minxes turn their backs to him and talk to another while they eat his candy. It is a sad predicament; let us see if we can turn any light upon the dark problem. In the first place, it should be a consolation to a man to know that his looks have nothing to do with his popularity with women. Very few women care for beauty in a man. It is poaching upon their preserves that they resent. Besides the vanity of a handsome man, compared to the vanity of the vainest woman that ever lived, is as moonlight to sunlight, or as water unto wine, or as any other imitation to the real thing. It is never lending, all pervasive; utterly unsatisfiable, and leaves him no room to notice the appearance of any other human being. It is worth bearing in mind that almost without exception the great heart smashers of history have been men who were not only not fair of face, but often hideously ugly. Titania, falling in love with a creature with the head of a beast, was not such a midsummer madness as the poet represents it. He was not such an ass as he looked, for when he sat upon a flowery bank he spent the time telling her how beautiful she was instead of expecting her to wear herself out pitching bouquets at him as he would have demanded had he been an Apollo.

But, while mere regularity of features in a man counts but little, in attracting a woman's fancy, a man should always be well groomed and well dressed. Nothing on earth but the grace of God keeps a woman in love with a man with two days' stubble of beard on his face. Married women stand this because lack of shaving is not yet recognized as a cause of divorce, but no girl wants a slovenly, untidy man who looks as if he needed to be run through the laundry, hanging around her. All the mocking at the word "dude" comes from masculine ilps. No woman joins in the chorus. On the contrary, the woman feels that the man who comes into her presence ill-clothed, dirty and neglected looking, not only shows disrespect for her but indicates that he lacks judgment, in industry and progressiveness. As a matter of fact that is exactly what being ill-dressed means now. The man who goes about with trousers too short in the legs, a coat that looks as if it had been slept in, and an unshaven face may be a genius, but there are nine hundred and ninety-nine chances that he isn't. He is simply too lazy to take care of himself and there are precious few girls who care to take that long a shot on a hobo beau.

Another thing a woman likes, and it is an attraction that any man can acquire, is a certain savoir faire that makes him equal to any situation. A woman likes a man to know how to offer her a chair, to help her on with her wraps, to order a little dinner. She hates, with unspeakable loathing, the fellow who is always making scenes in public, who gets in rows with the theater ushers over a mistake about the seats, or the street-car conductor about the change, or who sits up like a graven image of wrath every time anybody drops in while he is calling. It is only a chump who has to fight to get his rights.

Women like generous men, but even girls have a contempt for the man they can work. It is not the youths who waste their substance on bonbons and theater tickets and violets who are the most popular with the fair sex. Every girl has what she calls her "candy beau," but she seldom marries him. You cannot touch a girl's heart by upsetting her digestion. An important point to remember just here is that the man who would win favor by means of gifts must give discreetly. A woman will think more of a five-cent bunch of field flowers if they commemorate some special occasion, or match her dress, than she would of a fifty-dollar bunch of American Beauties that have no special significance and that are just sent, hit or miss.

In conversation a man should cultivate a happy medium. A continuous monologue will wear out the strongest and a clam get upon the nerves of the most patient. Before a man takes the floor and devotes hours to expatiating on how he can keep books, or play ping-pong, or take snapshots, he should be sure that the girl is really interested in him. After a woman is in love she can sit entranced for weeks at a stretch listening to a man describing what kind of a collar button he prefers, but if she isn't in love a steady stream of personal reminiscences can make her very tired, and after the first hour she wants to change and have a chance to ring in a few bunches of interesting anecdotes about herself. Common fairness, though, demands that a man should help out with the conversation. From the time a girl is old enough to understand anything she is taught that her chief aim in life is to entertain man, and everywhere you go you can see her toiling like a coal heaver trying to make conversation with some man who is just as unresponsive as a store dummy, and as silent as a sphinx. It isn't a fair division of labor, and if a man wants to win true gratitude, let him chip in and help roll the conversational ball along.

"Be bold, be bold, be not too bold," is a good motto for the man who desires to be popular with women. Women hate a timid man who has to be rounded up and corralled before he will pay them any attention, but they hate the one who takes for granted that he has only to throw the handkerchief to have them jump at him. A man should also learn how to pay compliments as if he meant them. Women can always detect shop-worn flattery that has done duty with a hundred other women before it was passed out to them. There is no surer way to a woman's heart than through her vanity, but it takes an artist to get there by it.

Women like a strong man. Because she has no backbone of her own, the one thing that a woman admires most on earth is a vertebra. There are men who think to make themselves popular with women by being good-natured and useful. They will take girls to parties and let them dance with the other men; they will let girls make engagements with them and then break them; they will suffer themselves to be called upon as escorts when other beaux fail. This is a fatal policy. The man who makes himself a convenience to a woman will never become a necessity to her, and she will invariably pass him up for some man that she doesn't dare to treat badly for fear that he will never come back again.

The last and most important point in winning a woman's favor—and if a man forgets all the rest let him remember this—is not to stay too long when he goes to call.

The Value of Tin Foil.

The recent rise in the price of tin has led many European chocolate manufacturers to inclose this notice in the wrappers of their chocolates:

"Do not throw away the tinfoil in which the chocolate is enveloped. It is composed of pure metal, a metal which is very dear. Keep it, and before long it will be called for by our agents, who will pay for it at its market value." The chocolate industry in Europe spends nearly £300,000 per annum in tinfoil, and these £300,000 are generally thrown to the winds.

What seems to give some color to the alleged preciousness of the paper wrapped around the chocolate is the story told by a Socialist journal of Hamburg, to the effect that a group of workmen were able to procure a part of their common library by collecting and selling these fugitive sheets of tinfoil.

AT THE CITY'S GATES.

VERNON.

SENTIMENT is strong against the operation of a poolroom just a few feet from the city limits of Vernon and residents are working to have the place removed. Across the Southern Pacific tracks on Slauson avenue, the city limits, is the poolroom of Silas Myrick, formerly operated by Black & Co., and now carried on by associates of the famous gambler, who recently died. All day long the placed is crowded with habitues of the betting ring, pools are sold on eastern and western races, and a thriving business is carried on.

Crowding close to the city limits are the residences of Vernon. Tracts of land have been opened across the road from the big barnlike poolroom, and little children play around its doors. The good people of Vernon declare they will not stand for this, as they do not propose to allow their children to witness vice in operation at their back doors. Just what action will be taken is not known at present.

It is no infrequent thing for hundreds of gamblers to be packed into the room engaged in betting excitedly on the races which are bulletined on the long rows of blackboards. Young lads frequently enter, and it is charged these are allowed to place bets.

The place is foul with tobacco smoke and the conversation of the gamblers is such as does not tend to improve the morals of the young.

Seated in boxes, sallow-faced men call out the odds and bettors crowd to place their money. Books are made exactly as if the races were being run on a course outside the betting room.

Several fights have ocurred, and as the police seldom visit the place, and have no jurisdiction if they should endeavor to quell a disturbance, the regulating of the conduct of the gamblers is left to constables. As a result the gamblers have their own sweet will undisturbed. Vernonites declare this will not continue.

Gangs of men are at work laying the sewer along Central avenue, and many of the laterals have been laid. The work is attended with considerable danger because of the sandy soil. The ditches in many places are lined from the surface down with heavy timbers to obviate danger from caving. Work on the paving of the thoroughfare is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. It is the intention to pave Central avenue from Twelfth street to Slauson avenue, the city limits.

HIGHLAND PARK.

The real estate men of Highland Park will hold a meeting Thursday evening at No. 6105 Pasadena avenue, to discuss plans for advertising this section thoroughly during the winter in the local newspapers. A large sum of money will be devoted to bringing the northeast to the attention of visitors.

The Christian Church celebrated its first anniversary yesterday with special all-day services. A choir, under the direction of Prof. W. H. Myers, furnished the music. The pastor, Dr. J. I. Myers, delivered sermons at each service.

The D.O.T. Sorority of Occidental was entertained at luncheon by Miss Edith Powell of Monrovia last week. The young ladies were met at the car by a tallyho and driven through the orange groves.

Rev. Jules Prevost, who has just returned from fifteen years of service in Alaska, addressed the congregation of All Saints' Church yesterday morning. The missionary will take a course in medicine that he may better serve the people around his Alaskan mission.

President and Mrs. John Willis Baer of Occidental College gave a reception to the faculty of the college on Friday night at the Hotel Guirnalda, Pasadena. It was the first of a series of receptions that will be given the faculty during the school year. Faculty members were taken to Pasadena in a special car.

Miss Nellye May Dickson, elocution instructor at Occidental, gave an entertainment in the college chapel Saturday night for the benefit of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian associations.

The Hermon Improvement Association led a meeting last week at Baird's Hall. The committee on raising funds for bringing the car line through Hermon reported that $2250 had been secured. The balance is in sight, and the surveyors are working on the road.

Mrs. Bernice M. Bucknell was surprised Wednesday evening by her Hermon friends. Delightful music was rendered by Mrs. Bucknell and Miss Pearl Jackson, and refreshments were served.

Once more the question of a boulevard between Los Angeles and Pasadena, through this section, is being agitated. Many property owners in the Arroyo are willing to donate their property for such an enterprise. The proposed avenue would be 100 feet wide, and would be extensively used by automobiles.

The real estate market was brisk last week. All the local agents report that the demand for Highland Park property is greater than ever before. The activity is attributed to the rapid growth of Occidental College, which is bringing many people to this section.

Palm Terrace, one of the large tracts in this section that has just been put upon the market, is being graded and improved.

The Highland Park public school is overcrowded this year. When the school building was erected a few years ago, it was believed to be large enough to accommodate pupils for many years to come. An effort is being made to reduce the number of attendants by having them transfered to the Garvanza school. Trustee Hall has been appointed to look after the matter.

Church of the Immaculate Conception, first local Catholic church to adopt institutional features.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Church will give a reception to the returning pastor and wife, Dr. and Mrs. Jackson, and new members, on Friday evening at 8 o'clock at the church on Ash street. All members and friends are cordially invited.

SOUTH LOS ANGELES.

Rev. Michael Raimondo, of the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Wilson and Enterprise streets, is planning an important work among the Italians in this section of the city. The priest is best known for what he has accomplished in the Latin quarter, and it is his intention to provide baths, clubrooms, and a meeting-house for the young Italians, in an effort to improve their social conditions. An addition is being built to the church, and a wing at the side of the main building will be used for club purposes. Billiard and pool tables will be installed and a natatorium will be built.

This is the first time anything of the kind has been tried, and though the effort is an experiment, already a score of men have signified their intention of joining the club and success is in sight.

Working with no thought of reward, other than the satisfaction of knowing he has made life happier for scores of men and women of the poorer classes, the young priest has set about his great task, and already the walls of the building, which is to house the Italian cub, are reared. The furnishings will be simple, but later other forms of amusement will be introduced and the place, it is hoped, will become the gathering point for many.

The ideas of the parish priest are thoroughly indorsed by Bishop Conaty and in spite of the fact that it is the first time the Catholic Church has entered into just that kind of institutional work, members and friends of the church are backing the project with hearty good will.

GARVANZA.

The Garvanza Fortnightly Club will hold its first meeting of the season on Thursday evening, at the College of Fine Arts. Plans will be made for the coming year's work, also the regular election of officers will be held. The retiring officers, Prof. W. L. Judson, president; Mrs. W. Kady, vice-president, and Mrs. W. R. Myers, secretary, will act as the reception committee.

The Garvanza Child Study Circle will meet this afternoon in the Garvanza schoolhouse. An address will be made by Miss F. Ledyard, director of the kindergarten department of the Los Angeles schools. "How to Beautify the School Grounds," will be the subject upon which Mrs. Thomas Smith of the Civic Federation, will speak.

The Young Women's Christian Temperance Union of Garvanza will meet this evening at the home of Mrs. Catherine F. Wheat of North Avenue 66. Miss Wilhelmina Wilkes of Cumnock School, will read a few selections after which Mrs. Wheat will give a short talk on "The House Beautiful." Mrs. Wheat will also address the Union Avenue Child Study Circle on Wednesday afternoon.

W. C. Preston, who sold his home on Avenue 66 to W. N. McMullen, has gone to Alhambra to live.

Mr. and Mrs. Robson, in company with Mr. and Mrs. Norman Williams of Pollard street, are spending a few weeks in Long Beach.

Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Tarr, who attended the Methodist Episcopal Conference at Riverside, returned Tuesday. Rev. John Nicholson has also returned.

A clever little sketch entitled "The District School," under the direction of Mr. Maxwell was presented by the young people of the Garvanza M. E. Church last Friday evening in the church auditorium. The young amateurs met with success and were greeted with a crowded house.

PICO HEIGHTS.

Though there is no definite promise that work is soon to be commenced on the extension of the Tenth-street car line, residents of the extreme western end of Pico Heights believe that ere long cars will run along Tenth street to the city limits. There is great need for a better service, as a large neighborhood, filled with substantial residences, is cut off from convenient communication with a street car line. The company plans to extend the West Ninth street line along Tenth street to Arlington avenue. The work could be accomplished without any great expense as the road over which the rails will be extended is comparatively level.

Rev. David B. Loufbourrow and wife have recently returned from the Riverside conference of the Methodist Church where the Rev. Mr. Loufbourrow was reappointed to the Pico Heights Methodist Church.

This section of the city presents a busy sight as more improvements are now under way than ever before. The largest undertaking is the laying of the sewer and the paving of Pico street from Hoover street to the city limits. This work is being pushed forward steadily and gangs of men are laying the big pipes in preparation for the paving operations to follow.

There was a rally at the Second Baptist Church at Pico and Alvarado streets yesterday gotten up by the Sunday-school. Little Alfred Drew, 19 years old, made the address of welcome and the Rev. Arthur F. Phelps made an interesting talk. There was a musical programme which included a violin solo by Miss McDonald, a vocal duet by Mr. Rose and Miss Novell, a piano solo by Miss Shetsh and a

EAST LOS ANGELES.

Extensive improvements are being made to the Los Angeles Brewing Company's buildings on East Main street. A new wash-house and racking-room costing $30,000 have recently been built. Plans are being made for a cooper shop and keg storage room to be built early in October.

One of the prettiest fall openings of the season was given by Mrs. C. H. Lloyd last Friday and Saturday in her millinery parlors on the corner of Downey avenue and Avenue 22. The store was prettily decorated with ribbons and flowers and all the latest fads in fall millinery were in display.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the East Side Presbyterian Church met Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. Plans for a bazaar and a New England dinner to be given during the month of October were made. Mrs. J. E. Cox was elected president, Mrs. D. Martin and Mrs. Hughes first and second vice-presidents, Mrs. Taylor secretary, and Mrs. McClure corresponding secretary. A Japanese tea pot was presented to Mrs. Cox by the society as a token of appreciation for her faithful work during the past year.

Mrs. W. L. Brett will entertain with an afternoon tea Friday, at her home, No. 3318 Downey avenue. A musical programme is planned for the afternoon.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' Aid and Home Missionary Societies of the Asbury M. E. Church was held last Thursday afternoon in the church parlors. A literary programme was followed by the election of officers in each society. A reception will be tendered Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Sterling Tuesday evening by the Epworth League of the Asbury M. E. Church in the church parlors.

Mrs. A. B. Dunsmore of North Sichel street will entertain a few of her friends on Thursday with an afternoon of music.

The Mutual Culture Club of the East Side Christian Church held an election of officers in the club rooms Friday evening. O. A. Smith was chosen president, Miss Hazel Criese, vice-president; Cassa Ross, secretary, S. A. Adams treasurer, and Miss Lillian Cooper, corresponding secretary. Mr. Adams and Webb Smith were elected editors of the club paper. The installation of new officers will take place Friday evening at the club rooms of the church.

Prof. S. Y. Zwanowski, a talented Russian, who is residing in Los Angeles, gave an interesting lecture on "Tolstoy" to the student body of the Pacific College of Osteopathy Tuesday. He will address the school again on November 6. Miss Wilhelmina S. Bain, from New Zealand, is a student in the college this year.

F. C. Jones returned last week from Grass Valley, where he has been spending a few weeks' vacation.

Mrs. H. Smith of No. 1639 Buena Vista street entertained the Souvenir Club Wednesday evening with a whist party. The hostess was presented with a set of solid silver teaspoons.

UNIVERSITY.

An effort to have culverts and cross walks put in order before the first fall rains is being made by the University Improvement Association and the matter was acted upon at their meeting Thursday night. Heretofore much inconvenience to pedestrians and damage to property has resulted through neglect of such matters and it is thought by calling the attention of Street Superintendent Hanley to the matter the needed repairs will be made before storms render such work impossible.

The meetings of the club are being popularized by some musical or literary features at each meeting and with this in view a committee on entertainment was created, consisting of Prof. Owens of the University, and Samuel Young, the president of the organization. Otis Hymer was placed on the press committee. Dr. W. J. Haney, Judge Francis G. Burke and J. V. Vickers were visitors and were called upon to address those present. Some pertinent remarks upon the advantages of parks and the need of one in this ward were brought out. Judge Burke also spoke of the need throughout the city for public watering troughs for horses.

The Child Study Circle of the Jefferson Street school will hold its first meeting of the school year tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. Mrs. W. W. Murphy, State president of Child Study Circles will be present.

Mr. and Mrs. Berry Edmiston of Riverside have been here the past week, the guest of D. G. Edmiston of No. 1028 West Thirty-sixth street.

Mrs. Jennie Rogers has returned from a visit to San Diego.

University and church circles are pleased over the action of Bishop Moore in returning Rev. Ezra A. Healy to the University Methodist Episcopal Church.

The juniors of U.S.C. held their class picnic at Alamitos Bay one night last week when a small barbecue and water sports were indulged in.

The Women's Auxiliary of the University will hold its regular meeting in the girls' rest room Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Miss Olive Buffington of No. 900 West Thirty-eighth street, who was operated on a week ago for appendicitis, is recovering nicely.

Judge Francis G. Burke is a recent comer to this district, and has bought a permanent home at No. 1158 West Thirty-seventh street. The party was in honor of Mr. Hall's wedding, which occurred recently at San Diego when he was married to Miss Vache, a popular Ocean Park girl. The visitors left a set of china

THE SOUTHWEST.

Politics has been the chief subject of discussion in the Fifth Ward since the meeting Friday night when the independent Republicans put forth the name of A. J. Wallace for Councilman. The calling of this meeting, which was made public through The Times, is everywhere regarded as a clever political stroke, and the only dissatisfied ones are a few who made the claim before 150 of the best men of the ward, that not enough were out and that it was not representative.

The open bluff is made by the "organization" Republicans that they will disregard this meeting, which was participated in by them and their candidate, and proceed to nominate Seth Hart. They cannot afford to ignore the sentiment expressed Friday night and there is a well grounded rumor that Hart has been practically shelved into another position and a more mature man to be run in his place, though it is not certain Wallace, now the non-partisan candidate, will be indorsed. Samuel Young will abide by any action taken by the Republicans but as yet he has not announced a withdrawal from his position.

Mrs. L. M. Roudebush is here from St. Louis on a visit to her son, Dr. L. F. Roudebush, of No. 3024 Vermont avenue.

Two men, driving an old bay horse and a decrepit buggy gathered up a lot of chickens at the McLain ranch a few nights since. They were followed by one of McClain's friends, and overtaken on Woodlawn avenue. When called upon to stop the frightened thieves deserted horse, buggy and chickens and took to the tall timber. The police of the University station restored the chickens to their owner and the horse and buggy are held for a claimant.

Mrs. L. E. Pooler of No. 2821 Dalton avenue recently enjoyed a visit from her father, Dr. Stewart, who has just returned to his home in Wallingford, Vt.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Rich of No. 1783 West Twenty-fourth street, are entertaining W. W. Hook and family of Chicago. Mr. Hook, who is an official of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, is here from Chicago on a brief visit with his family, who have spent the past several months at Long Beach for Mrs. Hook's health.

Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Hermance of San Francisco have been guests for the past few days in the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Kuck of No. 1305 West Forty-first street.

MEN ONLY

I Cure the Cases that Others Cannot Cure

DR. TAYLOR, The Leading Specialist.

A bold statement, but just as true as it is bold. Not all cases that others fail to cure are curable by my methods, but fully ninety per cent of them are. The way to learn whether your case is curable is to consult me. I know exactly what can be done in every instance. I ought to know this, for I have done nothing else other than treat men's diseases for twenty-five years. If your case is curable I will treat you. If it isn't I will not. If I treat you, and you so desire,

I Will Wait for My Fee Until You Are Well

Weakness
Functional weakness in men is in reality a comparatively simple ailment, and is but a symptom of local disorder, a state of chronic inflammation of the prostate gland. No stimulating treatment, whether internally or locally applied, can do more than excite temporary activity. By my system of local treatment I restore absolutelw normal conditions throughout the organs involved, which promptly results in complete and permanent restoration of strength and vigor. This treatment is original with me, and is the only radical and certain cure yet devised.

Varicocele
Varicocele is a relaxation, knotting and twisting of the most vital blood vessels of the organic system. It stagnates the local circulation and interferes with the processes of waste and repair. Neglect brings derangement of functions and injury to the general health. Most physicians resort to surgical operations and hospital treatment. I cure Varicocele in one week without operation, pain or detention from business. My cures are absolutely permanent and no ill effects whatever can follow my treatment.

Contracted Diseases
I have reduced the time required for curing contracted disorders about one-half. This is an important achievement. It replaces danger with safety. It forestalls chronic complications. It removes the infection and inflammation before that vital center, the prostate gland, can become involved. To many men it means the difference between perfect health and a lifetime of misery and functional weakness. My method is mine alone. My treatment is original. In some features it resembles the ordinary. In its chief essentials it is different. In results it is entirely different. It is safe, prompt and thorough.

The above, together with Organic Weakness, Nerve Debilitation, Lost Vigor, Specific Blood Poison, Stricture, Piles and Reflex Ailments, constitute my specialty and are the only diseases I treat.

I state nothing in my announcements but the straight, square truth. It will cost you nothing to call and talk over your case. You can find out all about your trouble and you can later arrange to begin treatment any time you like. My offices, comprising ten rooms, are the largest, most elegant and best equipped in the West.

OMEN IN PERIL AS HORSE RUNS.

CHAMBERLAIN IS HURLED FROM BUGGY IN PASADENA.

Occupants of the Vehicle Narrowly Escape Serious Injury from Mad Dash of the Frightened Animal—Crown City Baseball Team Defeats Hamburgers in a Closely Contested Game.

PASADENA, Oct. 7.—While Miss Chamberlain and her sister of 504 Alvarado Drive were out driving this afternoon at Villa street and Lincoln avenue, their horse took fright and ran away, racing down the avenue to Fair Oaks and down Fair Oaks to Dayton street where it turned sharply and started west.

The ladies of the occupants of the rig managed to keep their seats until the horse made the turn at Dayton street, when Miss Bessie Chamberlain was thrown from the buggy, to the side-

Charles Edsall happened to be passing, and, rushing into the street, he caught the bridle about the horse's head. The animal was brought to a standstill and the occupant allowed to get out of the rig.

Miss Chamberlain, although badly shaken up as the result of her fall, was not seriously hurt and was able to continue without assistance. She was somewhat bruised but otherwise received no injuries.

PASADENA TEAM WINS.

The Pasadena baseball team climbed over to the head of the ladder this afternoon by defeating the Hamburgers of Los Angeles in a closely-fought game. The final score stood 9 to 8 in favor of the home boys, but up to the beginning it was anybody's game. Both sides played good ball and the game was free from errors.

There are a couple of protested games which will have to be straightened out before the standing of the teams in the league can be finally settled upon, but the Pasadena boys are assured of a place very near the top at any rate. The Hamburger team is counted one of the strong organizations of the league.

This morning the Myers Juniors, a team composed of the substitutes of the Pasadena team, met the Dyas-Hamburger team of Los Angeles on the latter's grounds. The local players put up a plucky game, but their opponents were too strong for them and the game went to the visitors by 12 to 6. The local boys are not discouraged though and they hope to defeat their opponents when they play them a return game.

Sunday was cool and comfortable and both games were well attended. The bleachers were filled and the rooters were quite enthusiastic.

STREET WORK ACTIVE.

Street work is being rushed in all parts of the city and, from the outside it seems as though everything would be completed by the time the rainy season set in. If all of the street improvements which are contemplated are completed before winter time it will mean some lively work on the part of the contractors, but the authorities have determined that the principal thoroughfares shall be in the best of condition when the visitors begin to arrive.

The largest single piece of work now under way is the paving of South Fair Oaks avenue. The avenue will be asphalted from Dayton street to Columbia street, a distance of one mile and a half. The present pavement runs south as far as Chestnut street so that the work is completed there will be a continuous stretch of pavement two miles long.

There is now considerable talk of having the pavement continued northward as far as Washington street and the work will probably be undertaken before another year has passed. The heavy cars of the Altadena line stir up a heavy dust along the unpaved part of the street and for this reason the residents of the avenue are anxious to have the paving work done as soon as possible.

FOR THE HOTEL BIXBY.

M. Linnard has purchased the old ranch at Long Beach and will make it into a golf links which he will run in connection with the Hotel Bixby. Mr. Linnard's intention to transform the old adobe into a modern clubhouse and the picturesque ranch will be made into a model golf course.

This is the property which it was rumored a short time ago had come into the possession of Col. Green. At the office Mr. Holmes, manager of Hotel Bixby, denied that any such transaction had been made and stated that such a plan had ever been considered. It is understood that the purchase of the ranch is part of Mr. Linnard's plan of providing a thoroughly up-to-date summer hotel at the beach. The grounds will be fully as attractive during the winter months as during the summer and the new links will undoubtedly attract many guests from Maryland who will take advantage of the opportunity of going to the seaside for an afternoon of golf.

If the plan to run a system of motor cars between Pasadena and Long Beach is carried out it will make the Bixby ranch easily approachable from the city and parties of guests from the mainland can easily be made up to make the trip. Mr. Linnard has several improvements in view and now that he has retired from the presidency of the Pasadena Board of Trade he will have ample opportunity to carry out his plans.

WAITRESS LOSES MONEY.

Alice Doane, a waitress, formerly employed at Hotel Green, lost her chatelaine purse this evening with practically all of her ready money in it. She had just come down from San Francisco for the opening of the hotel and had suffered a considerable loss up north. This evening she was sitting in Central Park when she heard a fire alarm ring. She ran to the corner of Dayton street to see the engine go out and left her purse lying on the bench. She thought of it almost immediately and went back after it, but some one had been there before her and had taken it away.

The bag contained a gold watch, $15 in money and four rings. The loss was at once reported to the police and a careful search of the park was made but no trace of the purse could be found.

THREE FIRES EXTINGUISHED.

Fire started on Raymond Hill, back of the baseball field, this afternoon and for a time it looked as though serious damage would result. A number of boys armed themselves with sacks and gallantly tried to extinguish the blaze but they were able to make but little headway. Finally one of them notified Raymond and he sent a hose cart with hose to the scene of trouble. The blaze was [illegible] a little while [illegible] erward a second fire started and burned in a lively manner for a short time. It was also extinguished before it had time to do any worse damage than destroy a few trees.

Fire in the home of Charles Waterman at No. 753 East Orange Grove avenue, called out the department this evening. The trouble was caused by the overturning of a lamp which set fire to a feather bed and threatened to destroy the house. The engine responded promptly and extinguished the blaze without any difficulty. The damage was nominal.

PASADENA NEWS NOTES.

Work on the new Braley building is progressing and the steel supports for the second story will probably be placed in position the early part of this week. The work of clearing the ground for the new building was slow owing to the fact that it was necessary to use dynamite to demolish the old brick foundations. Construction work will be hurried.

The Rev. Mr. Prevoost, a missionary from Tanana, Alaska, delivered the address at All Saints' Church this evening. Mr. Prevoost is spending his vacation in Southern California and is taking the opportunity to interest members of the Episcopal Church in the work being done among the Indians of Alaska. The address was enjoyed and Mr. Prevoost received many words of encouragement on his missionary work.

A. S. Spencer went into Los Angeles last night and celebrated so enthusiastically that when he reached Pasadena he was unable to navigate successfully. He wandered around the streets until noon today when Patrolman Palmer happened along and placed him under arrest. He was locked up in jail, charged with drunkenness.

VENICE NEWS JOTTINGS.

VENICE, Oct. 7.—A change is due in the Venetian musical world. It is probable that Chiaffarelli wielded the baton tonight for the last time as leader of the Venice of America Band, the organization that has been rendering concerts at the auditorium during the past six months. Although a successor is not to be named for several days, the work of Chiaffarelli is at end. The band is to be enlarged and strengthened for the winter season. It is probable the new director will be Camilo.

ADVERTISEMENTS BOOM MONROVIA.

CITY FORGES AHEAD THOUGH THE USE OF PRINTERS' INK.

Remarkable Commercial and Building Activity Results from Publicity Campaign of Board of Trade—Scarcity of Houses Caused by Influx of Homeseekers—Hotel Needed.

MONROVIA, Oct. 7.—Does newspaper advertising pay? If you have any doubts about it apply for the correct answer among the people of Monrovia. Some time ago the Monrovia Board of Trade decided to advertise the advantages and resources of Monrovia. Advertisements booming Monrovia were placed in a number of newspapers, and now as a result this city is forging ahead like a lusty young giant.

A building boom is in evidence. Homeseekers are flocking in. The demand for residence sites is growing daily. The city's commercial conditions are more active than ever before. In all directions there is increased prosperity.

Relative to the remarkable building boom that has distinguished the first week of October in this city, a partial list of the new structures can be named as follows:

John A. Baxter has begun the erection of a two-story brick structure on the corner of Myrtle and Lemon avenues, which will cost $4500. The Monrovia Laundry Company has called for plans for a $5000 building to be placed on the corner of Myrtle and Walnut avenues. A. P. Seymour of Syracuse, N. Y., has returned to this city and let the contract for a $5000 building on Banana avenue, just east of Myrtle. Building on Highland Tract has already commenced with a $3500 residence that is at the expense of the company subdividing this pretty orange grove. Other houses planned in this district are for homes of well known local people. F. N. Hawes of the American National Bank, and C. L. Daniels will each build $5000 residences on Highland Place at an early date. Mrs. Vera A. Sweatt and Mrs. Harriet Louise Snow, her sister, from Bangor, Me., have selected sites for their homes on the north end of Highland Place near Bonita Court. They will spend on their respective homes between $2500 and $3000. On the corner of Olive and Shamrock avenues J. P. White is having built a $1500 cottage. W. H. McCune has let the contract for a nine-room house on West White Oak avenue at a cost of $3000. Another building contracted for is a $2000 house on Poppy avenue. H. H. Broke, W. C. McQuillan of Pasadena has bought a building site on East Gray Stone avenue, and James Causey of Los Angeles is having plans prepared for a home on four fine building lots on Ivy avenue.

HOMES AND HOTEL NEEDED.

The Board of Trade of this city is anxious to interest a good hotel man in building in this city, where there is a dearth of first-class accommodations for transients, and a scarcity of homes for the tourist families. At the meeting Thursday evening a committee consisting of H. S. McKee, George Barry and C. E. Slosson was appointed to present the advantages of such investment in Monrovia to men who had sufficient capital to make the necessary investment. The Board of Trade will get up a petition requesting that the name of Banana avenue be changed to Grand avenue.

MONROVIA PARAGRAPHS.

Monrovia school grounds and buildings are now kept in good condition through the care of the pupils themselves, supervisors being appointed weekly from every grade. Neatness and cleanliness is given them as orders, and there has been a marked improvement since the innovation was begun last week.

Dr. S. M. Slocum, well known as a mining engineer and manager of several Death Valley properties, has resumed the practice of his profession in Los Angeles, while he will continue to make Monrovia his home. His desert properties are in the hands of capable miners, and he will continue to make occasional trips in his buckboard.

SLAYER'S CHILD MAY DIE.

The infant girl of the murdered Mexican woman, Mrs. Alvetri, is dangerously ill from the lack of proper nourishment and is at the home of its mother's brother, Martin Carvelles, on Chestnut avenue. Delph Alvetri, the father, escaped after killing the mother of his children and has not since been heard from. The Mexicans were slow in reporting the crime to the officers. At the time of the woman's death the little girl that is now so low, was nursing, and the sudden change to artificial food brought on an illness which good care cannot apparently correct. The mother's family has given both children a home.

PIONEER BORNE TO REST.

Henry Reese, one of the pioneers of Monrovia, who died in Los Angeles Friday, was buried at Live Oak Cemetery today and services were conducted at the grave by Rev. H. Russell Greaves of the Baptist Church. There were a number of friends of the deceased who paid tribute to his memory by attending the services. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. Anna Goldsmith, who resides in Los Angeles.

LOCAL NEWS NOTES.

Francis Howell, child of F. C. Howell, was injured yesterday when his pony fell on him as he turned the animal into Baxter's stable on Myrtle avenue. The pony slipped on the asphalt walk, and before the child could release himself had dropped on one side, and the blow to Francis's ankle split one of the bones.

The Second Baptist Church congregation dedicated their new modest house of worship today, a small wooden building which has just been completed. The congregation is small, but as it grows the church can be added to, as it was built with such an increase in mind.

H. J. Evans, an orange grower of Monrovia, left yesterday for a visit to his former home in the East.

MUSICALE AT HOLLYWOOD.

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 7.—Miss Bessie Bartlett will give a musicale and dramatic reading in Wilcox Hall next Wednesday evening, under the auspices of St. Catherine's Guild. Archibald Sessions will assist as accompanist. The occasion will be in the nature of a society event. A number of the most prominent women in Hollywood are patronesses. A group of society men will assist as ushers.

The Hollywood Club will give its first smoker for members on October 13. The club's first dancing party will be given Tuesday evening, October 23. A trolley ride is planned for November.

The Hill Crest Cafe.

WHITTIER PASTOR RETIRES.

Failing Health Causes Rev. R. H. Bateman to Relinquish Post to Rev. W. H. Martin.

WHITTIER, Oct. 7.—Especial interest clustered around the morning service at the Christian Church today, as at that time the new pastor, Rev. W. H. Martin, formally accepted the pastorate, and began his work in a new field.

The retiring pastor, Rev. R. H. Bateman, who has served the church for the past seven years, and who recently resigned because of failing health, was present, introducing Rev. Martin to his people, and conducting the service, a wave of feeling going over the audience as they realized that the clergyman who had served them so faithfully and to whose efforts was largely due the upbuilding of the church, was to preach to them no more.

Rev. Martin preached from the subject, "The Fine Art of Living," making an excellent impression upon the large audience. At the close of the preaching service, the rite of the Lord's Supper was observed, Rev. and Mrs. Martin being received into full membership with the church.

HONOR FEAST OF ROSARY.

At St. Mary's Catholic Church today the Feast of the Rosary was observed, Fathers More and Landry celebrating mass. In the audience were a large company of State school cadets, belonging to this faith, and these, also, assisted in the musical part of the service.

WHITTIER PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Marsden of No. 828 South Painter avenue have issued invitations for the celebration of their golden wedding at their home on Tuesday evening, October 23.

Fred Weed, manager of the Sioux City baseball team, is in Whittier for the winter. Weed is a Whittier boy, whose success in the baseball world is closely watched by his friends here.

Mrs. W. S. Myers has been elected president of the local W.C.T.U. to fill out the unexpired term of Mrs. Clara Sheldon, who has removed to Ontario.

Mrs. W. J. Irvine and daughter, Miss Mae Irvine, were called to Long Beach yesterday by the death of the former's mother, Mrs. Mary Irvine, who passed away in that city at the age of 96.

Thirty students of the Union High School are enrolled in the domestic science department.

President Charles E. Tebbetts of Whittier College has been at Redlands for the past few days in attendance on the sessions of the State Sunday-school Committee, of which he is a member.

RIVERA WALNUTS NOW READY.

First Carloads of This Season's Crop Will Soon Be on Way to Markets.

RIVERA, Oct. 7.—The first carloads of walnuts are now ready for shipment, and are of the same high grade as those sent out in previous years. The Rivera nuts have been marketed since 1887 under the name "Los Nietos and Ranchito Walnut Growers' Association," and have built up a far-reaching reputation for quality. About two hundred cars will be sent out by this association this year from its two packing-houses. These are situated at Los Nietos and Rivera, and at each place the nuts are already being received.

Both houses are models of their kind, prominent representatives of other walnut associations, who visited the plants this past week, stating freely that in no other association were the nuts handled by more up-to-date methods, nor in more economical manner. The average cost to the growers for several seasons past of handling this big crop, including all the local expenses—interest on the investment, etc.—is less than one per cent. of the value of the crop.

This year much expensive machinery has been added to the equipment, and the cost will be slightly larger, but still far less than in most other similar associations.

OCEAN PARK NEWS NOTES.

OCEAN PARK, Oct. 7.—Donatelli is due to leave the beach with his band in a few days. The organization goes to San Francisco, where with a large organization Donatelli will open a long engagement. His successor has not as yet been decided upon, but it is said the Bandarosa Italian band of Denver will secure the contract. The Promotion Committee is raising a music fund and the committee encouraged to hope that there will be money for a fine band, with afternoon and evening concerts daily during the winter season.

Ives Cobb is the new adjutant of the camp of United Spanish War Veterans, succeeding Raymond Boyd, who departed today for San Francisco.

Thomas Menzies has been spending some time at Rio Vista, where he formerly made his home for several years.

George H. Nettleton and J. M. Kean are mentioned as probable successors to Louis Herzog, as City Marshal.

A new candidate for postoffice honors at the Marine-street postal station has developed in the person of F. E. Walker of the railway mail service. He has been a resident of this beach for several years and has considerable experience in the postal service to recommend him for the post.

One of the important matters to be considered by the City Trustees at their meeting tomorrow night will be the application of the gas works for a permit to run an outfall pipe into the sea, for the purpose of carrying off the gas factory waste. Property owners along the beach are up in arms against the granting of the permit.

ANOTHER AVALON INVASION.

AVALON, Oct. 7.—This afternoon the gasoline launch Music arrived here from Long Beach with about twenty men and women.

Most of these came ashore but were restrained from advancing further by Mr. Stanton, the Catalina Company manager, also an officer and a deck hand.

The passengers contented themselves with wandering up and down the shore, not being allowed to go above high water mark. Heated arguments passed between the passengers and the representatives of the owners of the island. One of the party obtained refreshments at an Avalon store after paying the Banning transportation fee of $2.50.

SANTA MONICA BULLETINS.

SANTA MONICA, Oct. 7.—The Santa Monica baseball team suffered a break in its long line of successes today when it bumped into the Home Telephones of Los Angeles. The score was 11 to 7 and the defeat would have been much worse had not the telephone boys rung up the wrong number during the latter part of the game. While the wires were crossed, the talking machine went to pieces, permitting the seasiders to shove a half dozen men around the bases.

Postal Inspector Stewart, who has just completed an investigation of Santa Monica with reference to the merits of her request for the establishment of the free delivery system here, agreed with Local Inspector Wilson that the postoffice quarters were not half as large as they should be. They recognize the demand for more boxes to rent, as well as additional windows for registry and money-order business, but there is no space for anything more in the present quarters. The postal department has promised to send an agent here to assist in the location of the office in a larger room.

Robert L. Bettner and family have returned to their winter home in Riverside, having passed the summer by the sea.

Frank Autill and family have arrived from Kansas City for the winter season.

Miss May Spencer of Ellendale, Kan., has been spending several days with friends by the sea.

Mrs. Kate Wall has returned to her home in San Francisco, after a visit here at the home of H. X. Goetz.

In the corresponding month last year twenty-nine permits were granted, the valuation being $34,810.

REV. COULTAS HONORED.

There is a general satisfaction felt over the return of Rev. G. W. Coultas to South Pasadena by the Methodist conference. During the five years of his pastorate here, Mr. Coultas has been remarkably successful in building up an influential church, and as an evidence of the deep regard with which he is held, a number of his friends went to Riverside to give personally to the conference a petition urging his return.

ASSOCIATION HAS PLAN.

One of the important matters which came before the women of the Woman's Improvement Association at the opening meeting was a clubhouse. A valuable lot located on Meridian avenue near Mission street has been offered to the association, provided a building to cost not less than $2000 be erected upon it. The meeting was of a social nature, so the decision was deferred until the next regular meeting of the club.

Hirsches Invest in Colorado Mines.

Joseph Hirsch & Sons, New York manufacturers of cotton goods, have quietly made large purchases of gold mining properties in Colorado, and through Nathan Hirsch, one of the firm, are preparing to incorporate an exploration company with a paid up capital of not less than $3,000,000. The papers will be filed with the Secretary of State within a week. It will be a close corporation, it is stated, with the stock owned entirely by the Hirsch family and wealthy business associates.

Nathan Hirsch has been quietly acquiring desirable mining properties throughout the State and in other sections during the past four years.

It is claimed that he obtained advance information regarding the route of the Moffat road through Gilpin and adjoining counties. He purchased 500 acres in that district and his holdings are divided by the railway.

"We will operate with our own capital," says Mr. Hirsch. "We believe we will succeed or we would not make so great an investment. I do not think it would be politic to make public our plans at the present time."—[Denver Post.

Coal in Manchuria.

According to the Japan Herald, the Fushun coal mine in Manchuria, which is to form a part of the Japanese government investment in the south Manchurian railway, is believed to be one of the richest coal fields in the world. It is not an easy matter to even approximate the value of the deposits, but some idea of its value can be formed from the fact that the strata extends from 100 to 120 feet in depth, running about ten miles in breadth. The quality of the coal is said to compare favorably with the best output of the Buzen and Chikuzen coal mines. There is also every facility for transportation, both by rail and by the Liao River. The price at which the coal is to be sold is not announced, but the cost of the article in the Shanghai market is estimated at 8.90 yen.

Two Thousand Coal Tar Dyes.

With the discovery of the coal-tar dyes it was found that they gave a brighter tint to the candles than the old dyes did, and were therefore substituted.

There are more than 2000 dyes now obtained from coal tar, and of these, according to leading chemists, but six are not harmful to the health. It is the aim and purpose of the manufacturers of candy to confine themselves to the use of these and of cochineal. Some of the coal-tar dyes are of a very poisonous nature, and these have often been used in the past.—[Philadelphia Telegraph.

ODD METHODS OF ANGLING.

STRANGE WAYS BY WHICH FISH MAY BE "EXTRACTED."

How the Ancients Reaped the "Harvests of the Sea"—Queer Ways to Get the Mackerel—Hawaiians Employ Curious Decoy—Egyptian and Japanese Tricks.

A writer in the Chicago Chronicle gives an interesting review of ancient and latter-day methods employed in fishing. The article may be of interest—if not of aid—to some of our Southern California anglers.

It has frequently been charged that the methods in vogue for gathering the "harvest of the sea" have scarcely changed from century to century, that the bone of ivory or wooden fish hook and rudely-twisted bark nets, like those used by the Eskimos or South Sea islanders, are still to be seen all over the world in substantially the same form, though of greater refinement of manufacture and of better materials. This is not wholly true, however; for there have always been ingenious souls who have digressed widely from the beaten track in their methods. While some of these have proved profitable, others have been failures.

Aelian has given us a curious account of some mackerel which were trained to act as decoys to the wild ones. These fish lived in a bayou on the island of Athenae in the Ionian Sea near Epidammus. Fishermen lived on this island and used to feed the fish in the bayou and in return for this kindness these fish would go out to sea and when they found a school of wild mackerel lead them toward the island, so that the fishermen could catch them.

The native fisherman of the Hawaiian Islands has a curious method of decoy fishing. Catching a uhu, one of the labroid fishes, he runs a line through its gills and mouth and then lowers it alive at a spot where the uhu congregate and gently works it back and forth. The uhu in the vicinity are attracted and angered by the strange antics of the decoy and swim up close to observe it. A bag net is gently lowered and the decoy is then slowly drawn into this, closely followed by the others, when the mouth of the net is closed and it is drawn to the surface and the catch emptied into the canoe.

It has been said that the remora, a fish with a curious disk on its head, by means of which it attaches itself to other and larger fishes, is used by the fishermen of Mozambique in fishing for turtles. A ring is placed around the fish's tail and a cord attached to this ring. When put into the water it swims to the sleeping turtle and attaches its sucker to the animal, when the fishermen haul both ashore or into the boat.

One of the most ancient methods of fishing is with birds, the Egyptians having used them for this purpose as far back as history extends. The Japanese, who are exceedingly skilful fishermen, employ the same method today in fishing their rivers for the ayu, a dwarf salmon about the size of our smelt. Black cormorants are used and when fishing a tight ring is placed about the bottom of the bird's long neck, while a light rope is looped under each wing with the loose end held in the hand of the fisherman. Placing the cormorants in the water, the man starts down stream, being closely followed by several men dragging a net along the bottom, thus driving the fish ahead. The birds are as eager as pointers and apparently full of perfect enjoyment. To the right and left they plunge with lightning strokes, each dip bringing up a shining fish. When the bird's neck is full of fishes down to the level of the shoulders—the ring on the neck being too tight to allow the fish to pass into the bird's body—the man draws him in, grabs him by the leg and shakes him unceremoniously over a basket until all the fishes have flopped out.

In the fresh water lakes and streams of Connecticut a concoction of pulverized mullein seed and India cockle mixed with flour in pill shape, has been used with considerable effect. The pills are thrown into the water, where they are greedily devoured by the fish. The poison seems to make the fish drunk, judging from their movements. They soon recover from its effects, however.

On the Sea of Galilee in the Holy Land a poison made from the juices of some of the shrubs which line the shores is mixed with bread crumbs and thrown to the fishes. Almost immediately after eating the morsels the fish turn belly upward, quite dead, and are easily picked up by the fishermen.

Since electricity has come into such general use it is not surprising that it has been employed in the fisheries. A Frenchman named Trouve has devised an ingenious method in which electricity plays an important part. In his nets, of a cylindrical shape, the ring forming the bottom has lead sinkers fixed to it in the ordinary way, while the upper edge consists of a rubber tube, which is in communication by means of a long, flexible rubber pipe with a reservoir in the boat, and which is supplied with compressed air by means of one or more air pumps. Instead of being placed in the boat, this reservoir can, in some cases, be arranged on shore, or even on a special buoy.

When thrown in the water in the usual way, the rubber tube having been emptied of air, the weight of the net will, of course, take it to the bottom, where it forms a stationary mass of relatively small volume which will not of itself terrify the fish.

It is well known and recognized that fish, in common with most terrestrial animals, not excluding men, are strongly attracted by anything which glitters. Mr. Trouve has taken advantage of this and has constructed luminous buoys containing batteries or accumulators connecting with incandescent lamps. A flattened reflector spreads the light over a wide extent. These buoys are placed with other bait in the nets and the fish are attracted from all sides, like moths to a candle, and become prey. As soon as there is reason to believe that they have gathered in force a stopcock is opened, allowing the compressed air from the reservoir to flow into and to inflate the tubular ring which constitutes the upper border of the net. This ring as a result augments in volume and forms a rigid mouth for the net, and at a given moment, in accordance with the law of Archimedes, it becomes buoyant and rises to the top of the water, carrying the net with it.

Fish are exceedingly curious and will crowd closely around anything new. Sometimes a little bait will be attached alongside the cap to hasten matters. With his water glass the fisherman watches the cap and the fish moving about it. When one that he wants gets near enough he presses the button on the edge of the buoy—the cap explodes. The shock merely stuns the fish, and it is quickly dipped up with a small hand net. In deep water a grapnel is used in bringing up the stunned fish.

A Norwegian has invented a queer way of finding out where the fish are. A microphone, which is an instrument that will catch and transmit the least little bit of sound, is lowered into the water from a fishing smack and a wire from it leads to a telephone aboard the boat. Now, as the herring, codfish and mackerel schools number thousands and tens of thousands of fish, their passage through the water naturally causes a rushing sound, which can be heard by the fishermen at the telephone, and thus they are enabled to lower their nets at the right time and in the right place.

A contrivance by which game fish are lured with a mirror to take the bait has been patented lately by a Rhode Island man. The invention, according to the letters patent, comprises a mirror, preferably of an oval or circular form, attached to the fish line by means of a ring fast in the frame of the mirror. A horisontal arm extends a short distance in front of the mirror and has at the outer end a ring to receive a branch line, the upper end of which is made fast to the end of the branch line so as to come about opposite the center of the mirror. In using the apparatus the hook is baited and let down into the water with the mirror. The fish will imagine another hungry fish is after the same bait, because when approaching it he will see his reflection in the mirror, and, made bolder by the supposed companionship, he is eager to take the bait before his competitor seizes it. The mirror may be made in two parts and secured together at an angle, the one to the other, so as to have the effect of making two or more reflections of the same fish. It may also be made in the form of a triangle or square, with a mirror on each side and an arm with the hook and bait before each reflection in the surface.

An ingenious electrical device has been devised for fishing in the clear waters of the south. In a bag slung over his shoulder the fisherman has a small electric battery. From it lead two wires and these run down his left arm to the water telescope. The latter is nothing but an [illegible] water bucket with the bottom removed and a pane of glass substituted. On the edge of the bucket is a switch to which the wires are attached. From this button the wires are conducted to the pole which the fisherman holds in his right hand, the wires being lightly looped over the end of the pole so that they can be readily slipped off when he desires to use the net. Thence the wires go down into the water just as a fishline would and terminate in a detonating cap such as is used to detonate dynamite.

Vermont Rose Group.

The Dores-Montgomery is a Los Angeles mining company which owns five claims in the Bullfrog district, Nev., and six in the South Bullfrog district, Inyo county. It is working on the latter group, known as the Vermont Rose claims, through a tunnel 170 feet long and a shaft tapping the tunnel, and the superintendent reports that stringers of gold ore have been cut, indicating the proximity of a good body of ore. Secretary E. W. Peck has returned from a visit to the property, and is well satisfied with the prospects. The company has built miners' quarters and a boarding-house and has found good water near by.

Mining Congress.

The ninth annual session of the American Mining Congress opens at Denver on October 16. Among the important subjects scheduled for discussion and action is the prevention of mining frauds by State legislation. Gov. Pardee of California will deliver an address on the subject, and the committee of which he is chairman will recommend a bill for indorsement by the convention. State Mineralogist Lewis E. Aubury of California is on the programme as speaker on "Needed Legislation for the Protection of Forests."

President Eliot of Harvard is no believer in the Rooseveltian spelling reform. Once there was a student who was a candidate for the degree of doctor of philosophy. This man adopted spelling reform as his particular line of work and as commencement day drew near he went to President Eliot with a request. "You know, Mr. President," he said, "that you are proposing to make me a Ph. D. Now I have made a specialty of spelling reform and I always spell philosophy with an 'f.' I therefore called to ask you if you could not make my degree F. D. instead of Ph. D." "Certainly, my dear sir," replied the president of Harvard. "In fact, if you insist we shall make it a D.F."

NEWS REPORTS FROM CORRESPONDENTS OF THE TIMES.

SAN BERNARDINO REALTY ACTIVE.

...PROMISES TO EXCEED ALL RECORDS OF PAST.

...Values Set in Some Localities and All Signs Point to Prosperous—Elks May Soon Purchase Site for New Lodge Hall. ...Many Homes Sold.

SAN BERNARDINO, Oct. 7.—The realty activity anticipated for fall has set in with a rush, and promises to exceed all records of the past for the first week in October, where the $30,000 mark, the most important being the purchase of the Sherman McKinney home by Sherman Holcomb, for $8000; the purchase by Mr. Johnson from S. R. Thorne, the residence on D street, south of the city, for $6000; the King property on Arrowhead avenue, for $5000; the Cobb bungalow on Third street, just across from the High School, bought by E. R. Russell for $4000, and the McClintock property, on W. S. Cope for $4000. In these deals, there are numerous others of a smaller magnitude, which, while less important, as marking the opening of a new record for real estate activity, and the prices obtained in many instances set new records for their respective localities. Among the buyers of those named was Mr. Herman Batchellor, who secured a wide frontage on Fifth street, and will erect with an attractive home to be graced with locust trees which are not their equal for fine shade in all the valley.

The site likely to see the purchase of a site by the Elks for their new lodge hall. The site favored is the property on Fourth street, between E and F, 82x300, which is held at $10,000, asked for the corner at E and Fourth streets.

Tonight the Elks will meet for the purpose of taking action, and it is said that the final decision will be made then. Building will be begun immediately following the purchase of a site. The Elks have planned elaborate building, which will be finished magnificently.

OBSTACLE GONE.

Action will be taken tomorrow which will finally dispose of the suit against the Hall interests by the San Bernardino Valley Traction Company to secure a right of way across the Rana ranch, north of town, for the extension of the electric railway to Arrowhead Hot Springs. A deal has been arranged, and as soon as the railway the desired right of way, is even now ready for the work. This practically removes the obstacle to the building of the line, and makes it possible for the grading crew to commence work tomorrow morning.

ARROWHEAD LINE PLAN.

Contractor Swinney has been for the Arrowhead Reservoir Power Company, building from the higher end of the line on the mountains to Little Bear, and it is declared here that it is really for the San Bernardino Valley Traction Company interests. It is the theory that a careful study of the grades the company will extend the line to the foot of the railway, and carry its ore and freight up the incline. There will be again transferred to the Bear Valley extension.

Work back of the incline railway is pushing work on the incline, which at present cable with a motor, and installing more powerful machinery. These alterations are necessary. For some weeks the incline has been in use, and all the ore from the big reservoir project is carried to Little Bear Valley, in place on wagons as of the completion of the incline railway noted, the ore will again be sent up the railway.

ADOLPH FUNERAL.

The funeral of Judge Horace C. Adolph this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the Masonic Temple, believed to be the largest ever held here. A general call was issued to all Masons to attend the two lodges. The Knights Templar acted as escort to the Blue Lodge, following it came the various lodges.

The floral offerings were impressive. There were a large number of floral remembrances coming from Los Angeles and other cities and towns. Resolutions of respect will be offered in the superior court, by the San Bernardino Bar Association, and court will adjourn at once out of respect to the memory of the dead jurist. Since Wednesday morning all flags on public buildings have been at half mast.

Rev. J. Shaw of the First Baptist church officiated at the obsequies.

MEXICAN FOOTPADS.

Deputy, gang foreman of the Santa Fe grading outfit which arrived yesterday from New Mexico, was the victim of a bold attempt at highway robbery last night. While walking along D street, south of the city, he was suddenly rushed into an alley by several Mexicans, and viciously assaulted. Hickley refused the command to hold up his coin. He had just begun to shout for help, when he put the Mexicans off. Hickley reported the matter to the police, and the robbers in custody.

SOCIAL CLUB OPENING.

Mrs. Bandino's Coffee Club will throw open to the public on October 15. The action is expected to prove a powerful influence against the saloon. It is promoted by the leading ladies of the town. Besides refreshments and substantial meals at all hours the club will have games where men and boys may play. The best of reading will be provided and eventually a gymnasium will be installed. Contracts were let for fitting out the reading-room and lodging quarters. The rooms of the club will be featured by a public reception.

SAN BERDOO BREVITIES.

Mayor Hugh L. Dickson has returned from Milwaukee, where he was called as counsel of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Engineers in the Independent and Socialist candidate for District Attorney of this county. He explains that the position of grand counsel of the Brotherhood Attorney would not clash. No conflict occurred on the railroad, he says, and if it should occur, he would act without fear.

Superintendent of the city schools made a call for cans and baling wire for the High School Park yesterday, workmen and gardeners to clear out the rubbish and get them ready for the opening next month. The children are invited to ice cream and cake, given by the ladies of the Civic Section of the Woman's Club.

Mrs. Greenwood, a veteran newspaper man of Los Angeles, passed through this city several days ago on his way to Skyland Inn, where he is now enjoying an outing of two weeks.

WALNUTS SEVEN INCHES AROUND.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

RINCON, Oct. 7.—Charles Sanderson, a local rancher, has grown some extraordinary walnuts, many of which by actual measurement are seven inches in circumference. The nuts are finely flavored and the meats are more than twice the size of first grade soft shell walnuts. Some years ago Sanderson planted twelve trees of what is called the Alaska walnut. Five of the twelve trees now bear immense nuts, which bring fancy prices. Curio dealers make up the shells of this double nut into thimble and ring boxes, thus opening in Riverside county another specialty in an already profitable industry.

DR. BULGIN AT ORANGE.

Evangelist Addresses an Immense Audience—Has the Hearty Support of Churches and Citizens.

ORANGE, Oct. 7.—The large tent of Dr. E. J. Bulgin, the evangelist, was erected here yesterday and every thing prepared for today's services. Prof. Gates sang in the Christian Church at the morning services today and held a well-attended praise service this afternoon in the tent.

Prof. Gates expects to have a choir of a hundred or more voices to lead in the singing under his direction.

Dr. Bulgin preached in the tent this evening to an immense audience.

The evangelists will remain here two weeks and probably longer if good results are shown. They have the hearty coöperation of the pastors and members of the Christian, Methodist, Baptist and Presbyterian churches, as well as many other citizens interested in the welfare of the city.

There is considerable talk as to whether Dr. Bulgin will attempt to ferret out the "blind pigs" here.

SUPPER GIVEN IN CHURCH.

The members and friends of Methodist Church enjoyed a pleasant evening at the edifice on Friday evening. Although the new part of the church is not yet finished, tables were spread in the old part and a bountiful supper was served to about 250 persons. A short programme was given during the evening, Rev. and Mrs. Woodward and J. R. Schooly giving addresses, Mrs. T. V. Pruitt, a solo, and Mr. and Mrs. Gleason a duet.

ORANGE SCHOOL NOTES.

The sophomore class of the High School went on a hay ride to the county park last evening.

The senior, junior and sophomore classes of the Orange Union High School will give a reception to the incoming freshman class on next Thursday evening at Odd Fellows' Hall.

On next Friday evening the teachers of the grammar school will give a reception to the grammar and High School trustees and to the High School teachers, at the home of Miss Mabel Parker.

PERSONAL MENTION.

F. W. Butler returned to Orange today from his yearly trip to Glasco, Kan., where he goes to look after his farming interests.

J. G. Schumacher, who was removed to the Santa Ana Hospital with pneumonia, is improved sufficiently to be up, and expects to return home soon.

C. E. Greene has returned to Newport after a visit in Orange.

Albert Heim has returned home from Oxnard.

SAN DIEGO NEWS ITEMS.

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 7.—Chief of Police Thomas has inaugurated a crusade against automobilists, who drive their machines faster on city streets than the law allows. Numerous accidents have occurred here recently, due, in each case, it is charged, to chauffeurs exceding the speed limit. Chief Thomas has, accordingly, stationed several men on certain portions of Fifth street, where the speed violations have been most flagrant, and says he will break up the custom which he considers dangerous to the lives of citizens.

A large increase in the stamp sales for September over the corresponding month of last year is recorded by the local postoffice, the gain being $959.51 or 23¼ per cent. For the first three-quarters of 1906, compared to 1905, a gain of 17 per cent., or $7905 is shown. Postal Inspector Frank Stewart recently spent two weeks here, investigating the necessity for extending the delivery system, and has forwarded to Washington a report, recommending many improvements. In line with these, an effort is being made to renumber several local streets, and place street signs on corners, as suggested by Inspector Stewart.

ORANGE COUNTY IRRIGATION.

NEW CONTRACT MEANS MUCH TO RANCHERS OF SECTION.

Agreement Reached Signifies the Development of a System Covering Thousands of Acres—Project Believed to Be Most Important Plan of Kind Ever in District.

SANTA ANA, Oct. 7.—An agreement has just been made between the Irvine Ranch Company and the irrigating companies of El Modena and Villa Park, that is believed to be the most important contract ever signed in the interests of local irrigating companies. By the agreement the first step is made to bring about a complete change in the irrigating system in the country. It means the development of a new system covering thousands of acres.

By the terms of the contract the water companies secure the right to use 100 acres for water preservation. The land is located between the present lake and the county park. The ranch company agrees to use water on its cañon property during the seven months of this year only, and none at all during the five dry months of the year.

In return the Irvine Ranch Company is granted the right to take storm waters from the Santiago over the watershed during seven months of the year. Herein lies great possibilities for by the proper expenditure of money an immense amount of water can be taken for use over the San Joaquin ranch.

The contract is important to every rancher whose lands are dependent upon the flow of the Santiago creek for water.

PARADE OF PRODUCTS.

At a joint conference between the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, it was decided to hold a Parade of Products celebration again this fall. The exact date has not been fixed. Thanksgiving Day seems to be the date most favored. A mass meeting has been called for October 9, when final arrangements will be made, and the necessary committees appointed.

FOR EL CAMINO REAL.

At a meeting of the Orange County Good Roads Club No. 1, it was decided to recommend that the road best suited to the purpose of El Camino Real is the main county road entering La Habra, Valley from East Whittier, passing through La Habra, Fullerton, Anaheim, thence to the western edge of Orange, south down Main street, through Santa Ana to First street, east to D street in Tustin, thence to Laguna avenue, across the San Joaquin ranch to San Juan Capistrano, and down the coast to the San Diego county line.

NEWPORT BEACH BREVITIES.

NEWPORT BEACH, Oct. 7.—The officers of the Orange County Fish and Game Protective Association are having trouble in trying to enforce the law and stop the illegal killing of game. The association has a list of names of persons who are said to make their headquarters at Balboa and from there, go to the Irvine ranch property north of here and shoot quail and ducks.

After careful investigation of recent reports of game violations, the officers of the association say they are sure that the persons accused are guilty. The evidence at hand, however, is not strong enough to secure a conviction. Extra efforts will now be made to secure further evidence against the hunters in question.

WIRELESS GOES LONG DISTANCE.

Message Sent by Cruiser Charleston May Have Traveled Eight Hundred Miles.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 7.—News of the Charleston now coming up the coast was received at the Point Loma wireless station this evening. The cruiser was trying to get into communication with Point Arguello and the message, which was only the word "Charleston," was caught at the Point Loma station. Judging by the distinctness of the message the cruiser is thought by the operator to be between 800 and 900 miles down the coast. Unfortunately, the sending apparatus at Point Loma is temporarily out of commission, and the station consequently was unable to communicate with the Charleston or Point Arguello.

Wilmore, twenty-five years his junior. Smart received his final decree in Los Angeles yesterday, and at once hurried to Santa Ana with his bride-elect. After the wedding he stated that it was exactly two hours from the time of securing his freedom from his former wife until he was again in matrimonial harness.

OUR METHODS IN OLD "LUNNON."

"AMERICANIZATION" OF UNDERGROUND ELECTRICS.

American Expert's Views on Alleged Failure of "District" Railway—Real Cause of Trouble Is Workmen's Trains — Twenty-five Per Cent. of Passenger Traffic Is Carried Below Cost.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 22.—American methods of running electric railways are coming in for very severe criticism in England just now. The raising of the fares on the District Railway, the old London underground, which Yerkes converted from steam to electricity, has brought down on the heads of the directors a storm of protest and vituperation. Many people imagine that the entire American electric railway system is a rank failure; and the whole trouble with the entire road is boldly attributed to "Americanisation."

As there are immense American electrical industries involved in the accusation, the writer, in order to obtain the exact facts concerning the matter, has interviewed several prominent American experts in London. One of these—who would not, however, consent to have his name used—has made a statement which absolutely clears up the charges against American electrical systems. This expert is an official in direct touch with the much-criticised District Railway.

"Many people—both in the English newspapers and at several mass meetings held in London recently," said the official in question, "have stated openly that the Yerkes electrization of the London railways has been a complete failure; and to this cause they attribute the alleged fact that the road is steadily losing money.

"You may take it from me that there is nothing whatever the matter with the Yerkes methods. Of course, when we first began to operate the road, there were many conditions to be met which were peculiar to London; but these were difficulties that the engineers soon overcame; and, within a quite reasonable time, we had completely eliminated the initial breakdowns which always occur in the early stages of such work.

"Of course, there were a lot of old-fashioned people in London who were most dubious about the efficiency of electrical methods; and as many of these were on the boards of directors of some of the companies Yerkes was working with, it made his task very difficult to perform. There was a large class who supported the interests of the old engine-drivers who had been for a quarter of a century on the footplate of their locomotives and naturally these people did not wish to see such faithful old servants displaced.

"People can criticise the electrization of the London underground as much as they like; but they have got one condition to face which they cannot get away from—and that is that electrization was the sole salvation of the road. I can prove this very readily and very simply. Running under the steam system, it was found that with the fullest and quickest time table possible, only eighteen trains per hour could be run on the lines. The tunnels would not permit of more trains than this. If more trains were run, there would have been such a volume of smoke and steam that no one could have breathed. This is an admitted fact. And yet, it was absolutely essential—if the road was to remain in existence—that more trains, twice as many, should be run. How was it going to be done?

"The only answer was, electrization. By this method we have been able to increase the number of trains, to run them closer together, to do away with the gas, smoke, and steam, in fact, to make the meeting of the increased volume of traffic possible. With the old steam methods, the road was steadily losing money and passengers every year. This is proved by the statement that three years ago, before electrization, the number of passengers had decreased as compared to the previous year. Whereas, since electrization, the volume has increased from year to year, each year showing that several hundred thousand more passengers have been carried than in the previous year. So it is futile to decry the electrization. Without it, the road would have had to go out of business.

coal needed between certain dates was not to be binding in case of a strike is held, in Covington vs. Kanawha Coal & C. Co. (Ky.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 243, to be inadmissible.

That the action of detinue will lie to recover a promissory note is held in Hefner vs. Fidler (W. Va.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 138.

Where the owner of property has, by deed duly recorded, conveyed a lot of land and also a free right of way for an alleyway extending from the rear end of said lot across another lot owned by the grantor, it is held in Flaherty vs. Fleming (W. Va.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 461, that the placing of a fence or a gate upon and over such right of way by a subsequent grantee of the other lot is a wrongful obstruction of such way in violation of the right of the first grantee under his deed.

That the owner of the lower portion of a building is under an obligation to keep its walls in repair so as to furnish a support for the upper portion which is owned by another person, is denied in Jackson vs. Bruns (Iowa) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 510.

Before recovery can be had for consequential damages resulting from the taking of property by eminent domain, it is held, in Postal Telegraph Cable Co. vs. Peyton (Ga.) 3 L.R.A. (N.S.) 333, that proof must be adduced which discloses the nature and extent thereof, and data furnished from which a reasonable and proper estimate of the amount of compensation to which the owner is entitled may be made.

"They would pay a little more, or revert to the old system, they would decide to pay more. There is no alternative. It is a question of pay more, or retrogress.

"Meanwhile, the statement has been made that our American engineers never experimented with alternating current traction schemes. I would like to say that American electrical engineers are known all over the world to be the most expert in electrical installation. They have experimented, of course, with every known system and this statement is absolutely erroneous.

"Another point which has been raised was that in putting in our system in London, no proper test was made of air brakes, automatic doors, axles, automatic couplers and other appliances. This is another statement which is scarcely worth denial. Every device placed on our cars was thoroughly tested and every appliance tried, our sole object being to get the very best for the purpose.

"Now we come down to the reason itself why we are not making money. I attribute this largely to the fact that the law of the land has converted the District Railway more or less into a philanthropic institution. We are compelled by law to run, up to 8 o'clock in the morning, what are called workmen's trains. This means carrying exactly 25 per cent. of our passengers below cost. I have a report here before me showing the number of workmen carried on the District daily. I get these reports each morning. What do I find? It shows that we lift a man up and down twice in expensive elevators, carry him five miles and even more to work, and charge him just 2 cents. How can it pay any railroad to do this? Of course, if we were subsidized by the government, and could call on the taxes to help us out—as is the case with the London County Council steamers on the Thames—we would be O.K. But, with 25 per cent. of our traffic carried on at a dead loss, we have to raise the rates on the passengers who are not workmen. We have worked it out that the cost of carrying a passenger and giving him present rapid service—trains running every minute or so—figures out at about 1.8 penny per passenger, this being about 2½ cents in American money. When the workmen pay us just 2 cents, we lose on every man."

"And if you reverted to the old steam methods?"

"If we reverted to the old steam methods, running not more than eighteen trains per hour, and with practically wretched accommodation, the line would have to go out of business in a year or two. Modern requirements would not tolerate it."

IS THE EARTH LIKE AN EGG?

NEW THEORY SAID TO BE HELD BY SCIENTISTS.

Prof. David of Sydney University, Australia, Talks of the New Theory Expounded by Prof. Milne and Gives Reason in Support of the Contention.

[San Francisco Chronicle:] "It is my firm belief that the earth is composed in the manner of an egg, with three different homogenous substances. The outer, or the crust of the earth, corresponds to the shell of the egg, then there is a softer, perhaps gelatinous substance, which corresponds to the white of an egg, and in the center of the earth is still another, which is like the yolk of an egg."

These are the words of Prof. T. W. Edgeworth David, of Sydney University, Australia, one of the world's great geologists, who is at the St. Francis. Prof. David has just returned from attending the National Congress of Geologists at Mexico City. He has traveled around the world and read papers before the Royal Society in London. While there he came in contact with Prof. Milne, one of the great earthquake experts, and was led to believe the new theory as expounded by Milne.

SAYS PROOF IS EASY.

"The proof is easy and simple and th idea is a complete departure from former theories of the earth's interior," said Prof. David, his eyes shining with excitement. "It has come to Milne as the result of lifelong experiments with earthquakes and motion of the earth. The proof is adduced from the lines of the seismograph during an earthquake shock which results in the destruction of buildings, that is, one of extraordinary violence. If the lines of the seismograph during such a shock are examined, it will be found that they are divided into three sets of curves. The shock begins with very slight vibrations; suddenly these are increased to about twice the length, without any gradual transition. After these have continued, there comes another equally sharp increase, in which the lines become about twice the length of those preceding. It is during the last period of the shock that buildings are wrecked. It is from the study of these lines that Milne has arrived at the theory which has astonished the scientific world.

MILNE FATHER OF THEORY.

"Milne was the first man who saw the value of studying earthquakes, and brought scientific treatment to the subject. He noticed at once this similarity in all impressions of the seismograph, and thought there must be some reason for the three sets of vibrations. Then he investigated. He found that the slight vibrations continue about 10 degrees from the center of shock. Then the next set begins and continues about 120 degrees from the center of shock, then the third set staft and are heaviest at that point directly opposite the center of shock.

"If the earth is represented by a circle drawn on a paper, and a point is marked as the center of shock, then if 10 degrees are marked off along the circumference, it will be found that the distance from this arc to its chord is about thirty miles. In other words, the crust is thirty miles thick. Then as soon as the vibrations get through the crust, they strike the white of the egg, and the first quick jump comes. It is found that the substance under the crust of the earth takes up about four-tenths of the diameter on each side, and the inside substance corresponds to the yolk of the egg. It is supposed that the substance immediately under the crust of the earth is softer than the crust, and that when the vibrations reach it, the crust rises and falls on it in much the same manner of a ship on the water. This accounts for the waves in the ground familiar when earthquake shocks are in progress. It seems to me beyond a doubt that the theory is a true one and will have a great effect on science, as it will revolutionize the theory of wave motion. The whole lecture, in which Milne expressed this great theory, took only about six minutes."

Elihu Root, Secretary of State, used to be a golf player. He was one of the founders of the Nassau Club. He gave up playing golf when he went to Washington and began riding horseback. The President says golf is a "grandmother's game."

No blame is attached to Baritasa, the men being fast friends and engaged in merriment when the accident occurred.

FIGHTING RUSSIANS.

As the result of several general fights in the Russian quarter near Vignes and Turner streets last night, M. Besaujoff, living at No. 519 Banning street, was attacked and brutally beaten. M. Bolkoff was arrested on the charge of battery and is detained in the City Jail. Besaujoff sustained a severe laceration of the scalp and was sent to the Receiving Hospital. The fight was only one of a number that have taken place in that district in the past few days and the police fear more serious trouble.

SAVED THE WOMAN.

Police intervened just in time to prevent a general riot and possibly another murder yesterday afternoon in the Mexican court near Bellevue and Buena Vista streets. Following a quarrel between P. Garcia and a Mexican woman, Garcia chased the woman about for several minutes threatening to kill her with a knife he held in his hand. Other cholos were attracted to the scene of the disturbance and began to take the woman's part. The police officers arrested Garcia and quelled the disturbance.

FAINTS WHEN PHOTOGRAPHED.

Democratic Candidate for Governor While Posing as a Speaker Was Overcome—Does Not Think It a Bad Omen—Says Langdon Indorsers Withdraw Their Names.

Theodore A. Bell, Democratic candidate for the Governorship, finds campaigning rather strenuous, and suffered from a severe breakdown yesterday morning.

He was taken to Marceau's photographic establishment to sit for a series of "characteristic poses." The sitting was not so bad, but when he stood up, he was taken with a fainting spell, and only the strong arms of his friends prevented him from failing to the floor.

Mr. Bell talked with a Times reporter at the Hollenbeck last night, and, though ruddy of cheek and clear in eye, said that he is not in the best of health.

"I do not know what was the matter at Marceau's," he said. "It was the first time in my life that I ever fainted. They took me there to have my picture taken in some of the attitudes of a speaker. While I was standing there, I suddenly felt that my head was going to hit the ceiling, and I nearly keeled over. Every time I stood up the dizziness came over me, and it took about an hour and a half to get the pictures taken. I am trying to break up a bad cold, contracted in the night ride from Ocean Park yesterday, and have been taking a good deal of quinine."

Candidate Bell disclaimed that there is a bad omen in his feeling that his head was "going to hit the ceiling." He laughed at the suggestion, saying: "No, you may say for me that I am sure that I will be elected. I realize that I am tackling the Republican stronghold of California, and I have a hard two weeks' campaign mapped out. This cold is handicapping me, but I shall try to break it up tonight with quinine."

Bell said further: "I understand that a petition carrying 750 signatures has been filed with the Secretary of State, asking that the names of the petitioners be withdrawn from the list submitted in the Langdon petition. The signers claim that they signed the Langdon petition under a misrepresentation." Bell did not state exactly what this misrepresentation was, but some of the petitioners claim that their names were never given for the Langdon petition.

Joe Simons, Milton Young and others took Bell about the city yesterday afternoon in an automobile on a sight-seeing trip. Tonight Bell will speak at San Pedro.

WOUNDED HIMSELF.

In an attempt to shoot a snake, while walking through Griffith Park late yesterday, J. A. Masser, No. 2224 A street, Edendale, shot himself in the left wrist. Mrs. Masser and Miss Bessie Peterson assisted Masser to a doctor's house in Glendale and then to his home. A physician was called to the house and attempted to extract the bullet from Masser's hand, but he would not allow the doctor to do so. He was then sent to the Receiving Hospital in charge of the police. Masser is a machinist employed at Tenth and Main streets.

Running With Water That Is Past

In one sense our mill does run with water that is past. Every time we correct a mistake or take back an unsatisfactory garment, we turn past failure into present prestige.

Remember that every garment that goes out of our establishment must be all right or we will make it right, although we have to make an entire new Suit, or an entire new Overcoat, or an entire new Pair of Trousers for you. Fabric must be right—fit must be right—fashion must be right.

We are not satisfied until you are satisfied.
